TWO BIG GARAGES GRANTED

Aldermen Grant Permits to A. T. Stuart and Newton Motor Sales Co. for Garages on Washington St.

At the regular meeting of the board of aldermen on Monday night the major interest outside of the presentation of the annual budget which is printed in another column, was in the hearings held on permits for two 150-car garages, one in Newton and one in Newtonville. Subsequently both of these permits were granted.

Judge Thomas Weston, representing Albert T. Stuart, appeared in regard to the permit for a 150-car garage to be erected on Washington St., Wd. 1, upon the site of the old Stanton House which has recently been torn down. The judge stated that the property was located in the business zone which the board had established last year. If the proposition was to erect a row of stores it would not be necessary to appear before the board for a permit, but since the erection of a garage was contemplated he appeared to ask the board's approval. Judge Weston laid plans of the project before the board and also filed the written approval of the two abutting owners, George H. Graves, on the north, and Ellis H. Freedy, on the west, who also owns an 8-foot right of way between the proposed garage and the adjoining property. The project also had the approval of Patrick Powers who owns land one lot removed from the garage site. The judge also said that he had been informed that neither the Pomeroy Home, on Hovey St., nor Mr. John Flood, who resides on the easterly corner of Washington and Hovey streets were opposed to the project. The front of the garage was to be used for display purposes and the rear for storage. Judge Weston informed the board that there was only one other garage in ward one on Washington street and only two in ward seven east of Nonantum square, and that a new garage in the vicinity was a clearly demonstrated public necessity.

The promoters of the project did not propose to put the garage on the westerly lot line but were planning to leave an eight-foot right of way between the building and the property owned by Mr. L. J. Budding. The garage site had been purchased after the zoning ordinance had been passed and Judge Weston said that he felt the board, by placing this district in the business zone, meant that they would be inclined to look favorably upon such a project. He also said that Mr. Stuart did not intend to tear down the house on the corner of Hovey Street which is known as the Emerson estate.

Elderly Harry B. Ross, an attorney, appeared as the representative of Mr. L. J. Budding in opposition to the granting of the permit to Mr. Stuart. Mr. Ross said that Mr. Budding had owned his property on Washington Street for about sixteen years, that the erection of the contemplated garage would be a detriment to it. He said that the city had spent ten or twelve thousand dollars to provide a parking space for automobiles, whose owners were shopping in Newton or attending the theatre there, and that these persons would not patronize the new garage for parking space as the judge had indicated. Mr. Ross also brought to the board's attention the fact that they had invariably turned down petitions for garages on Washington Street and that the district in the vicinity was still largely residential. Mr. Freedy, he said, had purchased the 8-foot right of way in order that he would have access to his property, which fronts on Jewett Street, from Washington Street. In closing, Mr. Ross stated that the erection of a garage would cut the market value of near-by property in half.

Mr. John Flood appeared to state that he was not opposed to the garage provided that the gasoline pumps were in the building and not out on the sidewalk. Later the board granted the permit.

The 150-car garage in Newtonville was favored by Mr. Ira Roe, who represented the Newton Motor Sales Co. of West Newton. Mr. Roe said that the front of this garage was to be built of tapestry brick with large plate-glass windows and would be used as a show room, and the rear was to be of plain brick and would be used as a service station. The project was not, in the strict sense, a public garage as the showroom and service station would close at 5 P. M. daily. The Sales company was not interested in the sale of gasoline to transients, but as they used more than 150 gallons daily in their own cars and in cars of service customers, a pump was a necessity. This pump, however, was to be located inside of the building which was to be one story in height, 130 ft. deep, and 70 feet wide. It will be placed 20 feet from the Pratt laboratory and will have an entrance on that side about 35 feet back from the sidewalk. The large plate glass windows will allow both pedestrians and motorists leaving the garage to see each other. The business of the company is to sell Ford parts and give service to Ford drivers. The city does a large business with the company, and the old quarters in West Newton have been outgrown. Last winter the company handled 80 used cars and 70 new cars, renting five old barns around West Newton to care for them.

A telephone message from Thomas Kenney, representing the Morse estate, in which he wished to go on record as opposed to the garage was received. The hearing was then closed, and the board later granted the permit.

Mr. M. D. Smith appeared in favor of the order to lay out Hamlin Road under the betterment law. Mr. C. W. Williams appeared in favor of the laying out of Evergreen avenue. These orders and an order widening Hartford Street, ward 5, were referred to the committee on Public Works.

The following jurors were drawn for duty next month: Arthur W. Porter, Jewett St.; Charles Chaisson, Faxon St.; Metcalf W. Melcher, Saxon Terrace; Neals Joseph, Cherry Street; John F. Leary, Boylston St.; G. Albert A. Morse, Fairfax St.; Thomas J. Bradley, Webster St.; John D. Mahan, Adams St.; Donald D. Williams, Central St.; Louis Michman, Adams St.; Edwin F. Gibbs, Lake Ave.; Winsor G. Sampson, Rockwood Terrace.

The following appointments were confirmed: Ralph C. Henry, member of the playground commission; James A. Waters, chairman of the registrar of voters for 3 years; assistant assessors, Timothy D. Murphy, Marcus A. G. Meads, Hugh S. Boyd, Joseph B. Robinson, Eugene Milliken, Stewart A. Paterson, John Finelli, Frederick L. Smith, Walter A. Hodgdon, W. Clarence Lodge, Edwin T. Ramsdell, Warner R. Holt, Charles E. Libby, Anthony P. Tedesco.

1925 BUDGET LARGER

Mayor Childs submitted the budget for 1925 to the board of aldermen at the fifth regular meeting last Monday night. The estimates from the various city departments aggregate $3,754,114, and the Mayor recommends a total of $3,637,085, which is an increase of about $70,000 over the 1924 budget. The budget was referred to the finance committee.

The major increases are in the accounting, treasury, police, fire, health, charity, library, school, playground, and street departments. The law, city, clerk, and water departments have all asked for less money than was appropriated to them last year. Last year the law department was awarded an appropriation of $20,265, whereas this year they have requested only $7,450. This decrease is due to the fact that last year, land for the playgrounds in Upper Falls and Newton Highlands and the Byfield case cost the city over $10,000. The decrease in the city clerk department is shown in the item of Election Expenses, where the department has asked for only half of their appropriation of $6,000 which was given them last year. The decrease in the water department is largely due to the expenditure last year of over $5,000 for additional water supply.

The accounting department asks for an increase of $2,000, which is largely due to the employment of an accountant in that department. It is interesting to note that pensions for police and laborers have decreased a little.

The increase in the treasury department is due to the larger amount needed for Serial bonds and interest on Temporary loans.

It is interesting to note that in the building department $135,000 was requested for maintenance of school buildings which is an increase of over $55,000 above the appropriation last year. The Mayor however recommends an appropriation of $109,000, which is an increase of about $60,000. This item is offset, however, by the expenditure, last year, of $1,000 odd for alterations in the high school, making the total estimate of the buildings department about the same. The Mayor recommends a total of $188,600 for this department, which reduces the appropriations made last year by $32,000.

In the Police department an increase of about $17,000 is caused by the request of a new Cadillac ambulance and the addition of patrolmen to the force. The Mayor has approved the addition of six men to the force, which is half the number asked by the department.

An increase of about $14,000 in the fire department has been approved by the Mayor, although a request for about $35,000 increase had been made. This increase is largely due to the items regarding two new pieces of apparatus, the addition of one captain and ten firemen to the force, of which the Mayor has approved one new piece of apparatus and one captain and five additional firemen.

The increase of $10,000 in the request of the Health department is largely due to an item for the protection of child life and care of disease which the Mayor has approved, and which contributes about $7,000 of the increase.

READ FUND LECTURE

On Thursday night in the Hunnewell Club, Newton, Dr. Edward Howard Griggs gave the second lecture in his course before an enthusiastic audience, many of whom were High School students who availed themselves of this opportunity to hear the noted lecturer.

After touching lightly upon "As You Like It," as a return to nature which followed Shakespeare's ten historical plays, and calling attention to the vein of cynicism running through this play, Dr. Griggs introduced the subject of the evening, Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar."

This play is the first of the great tragedies, the others being Hamlet, King Lear, Othello, and Antony and Cleopatra. In this play, Shakespeare turns from English history to world history, and deals with the "most instructive single chapter in the world's history up to that time," namely, the change in the history of Rome from Republic to Empire.

The conflict of this play is between the dying spirit of the Republic and the dawning spirit of the Empire and the unity of the play lies in this struggle. The keynote, as in all of Shakespeare's great plays, is struck in the opening scene where we see the Roman mob. It is the attitude of this mob which leads to the tragedy.

The first puzzle of the play is the character of Julius Caesar. In his other works, Shakespeare has shown Caesar as a man of strength and power; here, he is made a weakling. Some critics have thought this was to make Brutus's act seem more justifiable.

The second puzzle is the character of Brutus, the hero of the play. Brutus is a pure idealist, a Stoic living his stoicism, but not understanding the world in which he lives.

"To be virtuous," according to Dr. Griggs, "you must not only mean well, but you must do well. It is as necessary to see the right as to do it. No man has the right to move the pawns of Life unless he understands Life."

In contrast to Brutus, Cassius understands men. Had Brutus followed Cassius's advice, all would have been well. Cassius in his appeal to Brutus to join the conspirators, shows keen insight into Brutus's character. Cassius is the "Ward Boss" lifted to world dimensions, "the man of opportunity." Cassius understood clearly that if the Republic were to die, Mark Antony as well as Caesar must also die. Brutus failed to see this.

The speaker called attention to the absolute consistency of Shakespeare's characters, a consistency too often lacking in modern literature. He said that Caesar's yielding to the flattery of Decius Brutus in going to the senate house and to his death, was in keeping with Caesar's character.

Mark Antony he characterized as a "world adventurer" with all of the Roman virtues, courage, generosity, love of fair play, etc., and none of the moral virtues.

Brutus's famous oration is unemotional, an appeal to the reason of his hearers; Antony's, on the other hand, is a frank appeal to the emotions and passions of his audience.

The speaker said that Mark Antony's speech should be studied carefully by every High School student because in it he uses the arguments used by every demagogue since the

AN UNUSUAL ADDRESS

It is seldom that so little theory and so many practical suggestions for the training of children have been combined in one address as in that given by Dr. Charles N. Arbuckle at the Y. M. C. A. Hall in Newton recently. Dr. Arbuckle spoke in part as follows:

"Young People and the Home" is a subject on which everyone has opinions and no one has infallible knowledge. People today are asking the question "What is the matter with the young people?" and I always reply, "The same thing that is the matter with the middle-aged and the old people. Young people are not alone in their faults. Change has come over our times."

Dr. Arbuckle compared the conventional "lady-like" girl of the last generation, who closed her eyes to the evils of her day, with a fearless young friend who saw the evil and fought to right it. "The girls of today have no illusions, and it is better so. There is an element of frankness in this generation which is really fine. Many things of today are alarming but the young people need our sympathy rather than our censure."

"The youth of today are not in revolt, they have been born into a freedom which is too much for them. They must be taught that freedom is a great thing, but that it must be a controlled freedom. Boys and girls must be taught that they live in a world of law. Freedom does not mean to do as you please, but to obey laws. The mind has to be developed according to the laws of the mind and the spiritual life according to the laws of the spirit."

Dr. Arbuckle said he would rather talk about babies than young people because it is to them that obedience to law should be taught. A baby is trained to obey laws by regular hours for feeding, sleeping, and going out-of-doors. When the convenience of a selfish mother upsets this regularity, baby's howls means, "What sort of a world is this where laws are broken?"

The vanity of a mother bringing out to baby his cap and coat on a stormy day just to show off his delighted smile for the benefit of a visitor, cruelly regardless of baby's disappointment, provokes also the howl of "What sort of a world do I live in?" And soon baby learns, too, that howls hurry the bottle or help him to break the laws of his world. Law must be taught all along the way.

Remember that youth in the "teens" has to be treated like adults. One must understand their problems. They are idealist and very critical. They are critical because it expresses them; it gives them a sense of importance; and critical because they lack experience. They think they can do everything. They are very romantic. One must be sympathetic and teach them that life is grander than youth dreams. One must teach them a religion that squares with the scientific teaching of today. Teach them what they will have to meet before college days begin. When young people look to their parents for intellectual and spiritual companionship they must not be disappointed. Confidence and companionship must be cultivated from the very beginning.

The channel of communication between young people and the home must be always kept open.

$50 FOR AN IDEA

Can You Think of Something Whereby the Graphic Can Better the Home Life of Newton?

The Graphic will pay $50 for a reasonable idea that can be used to help better the home life of Newton. This award will take the form of thirteen cash prizes to be given away free in a Better Newton contest to be conducted by the Graphic under the auspices of the Home Beautiful and Building Trades Exposition to be held in Mechanics Building from April 25 to May 2 and under the direction of the Newton Women's Club.

This contest will be strictly in keeping with the Graphic's editorial policy and will be open to every reader. The rules will be simple with very few restrictions. Details will be announced in next week's issue. Watch for them and prepare to take part in this contest for civic improvement. In the meantime be thinking about home conditions in sections of the town where improvements can be brought about. Here will be a chance to bring your pet theories to the attention of everybody.

A chain is no stronger than its weakest link. Just so a city is no stronger than its weakest link. Anything that can improve the domestic life cannot help but react favorably upon the city as a whole.

BOY SCOUTS

During the past three years quite a few persons have contributed to the building of a cabin for the scouts of troop 11, Newton Corner, one quite large contribution being made by the Woman's Auxiliary of this troop. Unfortunately an accurate record of the contributors has not been maintained and it wishes to make an accounting and report progress on the work. Will those who contributed, therefore, kindly send their names and addresses to Scout Headquarters, 123 Jewett street, Newton, in order that a report be mailed to them?

At the meeting of the Council Thursday evening, February 26th, the legal formalities were carried out to transfer the assets and liabilities of the Norumbega Council to "Norumbega Council, Incorporated" and elect officers for the coming year. The same officers announced as elected for the Council in December were elected except Mr. Clarence A. Bunker, Vice-president, who has resigned from membership in the Council. The Commissioner, Mr. Jerome M. Carley, asked the Council to approve the nomination of the following members of his staff:

Deputy Commissioners, Marshall I. Stone of Newton Centre and Everett W. Varney of Boston, Assistant Deputy Commissioners, Mr. John M. Woodbridge, Jr. of Newton, Mr. Richard Brown of Brookline, and Mr. Chas. H. Woodworth of Newton, the latter for the Court of Honor. All of these gentlemen are well known. Messrs. Stone and Varney served as Deputies last year and both have been long in the scout work. Mr. Woodbridge was scout, assistant scoutmaster, scoutmaster and member of Troop Commission in troop 11, Newton in addition to serving a year as secretary of the Council. Mr. Richard Brown was formerly an officer in the Council and was Scout Executive in 1923-1924. Mr. Woodworth was the first in scouting in Newton Corner and has been faithful and enthusiastic in the work for years. Mr. Woodbridge's territory will be Newton, Nonantum and later, Newtonville, while Mr. Brown will care for Auburndale and West Newton.

Another Eagle Scout has qualified in Newton, Edward Searns of troop 7, West Newton. His application goes to New York this week and it is expected that the badge will be awarded in the latter part of the month at a public meeting.

Norumbega Council, Inc., is very proud of Fred Hill of troop 4 of Newton Highlands, who remembered his

AWARDED MEDAL

Fred Hill, a member of the freshman class at the Newton High School, and a Boy Scout in troop 4 of Newton Highlands, was awarded a medal by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals for his heroism in rescuing a dog from drowning in Crystal Lake, February 21.

Dr. Francis H. Rowley, the president of the society, made the award at an assembly of the freshman class on Monday at the high school. Principal Irving O. Palmer introduced Mr. Rowley and as the medal was pinned onto young Hill, who is sixteen years old, his classmates gave him a resounding cheer.

W. C. T. U.

SCHOOL NOTES

Edited by DOROTHY DRAKE

The F. A. Day Junior High School

Through the efforts of Mr. Carr and Mr. Polman, the school was able to "Listen in" to the inaugural address Wednesday in the Assembly hall. Mr. Carr's radio was installed with an outside antenna on the school roof. We are indebted to the Garden City Radio Company for the power amplifier. It was a good test of one's aural ability. The marine band was distinctly heard as well as were some of the costumes of the waiters. Mrs. W. E. Leonard was chairman of the luncheon, and Mrs. A. H. Holmberg of the serving committee.

Preceding the luncheon and following it, work was done on the choir vestments. At noon the members had the pleasure of "listening in" on President Coolidge's inaugural address, the radio being that of Mr. Fred Rugg.

Mrs. William Allen, the President, presided. After the business meeting, she introduced Mrs. Sherwood Eddy, who spoke on "Changes in India."

Mrs. Eddy is a speaker of rare charm, and her audience listened spellbound to her account of the women of the Orient. "If American mothers are finding it hard to understand their own daughters, think what must be the feelings of Oriental mothers, of the Chinese mother, the Japanese mother, the Indian mother as their girls insist upon greater freedom!" said she.

The freedom of the American woman is causing a revolution in Japan where the Japanese often confuses freedom with license. A touch of humor Mrs. Eddy said that the Japanese women are pitying the hard working American husband.

In India the girls are eagerly studying domestic science, which they are applying to their own problems. The girls of India are splendid material mentally. The greatest difficulty the teachers have is to keep them from overworking.

The Indian woman, too, is naturally religious, but her religious instincts have been turned in the wrong direction. She needs guidance mentally and spiritually.

Paris women are particularly intelligent. One family which had been Christian contributed three noble women who have devoted themselves to lives of Christian service, one as a lawyer, one as a teacher, and the third in charge of a Christian hospital.

The speaker touched upon the unrest at present in India, and stated that in her belief the longing of the people of that country for self government would soon be realized.

It was interesting to learn that in Egypt there are clubs for women, and that in Cairo, one of Egypt's most famous sculptors is about to erect a monument to Egypt's awakening, showing the sphinx coming to life at the touch of a woman.

We, in America, are wont to pride ourselves on our education; and it came as a matter of surprise to some of us to find that Japan is far ahead of us in education. The Japanese are a reserved people, trained to be so.

Mrs. Eddy made a strong plea to those of us who have homes to invite Japanese and other foreigners into them and thus show them what American home life means, meeting them, if necessary, more than half way.

She concluded her most inspiring talk with a touching account of a young, highly educated Japanese girl who having committed a crime and being thrown into prison for it, was finally converted to Christianity, and became a power for good.

The meeting was very well attended, and every one present felt well repaid for coming.

HUNNEWELL CLUB

One of the most enjoyable of the recent concerts at the Hunnewell Club was held last Sunday with The Stanley Trio and the Pilgrim Male Quartet as artists.

The program included many well known selections; notable the "Cross Bow Song" from Robin Hood so popular a generation ago.

Miss Monahan and her assistants played with accuracy and feeling, and the Pilgrim Male Quartet, long one of Boston's favorites, were in splendid form.

The last number "The Lost Chord," with both Stanley Trio and the Pilgrim Male Quartet, was especially fine.

The attendance proved the popularity of these concerts which are becoming neighborhood affairs.

The tea which followed was in charge of Mrs. Carl Pierce who was assisted by Mrs. Carl Thorndike, Mrs. Warren Gregory, and Mrs. Edward Loring.

The last musicale of the season will be on Sunday, March 22d.

ST. JAMES THEATRE - Pollyanna, the "glad play," dramatized by Catherine Chisholm Cushing from the popular novel by the late Eleanor H. Porter, will be presented next week by the Boston Stock Company at the St. James Theatre.

Elsie Hitz, talented leading lady of the company will play "Pollyanna," the role originally essayed by Patricia Collinge; Anna Layng and Louis Leon Hall will be seen as "Dolly Harrington" (Pollyanna's aunt) and Doctor Chilton, roles first played by Effie Shannon and the late Herbert Kecey. Bernard Nedell is cast as "John Pendleton"; and Houston Richards as "Jimmy Bean" (Gleenn Hunter originally had this role). Director Godfrey has cast the remainder of the company exceptionally well.

WOMAN'S ASSOCIATION OF CENTRAL CHURCH

The March luncheon of the Woman's Association of Central Church, Newtonville, was held at the church on Wednesday. The table decorations, potted plants, candles, napkins, etc., were in green, as were some of the costumes of the waiters. Mrs. W. E. Leonard was chairman of the luncheon, and Mrs. A. H. Holmberg of the serving committee.

Preceding the luncheon and following it, work was done on the choir vestments. At noon the members had the pleasure of "listening in" on President Coolidge's inaugural address, the radio being that of Mr. Fred Rugg.

Mrs. William Allen, the President, presided. After the business meeting, she introduced Mrs. Sherwood Eddy, who spoke on "Changes in India."

Mrs. Eddy is a speaker of rare charm, and her audience listened spellbound to her account of the women of the Orient. "If American mothers are finding it hard to understand their own daughters, think what must be the feelings of Oriental mothers, of the Chinese mother, the Japanese mother, the Indian mother as their girls insist upon greater freedom!" said she.

The freedom of the American woman is causing a revolution in Japan where the Japanese often confuses freedom with license. A touch of humor Mrs. Eddy said that the Japanese women are pitying the hard working American husband.

In India the girls are eagerly studying domestic science, which they are applying to their own problems. The girls of India are splendid material mentally. The greatest difficulty the teachers have is to keep them from overworking.

The Indian woman, too, is naturally religious, but her religious instincts have been turned in the wrong direction. She needs guidance mentally and spiritually.

Paris women are particularly intelligent. One family which had been Christian contributed three noble women who have devoted themselves to lives of Christian service, one as a lawyer, one as a teacher, and the third in charge of a Christian hospital.

The speaker touched upon the unrest at present in India, and stated that in her belief the longing of the people of that country for self government would soon be realized.

It was interesting to learn that in Egypt there are clubs for women, and that in Cairo, one of Egypt's most famous sculptors is about to erect a monument to Egypt's awakening, showing the sphinx coming to life at the touch of a woman.

We, in America, are wont to pride ourselves on our education; and it came as a matter of surprise to some of us to find that Japan is far ahead of us in education. The Japanese are a reserved people, trained to be so.

Mrs. Eddy made a strong plea to those of us who have homes to invite Japanese and other foreigners into them and thus show them what American home life means, meeting them, if necessary, more than half way.

She concluded her most inspiring talk with a touching account of a young, highly educated Japanese girl who having committed a crime and being thrown into prison for it, was finally converted to Christianity, and became a power for good.

The meeting was very well attended, and every one present felt well repaid for coming.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

Four automobile accidents took place on Sunday due in most cases to the wet streets. While none of the accidents resulted in fatalities four people were slightly injured.

Sunday morning a touring car owned by Mr. James F. Whittier, in which he and his wife were riding, struck a milk truck owned by Robert J. MacAdoo of Waltham, and driven by him. The collision took place at the corner of Chestnut and Berkeley streets, West Newton. Both machines were slightly damaged, and Mrs. J. F. Whittier and Richard J. MacAdoo, the helper on the milk truck, were cut and bruised.

Shortly after 2 P. M., an automobile owned and operated by F. E. Carter, of Virginia road, West Newton, was in collision with an automobile owned and operated by A. L. Hartridge, of Somerset road, West Newton, at the junction of Chestnut and Hampshire streets, West Newton. Little Carol Hartridge, the nine-year old daughter of Mr. Hartridge, was cut about the face and lips. James E. Esson of Berkeley street took her to her home where she was treated by Doctors Fisher and Nutter. Both machines were quite badly damaged.

In the evening about 6.30 P. M., an automobile owned by W. J. Coffin of Mendon was sideswiped by an automobile owned and operated by J. T. Flag of Brookline at the corner of Washington and Waltham streets, West Newton. Flag was coming out of Waltham street and Coffin was going towards Newtonville when the collision occurred. Flag was cut over the left ear, and after being treated by Dr. Lowe, drove home. Henry Rockwood, who was riding in Coffin's machine hurt his nose, but refused medical attention. Both automobiles were able to proceed.

Later on, about 10 P. M., an automobile owned by W. H. Beeder of Quincy struck and injured F. H. Hooper, a fireman at the pumping station, of Upper Falls as he was on his way home on a bicycle on Needham St. Mr. Hooper was taken back to the pumping station from which he was taken to the hospital in the ambulance.

TRACK MEET

At the Harvard interscholastic track meet at Mechanics building last Saturday afternoon the Newton high school track team finished in 8th place with a score of 3 points. W. Fullerton won his heat in the 45yd hurdles but had to be content with a tie with McLaughlin of Lynn for second in the finals. The relay team was beaten by the Boston High School of Commerce.

GIRL SCOUTS

Friday, February 27, was a red letter day girls of the Senior Troops of Newton. Troop III Seniors of Newton Centre invited the Senior Divisions of Troop I, Newtonville, and Troop V, West Newton and Troop XIV, which is now the Senior Troop in Waban, to the second of their Senior Rallies which was held at the Newton Centre Woman's Club.

At seven-thirty Captain Skipwith blew the whistle and the Scouts formed two lines the length of the hall and had the regular Scout opening, the saluting of the flag, singing the Star Spangled Banner and repeating the Scout Promise and Laws.

Then came the first contest of the evening, Morse Code signalling with Captain Collins sending the message by whistle and two girls from each Troop receiving it.

The next contest was a knot relay with four scouts on each team. No. 1 ran up to the officer, was blind-folded and told what knot to tie. After tying it she was unblindfolded an ran back to her team, numbers 2, 3, and 4 doing the same thing. The team getting through first and having the most knots correctly tied won the event.

The third event was the Semaphore signalling, four girls on a team. After the contests were run off, the girls formed in three sides and had two novelty relay races. Then the whistle blew and lines were formed the length of the hall and Captain Skipwith announced the winning teams and gave out the ribbons.

Morse Code: First Place, Troop XIV; Second Place, Troop III Seniors. Knot Relay: First Place, Troop V; Second Place, Troop XIV.

Semaphore: First Place, Troop III Seniors; Second Place, Troop V. Scout Elizabeth Plimpton then played Taps on the bugle, the girls sang, Day is done, gone the sun.

From the lakes, from the hills, from the sky. All is well, safely rest, God is nigh.

The judges for the evening were: Captain Laracome of Troop I; Captain Skipwith and Lieutenant Gould of Troop III Seniors; Captain Lovell and Lieutenant Fairbrother of Troop VII; Captain Collins of Troop XI and Captain Warren of Troop XIV.

There were about 65 people present, all of whom were greatly interested and everyone felt that the Rally was a great success. Virginia Gray, Scribe.

The regular Mid-winter Rally of the Newton Girl Scouts will be held in the Gymnasium of the Newton High School, Newtonville, on Saturday, March 7, at 2.30 o'clock. Admittance will be by ticket only. It is expected that twelve of the thirteen troops in the city will attend this Rally and that they will enter teams in the different competitive events.

Miss Emily Holbrook, the Director for the Metropolitan Division Girl Scouts, Miss Thelma Trott, Director for the Boston Council Girl Scouts, and Miss Ruth Bass, Field Captain for the same Council will be present and will help with judging the events. Mrs. Frank A. Day, Commissioner, will give out Medals and Rally Awards and Miss Jeanne Kenrick, Chairman of the Court of Awards will distribute the Merit Badges which have been earned by the Scouts.

Saturday morning, March 14, at ten o'clock at the Community Theatre spells "Treasure Island" for the Newton Girl Scouts and also many who are not Scouts. Those who have seen the picture before will be glad to see it again and those who have not, will welcome this opportunity of seeing it. The picture was put on a few years ago but has not been played lately and as it is very difficult to get the film it is not likely that it will be played here again. The proceeds of the performance will be used to name our Newton Girl Scout bed at the Children's Hospital for another year and for other Girl Scout interests. Candy will be sold at the performance. The famous horse-bound variety, the herb raised, and dried by the girls, will make its first appearance in Newton at this time. Everyone will want some.

The Girl Scout Bugle and Drum Corps will play during the program and some of the Girl Scouts songs will be sung.

Newspaper reading is a universal habit, therefore newspaper advertising virtually reaches each day a great majority of those who buy.

Newspaper advertising is the lifeblood of local trade, because it touches all consumer sources in every community. It gives the National Advertiser the same opportunity for complete consumer appeal in any locality.

Newspaper advertising insures quick, thorough and economical dealer distribution and dealer good will, because retailers are willing to sell products advertised direct to their own customers.

Newspaper advertising enables manufacturers to tell where their products may be bought.

Newspaper advertising can be started or stopped overnight, can be prepared between days to meet sudden developments and to obtain immediate results.

Newspaper advertising enables manufacturers to check advertising results and costs in every market which they enter. Newspaper advertising costs less than any other kind.

One of the unfortunate things about the recent tragedy in that Kentucky cave is the false impression of the wonderful limestone caves in that state and elsewhere. Any one who has visited Mammoth Cave, or as the place should be called, "Mammoth Caves," will testify to the beauty, charm, safety and wholesomeness of that great series of caverns. Mud or moisture is almost unknown. There are few passages in the usual routes so small as to be uncomfortable to get through. There is no mustiness. Thanks to the limestone, the air is purer than most visitors have ever breathed. The freedom from all odor makes it a revelation to emerge from the cave on a summer day and realize, by contrast, the overwhelming odors of outside vegetation, which are ordinarily ignored.

The communication printed last week upon municipal golf is worthy of the attention of all citizens of our city. Surely, if steps were taken, it would be found that the consensus of opinion was in favor of such a project. Undoubtedly a public golf course would be used by a great number of residents who do not belong to any club at present. We look forward to the day when both young and old will be enjoying themselves upon a municipal golf course.

The weekly newspaper, unlike the metropolitan daily, has a peculiar place in the home. It becomes a part of the family, because its news stories concern the activities of the home town folks, and what deeper interest could be developed than among those with whom we live and move. The community is the ante-chamber of the home, and the weekly newspaper the avenue that leads from one to the other. Give to your newspaper cooperation.

Y. M. C. A.

Next Friday evening the Newton Y. M. C. A. swimmers will go to the Boston Y. M. C. A. to compete with the Boston Association whom they met last week at Newton and lost 26 to 23. In spite of the fact that the Boston swimmers are far superior to the Newton men, the meet was very close and interesting.

Perhaps the most surprising event was the relay which the Newton Y. M. C. A. men won—the time but one minute 24 4/5 seconds. Browning, the New Eng. Champion diver, easily won that event with Arthur Baird and Millard 2nd and third. In the back stroke Kiebaum beat out Millard of Newton, and in the 100 Smith and Baker beat Millard and Kimball. In the breast stroke Patterson won over Millard, and in the 200 Carney of Boston and Perry and Clark of Newton swam an unusually close and interesting race, Clark leading for the first four laps, Perry then taking the lead, with Carney trailing all the way until the last lap he sprinted and beat out Perry by a foot, Clark finishing third.

Brookline defeated Newton Y. M. C. A. Saturday night 34 to 30 in a game during which the lead sawsawed from one team to another after the first period. During the first period Newton easily showed her superiority first by running up six field goals before Brookline scored after which the visitors rallied and tied the score and from then on it was an even battle. Cunningham, Wellman, Irving, and Gray starred for the home team.

Rev. Henry A. Arnold's talk on "Ideas" to the members of the Fellowship Club last Monday evening was much appreciated. Next week Mr. John W. Woodbridge will speak to the members of the Club taking as his subject "A Day at Muldoon's."

The first round of the bowling tournament has been finished and the second round begins on Monday, March 9th. The team composed of Messrs. Cooper, Tucker, Haynes, Macpherson, and Chase are leading. The team of which Fred Trowbridge is Captain is in second place. Others members of the team are L. Trowbridge, R. Lamb, H. Woodward, and H. W. Bascom.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

As was expected, the Legislature put in two busy days on Monday and Tuesday but took things easy the rest of this week. In fact the Senate adjourned from Tuesday until to-day. The reason for this general "let down" was the fact that many of the members of the General Court journeyed to Washington to witness the inauguration of President Coolidge.

Action is expected next week—and not before that time—on a number of petitions for changes in the laws governing elections. The Committee on Election Laws has reported reference to the next annual session on the following:

Petition of Frank H. Foss, chairman of the Republican State Committee, that provision be made for the nomination by State conventions of political parties of candidates for certain State offices to be filled by the voters of the Commonwealth.

Petition of John C. Brimblecom of Newton for the nomination in political conventions of candidates for certain State offices.

Petition of Charles H. Pearson that provision be made for the nomination by conventions of candidates of political parties to be voted for at State elections.

Petition of Roland D. Sawyer for the nomination by State political conventions of candidates for the office of Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Treasurer and Receiver-General, State Auditor and Attorney-General.

It will be observed that these differ in some respects but are intended one way or another to accomplish the same end, that of providing that the State ticket, excepting the Governor and Lieutenant-Governor, shall be nominated at party conventions.

There is certain to be an attempt to have the committee reports set aside and at least one of these measures substituted. Just how far the attempt will get remains to be seen.

The move to bring about biennial sessions of the Legislature is on in earnest but it is doubtful if it is successful. That subject, too, has been put over until next week. The Committee on Constitutional Law, to which the matter was referred, has voted "leave to withdraw" on the petition of Senator Eben S. Draper of Hopdale providing for biennial sessions. There are five dissenters, Senator Bacon of Boston and Representative Hall of Springfield, Keith of Brockton, Holden of Attleboro and MacGregor of Haverhill.

The same committee has reported reference to the next annual session on that part of Gov. Fuller's inaugural address in which he recommended the establishment of biennial sessions.

Praise is due the Joint Committee on Ways and Means for its handling of the general appropriation bill, commonly known as the State budget. The bill provides for the expenditure of $45,669,192. This amount does not include the Metropolitan District Commission appropriation which is $2,885,545.

In the general appropriation bill, the committee has increased Governor Fuller's recommendations by about $700,000. These increases were for the industrial shops for the blind in Cambridge, reforestation, fighting gypsy moth, one year of a building program for the Northampton State Hospital and increasing the amount for the new State normal school at Bridgewater.

The larger amount, or that favored by the committee, is not expected to raise the State tax above $12,000,000—the amount set by Governor Fuller—as there are certain reserve funds and other sources from which the committee expects to make up the $700,000. Action on this bill is expected next week.

The Legislature, it appears, is not disposed to interfere in the differences between Mayor Curley of Boston and Police Commissioner Wilson. The House has rejected two important measures affecting the Boston Police Department. One sought to limit the pay of the policemen and another gave the Police Commissioner authority to appoint one hundred additional officers without the approval of the Mayor. When these bills were filed it was no doubt thought by the proponents that a Republican Legislature would be friendly to them. They argued that it would break the deadlock existing between the Mayor and the Police Commissioner. The latter, as is well known, has insisted that the Mayor's attitude in refusing to grant the police more pay and to appoint more men has greatly hampered his work. The Republican leaders, as it turned out, were not in sympathy with the bills. They contended that the Legislature had no right to interfere in Boston matters. There was no little surprise expressed by the friends of the bill who felt that Commissioner Wilson is not only an admirable official but also a staunch Republican. Nevertheless the bills went down to defeat.

There was considerable interest in the action of the Senate Tuesday on the bill giving police the authority to remove obstructions in places suspected of being used for the illegal keeping and selling of liquor. Opponents of the measure contended that it was "a move of the Anti-Saloon League." The proponents of the bill among the Senators replied that it was petitioned for by the Chiefs of Police of the State and that its passage was most vital in order to bring about a more vigorous enforcement of the prohibition law. A hostile amendment was adopted and then the bill was rejected by the Senate by a rollcall vote of eleven yeas and twenty nays, refusing to order the bill to a third reading. Senator Rice was recorded as voting for the bill.

Representative Hollis made his first speech before the House in seeking to have substituted for an adverse committee report the bill on petition of the Federation of State, City and Town Employees, by A. Leslie Moriarty of Newton, relative to the pensions of foremen, inspectors, mechanics, draftsmen and storekeepers in municipal employ. As is customary when a new member addresses the House loud applause followed Mr. Hollis' remarks. He argued that a great injustice had been done the men of these grades of city employees whose pensions were not increased when the others were. A number of well-known Republicans supported Mr. Hollis, but they did not include his Newton colleagues. The House chairman of the Committee on Social Welfare, which reported against the bill, explained that the committee did not approve of the measure. By a standing vote of 45 yeas and 102 nays Mr. Hollis' motion to substitute was lost.

The three Newton representatives voted to sustain Governor Fuller in his vetoes on three pension bills. The measures were returned by the Governor without his approval on the ground that they "violated the essential principles of the retirement system" and would leave "the field open for numerous similar requests." Continuing the Governor, in his message, said that either the retirement system is wrong or the proposed bills were wrong. He also declared, "The retirement system is for the many. This legislation is for individuals and an entire system should not be set aside so lightly as is proposed in these bills." There was an attempt, made largely by the Boston Democrats, to override the vetoes. It was clear, however, that the Governor had made a complete study of the bills and also possessed a clear comprehension of the efforts of those behind the bill. One of these measures had to do with a Boston policeman who had been injured in the course of duty. It had more friends than the other two which dealt with two other public employees, one of the City of Boston, and one of Suffolk County. In the past, similar efforts have been made annually to put through these special bills. Notwithstanding the fact they seldom "get by" those who enact such legislation seem not to learn the lesson but strive each year to see if they can "put it over." Newton, however, is never a party to this kind of politics.

LODGES

On Friday, March 6th, the Newton Lodge No. 92, I. O. O. F., is to hold a bowling contest for the purpose of selecting a team to represent the Lodge in contests with other I. O. O. F. bodies nearby. The committee headed by the Vice-Grand Ed Fornkall assisted by the very much in evidence Doug Furbush is anxious to have a large crowd so that a real representative team can be organized. We'll need a good one to beat some of the Lodges that have signified their intentions of giving Newton a trimming. If you don't bowl come and see the fun anyway. It's worth going a long way to see Doug Furbush heave a ball down the Alleys. The three alleys at the Odd Fellows Hall at Northgate Park have just been put into first class condition and 'tis said that a couple of string mowers and a will keep the pod from being so much in evidence.

On Saturday evening, March 7th, the third of a series of dances will be held at the new Odd Fellows Hall at Northgate Park, West Newton. The first two dances, held in February, were very well attended and many expressions of pleasure and having had a good time were heard. Good music will be provided and refreshments will be served and it is hoped by the committee headed by that peppy individual, Bill Fowler, that there will be many new faces present to help swell the crowd enthusiasm and proceeds. The date of the next two dances was shown as March 14th and 28th in the Association paper, The Lodge. The committee would appreciate it if all the friends of the Association would advertise the fact that these dates are March 7th and 21st.

Last Thursday night was Past Exalted Ruler's Night at Newton Lodge of Elks, and the chairs were filled by past officers of the lodge during the initiation of candidates. The past exalted rulers in the various stations were Mayor Edwin O. Childs, Charles S. Ensign, Jr., Malcolm P. McKinnon, Bancroft L. Goodwin, George M. Cox, John Wood, Richard Lyons. A lodge sorrow was held for the late Henry W. Crowell, president of the Highland Mills, a former alderman and captain of Co. A of the State Guard, who died February 20. The eulogy was delivered by a life-long friend, Mayor Edwin O. Childs, and an American flag more than 20 feet in length was presented to the lodge by Dr. Michael Chirurg on behalf of Mr. Crowell. When Mr. Crowell was on his death bed he requested permission of the lodge to present it with the flag. Following the presentation of the flag "The Star Spangled Banner" was played by the orchestra, and the members of the lodge stood in silence for a minute in honor of the departed brother.

The annual election will be held on March 12 and as has been the custom of Newton Lodge, an old-fashioned election will be held with the polls opened at 4:45 and closing at 9 o'clock. With the withdrawal of Burt M. Richter from his position as a candidate for the position of secretary for this position, Frank Wilcox, Clifford Haskell, Joseph N. Shafer and Richard T. Leahy. For the position of trustee for three years Harry H. Hawkins and William J. Doherty have been nominated. The third contest on the ballot is for the position of secretary with two candidates, John J. Barry and J. Edward Callanan. The other officers unopposed are John H. Gordon, exalted ruler; William E. Earle, esteemed leading knight; Robert A. Vachon, esteemed loyal knight; Vincent M. Turley, treasurer; Matthew Hurley, tiler; John J. Doherty, trustee for five years; George M. Cox, trustee for four years; Willard L. Sampson, delegate to the grand lodge, and Malcolm P. McKinnon, PER, alternate to the grand lodge.

The sum of $460 was appropriated for additional rent for the Newtonville branch library. This appropriation will allow the library to have first-floor rooms, which has been a long-felt want in that vicinity. The library is situated on the second floor of the Masonic building and is far too small and inaccessible for future use. There will soon be a branch library that will have adequate accommodations for the needs of the community.

Aldermen Lloyd and Fitts asked for a short recess at 8:45 P. M. and the board adjourned for 30 minutes.

After the recess several matters were put through. Payments of various Soldiers' relief and Workmen's compensation were authorized. Petitions of Gustave Meyer for a sewer and drain on Wauwinet Road and of Charles E. Lord for covering of the brook near Cabot Street were referred to the proper committees. Hearings were assigned for the next meeting and for the first meeting in April, on taking of land for various sewers. Assessments of $84,168.03 were levied for sewer construction in 1924. Various poles were granted the Edison and Telephone companies. Appropriations were made for water mains, $14,900 for sewers; on Commonwealth Ave., $1,874; Beaumont Ave., $4,135; Nevada St., $1,283; Crafts St., $7,133. Leave to withdraw was given the following: Frederick H. White for Taxi license; Thomas F. Tracy, for gasoline station on Watertown St.; Kasper Atamian, for common victualler license and pool tables on Cheney St.; and Ugo Costanzo, for express truck.

An attempt was made to have the recent new precinct boundaries not effective until Dec. 31, 1925, but when City Solicitor Bartlett informed the board that this was not done with his sanction, President White immediately referred this matter back to the Committee on Finance.

President White named Aldermen Weeks, Bliss, and O'Connell as a committee on traffic rules. The following private garages were granted:

54783 Private garages: Clinton W. Tylee, 53 Bigelow road, Ward 3, 2-car in basement.

Mozart died of malignant typhoid. The funeral service was held in the open air, as was the custom with the poorest class. The strictest economy was observed in the funeral arrangements. Mozart was buried in a common pauper's grave, the site of which was soon forgotten. Vienna erected on the probable spot a handsome monument.

world began. He first attempts to cloud the real issue by an appeal to personalities; secondly, he makes a frank appeal to self interest; and, thirdly, he appeals to the deeply seated human instinct for revenge.

The rest of the play is but the fulfillment of Antony's speech. The suicide of Brutus is the natural outcome of his Stoic philosophy. Nowhere does Brutus show himself more noble than in his death, justifying his enemy's tribute to him, "He was the noblest Roman of them all."

In style this play is classic in that it is restrained, has none of the abandon of vocabulary and passion found in his other plays. It is also classic in the idea of Fate which runs through it.

In the writing of plays there are two methods, both of which are used by Shakespeare in his plays. The first method keeps the reader in suspense as to the final outcome; while in the second, he knows from the beginning what the end will be, as if he were on a kind of Mt. Olympus gazing with the Greek gods upon the world beneath him, but, the individuals upon whom he gazes do not know their Fate, hence the interest in the outcome.

This play it is the second method which he has employed to such good advantage.

The next play in the series will be "Hamlet: Facing the Mystery." This lecture will be given on Thursday, March 12.

THE LATE R. L. BRIDGMAN

The Legislature paid a deserved tribute to the late Raymond L. Bridgman by its resolution of appreciation when officially informed of his sudden death at his home in Newton. Mr. Bridgman had maintained for a generation a solitary eminence among representatives of the press at the State House by his long service as a legislative correspondent. His continuous work in the press gallery covered forty-five years—an unprecedented period, so far as the General Court is concerned. That body was his specialty. He knew the personnel of some forty Legislatures elected annually and two or three more chosen for a two-year term. Besides the legislators, Mr. Bridgman knew all the State officers and all the governors who had occupied the State Capitol since 1878.

Mr. Bridgman's stores of information concerning State affairs, legislative proceedings and rules were unrivaled. He was trusted by public men probably as no other State House correspondent has been in Massachusetts history. As an authority on some questions relating to the work of the State government he acquired a high standing, as the list of eight books published by him indicate. He held strong opinions in opposition to some of the later changes in the State Constitution, notably biennial sessions, and he held in disfavor the Constitutional Convention of 1917, a history of which he compiled. Doubtless the Legislature had seemed to him to have retrograded in the later years of his intimate contact with it; yet he would never abandon his post as a legislative correspondent, and in his seventy-seventh year he was still reporting the sessions, with as much painstaking care as he had thirty years earlier.

The Republican and Mr. Bridgman were associated for at least a generation. He was this newspaper's State House correspondent for a long period. The Bridgman reports in The Republican of the daily sessions of the Senate and House were so accurate and were regarded with so much confidence on Beacon Hill that the Legislature for years accepted the file of The Republican in the State Library as the official report of its proceedings. The work thus done was a composite of that of the reporter and that of the historian.

R. L. Bridgman took his occupation seriously and he never faltered in the support of his principles. He was jealous of the good name of journalism. Recently The Republican printed a communication from him calling attention to the code of rules and ethics regulating the relations between the Legislature and the press, which recognized the press's function as a quasi-public utility. His personal share in the code's authorship must have been very large.

A devoted churchman, Mr. Bridgman carried his religion into his daily walks and labors. An idealist, he espoused unpopular causes courageously. He was an early civil service reformer, a consistent free trader, an anti-imperialist, and an internationalist in the sense that world organization, upon which he wrote a helpful little book 20 years ago, appealed to him as the necessary preliminary to world peace. His career was modest in its range but useful; and American journalism is in debt to him because he loved the best there was in it, and always sought to maintain it on a high plane.

The library department has asked an increase of about $9,000, half of which is for insurance and purchase of books, and the remainder for increase in salaries of assistants.

A request of about $35,000 over last year's appropriation has been made by the School department, which annually seems to increase its expenses largely thru the increase in the salaries of teachers in the regular schools. This year the amount is $28,000 more than last year, which was $46,000 larger than in 1922.

The Playground department has asked for an increase of $27,000, of which the Mayor has approved $19,000. The difference of $8,000 was made in the item of construction which is almost double that of last year.

The Street department asked for a "modest" increase of about $65,000, although the Mayor has only recommended an increase of about $21,000. The major part of this increase is shown in the items of street lighting and new equipment, which show an increase of $15,000 and $23,000 respectively. Street maintenance will cost practically the same as last year, as the Mayor recommended an increase of $2,000, whereas the department asked for an increase of $19,000. The collection of ashes will cost $54,000 this year, as compared with $35,000 last year. Snow and ice removal is also practically the same as in 1924. In the forestry division an increase of $2,500 is made for the care of trees and $1,500 for the care of grounds, the other items remaining practically unchanged.

Besides increases in the salaries of various inspectors and clerks, the Mayor as usual has approved increases for the Comptroller, city treasurer, city solicitor, city clerk, city messenger, public buildings commissioner, sealer of weights and measures, chairman of the board of health, city physician, superintendent of playgrounds, and street commissioner.

The Auburndale Club Minstrels were a great success from every point of view, lots of pep, good songs and several novel stunts, viz.: Klu Klux Klan and a Wack-dog Band. The Hall was filled to capacity with an enthusiastic audience, many of whom drew one of the prizes so generously donated for the occasion. The prizes were subscriptions to Collier's Weekly, stationery, leather table cover, boxes of salt, jars of cold cream, etc. It is hoped that $500 will be realized for the club.

Corey, Olive Mason, Minnie Gore, Helen Horne, Amy Jarvis, Perley Crosby, Cora Farmer, Lyman Gore, Lowell MacNutt, Howard Musgrave, Muriel Duffus, Margaret Lane, Carl B. Ferguson, W. H. Nash, E. A. WOMEN'S CLUBS

EMMA D. COOLIDGE, Editor

State Federation

Thursday, February 26th, in the Malden Auditorium, the Old and New Club of that city played hostess to the delegates to the Midwinter meeting of the State Federation. The Mayor and Mrs. Frederick Prescott, President of the entertaining club, welcomed the Federation. Mrs. Frederick Glazier Smith, presiding, responded.

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole received a rousing ovation when she arose to give her report as General Federation Director. She reported 19 clubs as having become new members of the General Federation and the payment of $100 into the Maintenance Fund, with another hundred nearly accumulated to contribute. She aroused laughter when she invited all clubwomen to attend the Council Meeting during the summer in Indiana.

She informed us that the General Federation has noted not to consider any resolutions offered after six weeks preceding a meeting, stating that this move is taken in the wise decision that too much "resolving" has been done in the past. Her words: "We have resolved on everything but God Almighty, but we have decided to stop," caused the delegates to break into uproar.

Mrs. Culbert, Chairman of Legislation, presented the various speakers on the measures before the club for endorsement. Compulsory Jury Service for Women—Senator Walter Shuebruk in favor and Rep. Allen Larson, opposed. Proposed Amendments to the Civil Service Law—James P. Munroe, of the Mass. Civic League, in favor, and Robert J. White, opposed on the Veterans' Preference portion only. He gave no other opposition, and none other was presented by the Legislative Chairman. Wages for Prisoners—Commissioner Sanford Bates in favor, Eben W. Burnstead opposed.

Senator Shuebruk won his audience by his humor. He assured the women they were not going to be hit on the head and dragged to a courtroom, there to be confined for weeks at a time. He also assured them that the complaint that jury service would take women from their homes was unjustified, since other diversions took her outside the home for much longer hours. This is the first time women have known that jury service is a diversion, so the Senator told us something we did not know before!

Representative Larson based his opposition unfortunately on the old story of chivalry, which we heard so much in suffrage days. So that his very excellent argument of the statements of Mr. Hull on the floor of the House were not listened to with the care that might have been thought-provoking to many who are sure as to how they feel on this measure. He also lost sight of an excellent argument against this measure, to any woman who knows that it is compulsory, and therefore of dangerous precedent on our Statute books.

That some delegates have not forgotten this, and are aware of the danger, was shown in the vote, when 62 voted against the endorsement, a large number when compared to the usual opposition, and 118 endorsed.

Mr. Bates argued that in bringing up children parents did not alone punish to make them good, but apparently it was thought that the only way to stop crime was to punish it. He urged us to stand back of our sex—the members of the House who were for this measure—to stand back of all two of them! Mr. Burnstead brought out that the prisoners in State Prison were what juries had decided were "bad men," and if wages were paid them it would be putting a premium on crime—that the sentence would be equivalent to the Judge's saying: "Ten years at a salary!" He further pointed out the possibility, in giving the funds earned by the prisoners, of the "disappearance" during the handling, of some of the funds, but warning of such danger was completely lost upon delegates, for the presentation of his opposition did not have the entertaining wit and humor of his opponent.

The vote of delegates stood, for endorsement 432, and against endorsement only 37.

James P. Munroe brought forward the usual arguments for increasing the appointments permitted for Civil Service—that it was taking it out of politics, by not permitting a City Council, State Treasurer, and others to handle appointments, and that no state employees could now be removed, no matter how incompetent. For the World War veterans to be given preference was most unfair to others taking examinations, and the veterans themselves did not want this preference.

Mr. White stated that veterans deserved, whether they wanted or not, some compensation for disablement which made any other than clerical work an impossibility, and listed many prominent, as well as level-headed, military men who are fighting to keep this preference. He antagonized the women by asking if they thought their opinion should be set against the opinion of such and such a man, and of course the women immediately decided that their opinion was of just as much value to them as that of some "illustrious" person!

During discussion your editor stated the law as it stands, and pointed out that, according to the law, putting in existence the Department of Administration, appointments, demotions, promotions, removals, etc., while under Civil Service, had to be approved by the Chairman of Administration, and that this law gave him higher power in grading employees, which means "one man power." She pointed out the law which gave him the power to remove any one from the law and the various ramifications of this proposed measure before endorsing.

(Since this meeting, a letter has gone out from the Civic League to Club Presidents claiming that state measures made (by her) were erroneous, because removal lies for final decision in the courts, and saying that neither the Commissioner of Administration nor any other State official was authorized to do with it (removals). Your editor desires to say that she did not make any erroneous statement, and that every warning she gave is based upon fact as proven by the law. She adds that the Department Head is the one to ask removal, and he is a State official. The Civil Service and Administration Committee approve it, and they are State officials, and unless an employee cares to take her case to the courts, and take the unpleasant notoriety, she submits to the decision of these State Officials as FINAL. The way to find out the truth of this affair is to look up the law, and interview State Employees. They tell you as NO LEAGUE CAN TELL YOU the truth of what affects them.)

Mrs. Stevens of Newton Upper Falls, and Miss Cora Cobb brought out other features of this bill that will bear inquiry, and the result of the opposition was shown in the vote which was taken. Endorsement was voted by 251, and opposed by 111, a total of 363 votes. It is significant that this is 218 votes less than recorded for the Jury Service Bill, which would indicate that these delegates would not record themselves in favor, for their confidence in its worth had been shaken. Had they been waiting in the parlors an array of home-made goodies to tempt appetite and open purses recklessly the time had to be called by the president, who amusingly informed her members that, due to the rain having kept away so many, those who had come had to buy TWICE as much from the Girl Scouts who provided the food.

There was a consensus of opinion, freely expressed, that it was hoped that John Clair Minot with his review of the year's books would become an annual institution for the club. Let the Program Committee take notice that at last has been found the perfect program!

It would be difficult to do justice to the beautiful and unique Art Exhibit of the Woman's Club which took place on Monday, March 2nd. The word "art" in this instance included varied and unusual kinds of artistry—furniture painting, braided and hooked rug making, bird raising, cake and candy making, lamp shades, and all kinds of "fancy work," paintings, song compositions (by a club member), luster ware, dolls, hats, and myriad other such accomplishments.

As if this were not enough by way of talent and entertainment, during the exhibit the Club Chorus sang two Negro Spirituals by Dett, and a song, "Lindy Loo."

Furniture exhibits included a quaint beaded needle-point footstool, done by Mrs. G. K. Heath, when she was 15 years old; two other chair seats by Mrs. William H. Young and Mrs. James Hewins; painted furniture, of a writing desk and chair, by Mrs. H. M. Holmes, chests by Mrs. Eugene Bissell and Mrs. F. R. Webster, a table by Mrs. J. W. Bartlett, a rush bottom chair women and others interested are invited to be present at this meeting.

Newton Federation

Mrs. J. Porter Russell, Education Chairman, issues a call for a most interesting meeting on Tuesday, March 10th—Parents' Visiting Day—at the High School—a meeting of parents and teachers for mutual benefit purposes. As usual, teachers will be in their rooms from 3 P. M. to 4.30 to meet visitors.

Parents are urged to come to the Assembly Hall in the Technical Building at 2.15, where the Girls' Glee Club will render several selections, one of the school orchestras will play, and some practical illustrations of certain phases of school work will be given.

Exercises in the Hall will be over in time to meet teachers at 3.00.

It is hoped that the February meeting proved of sufficient interest to insure an even larger attendance this month.

Recent Events

John Clair Minot, Literary Editor of the Boston Herald, reviewed for the Newton Community Club on February 26th the new books which have come out since his visit with us a year ago. He had a large and appreciative audience, for those who heard him last year were careful to let no other engagement interfere with hearing him again, and these who had not been so fortunate. His keen discrimination, his pleasant criticisms, and humor, proved a most interesting treat. One of what he had to work with, while giving comments that for originality and amusement kept his audience alert. Two novels have dominated, he said: "So Big," and "The Little French Girl," the frame work of the first not much for a novel, and with no literary quality, but appealing from the theme, while the second is beautifully written, with always the choice of the right word. "The Spanish Farm" shows heart of the peasant; "Arnold Waterlow," a model of condensation, and satirical in strain; "Ophian Island," also satirical but with more humor; "White Monkey" a great novel, rather than a great story; "Old Ladies," a depressing character study; "Coming of Amos" not up to previous stories of Locke; "Quaint Companion," of high craftsmanship; were a few of the books he reviewed so skillfully that we felt that we knew the story without spending the hours to read it. Eden Philpott's "Hand in the Dark" he recommends as a good mystery story for MEN.

Books, books, books, past present, and coming; fiction and non-fiction; brought to us with the quick sweep of a skilled brush over canvass, so that an hour and a half slipped away, and seemed like twenty minutes! And before there was waiting in the parlors an array of home-made goodies to tempt appetite and open purses recklessly the time had to be called by the president, who amusingly informed her members that, due to the rain having kept away so many, those who had come had to buy TWICE as much from the Girl Scouts who provided the food.

Altogether the club is proud of its talented members, and the exhibit became as fascinating as a bazaar.

It has certainly been a splendid week for programs, your editor realizes as she reads the accounts sent in to her, and she dislikes so much to cut any of the descriptions, but simply must. She has to add, first, though, that it would seem that other perfect programs than that of the first recorded for the recent ones have been found by other fortunate clubs, also.

Cape Cod as the artists see it was most beautifully brought before the members of the Auburndale Woman's Club by Mrs. Sarah Lee Whorf last Tuesday, and artist or layman could feel the artistic understanding speaking through both her words and pictures. Starting in at Provincetown, which last summer had 500 working artists there, first were glimpses of them in their groups and with their models. Next we were initiated a bit into the technique of color, applied to a photograph to show it with an artist's eyes.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Leverett D. G. Bentley

One thing of which we find ourselves at times uncertain, is the ownership of the sidewalks of Newton. We know that they were originally provided for the use of the public and with the money of the taxpayers. But, notwithstanding that fact we have many times seen individuals who thought otherwise and who did not hesitate to act according to their convictions. It seems to us that during this winter we have observed more of such people than in the past. One day last week we found a lumber wagon backed-up across a sidewalk while a large load of lumber was being delivered. It was of course much more convenient for the driver and for the house-owner to have the truck placed against the front door of the partially completed house. The lumber was easily carried inside and left where it was consumed. Also there is little doubt that the driver and his helper were paid to carry the lumber from the truck to the house. They certainly were not expected, at least we cannot bring ourselves to such a belief, to drive over a sidewalk regardless of the result and merely for their own convenience. They, however, are not the offenders. We know of a perfectly good sidewalk that has been wrecked in several places because the builders of a number of houses on a single tract of land found it easier to drive over and break down the concrete than to take the trouble to deliver their loads in the proper way. Sure, it seems to us, certain limits to which drivers or their employers should be allowed to go in such matters. None of these people have the slightest intention of making any repairs. They apparently think only of the moment and after they have executed their errand they drive off, forgetting the damage they have done. With the advent of the automobile the owners of cars have, it seems to us, been less considerate of their fellow citizens. We have seen cars left on the sidewalk, sometimes with the engine running, which is clearly against the law. Nothing has been done about it and as far as we are able to learn the police have taken no action. Surely there must be a city ordinance covering such cases, which are nothing more or less than violations of the law. Now, it appears, the police are bending their energies on street traffic regulation. That, of course, is necessary and their efforts are praiseworthy. But in all this should not be lost sight of that the sidewalks are for pedestrians and not for trucks and automobile owners to use as a parking place. Let us have sidewalk traffic regulation as well as street traffic regulation.

We do not know what caused the idea to pop into our head. It may have been the ticket to the firemen's ball that lay upon our desk. At any rate we got to thinking about the passing of the call fireman—the man engaged in the noble profession of fighting fires and who did it for the thrill it gave him rather than the trifling sum paid him by the municipality. It isn't so very long ago that Newton had "callmen." Many towns in Massachusetts still depend a great deal on their callmen. We used to like to see the callmen of our acquaintance respond to the first blow of the tapper. Of course a boy gets more out of such incidents than his elders. For that reason we made in our youth a study of the subject, although we were still going to school and should have devoted more attention to our studies. We came to learn who the callmen were. If an alarm was sounded and we were in the vicinity of their house or their workshop or store we found a sheer delight in watching their departure for a supposed blaze. We got so used to wonder in just what condition the bell would find the callmen. If we saw a callman racing down the street and pulling his coat and vest on at the same time we were transported. It seemed to exemplify devotion to duty. We felt that it must be something of the highest importance that would cause a man to leave his home without a second's hesitation and only half-dressed and perhaps on an empty stomach. We have seen store-keepers leave a waiting customer and dash outdoors ready to spring upon the rear of the horse wagon as it passed by a half-minute later. The callmen who went without meals, who forgot they needed sleep and who were willing to make any kind of sacrifice for their fellow citizens are all of the past so far as Newton is concerned. Some of the callmen included some of the best known citizens. Not that their contribution to the public good was any more important than those of the humbler citizen. Still, the spirit was there. There was little or no glory to be had from turning out in a storm or on a freezing cold night to help save a building or dwelling from destruction. And yet there were always those who were eager and ready to do it. Newton's history will not be complete, in our opinion, without a chapter on the call firemen and their splendid work in behalf of the city.

IMPRESSIONS OF THE WEST

From the Grand Canyon we went to Colorado Springs, turning northward to the railroad. This is the center of the Indian settlements, and the station has a most interesting store Indian jewelry, rugs, pottery, etc., are sold.

For a few hours before we reached Colorado Springs, we could see the Rocky Mountains on our left, parallel to the railroad. Pike's Peak, over 14,000 feet high, is not so impressive as Mt. Ranier, because, unlike the latter, it is not an isolated mountain, but a part of the range. Early in the season the summit is covered with snow, but at the time of our visit (September) there was no snow visible.

We stayed at the "Antlers Hotel," which commands a beautiful view of the mountains. Colorado Springs is a splendid center for trips. The first of those which our party took was to the Seven Falls in North Cheyenne Canyon.

This is a charming spot. We trolley to the entrance of the Canyon, and then walked about two miles in the canyon to the falls themselves. How beautiful seemed the trees, just beginning to turn in color, and how grateful the water after the dry, parched country through which we had just come! As someone remarked, "It seems like home."

Delightful "wadeys" spots beside rushing streams invited one to linger and picnic. The falls themselves are really a series of cascades falling in seven sections from a great height. A very steep flight of steps at one side made it possible for one to climb to the very top of the canyon where the grave of Helen Hunt Jackson, buried there by her own request.

An afternoon trip was made to Manitou, famous for its springs. The town is about eight miles from Colorado Springs to the south-west. It is a curious place, perched among the foot hills of the Rockies. Back of it rises Mount Manitou, Indian for Great Spirit.

In recent years an incline railway has been built up this mountain. This Manitou Scenic Incline Railway is the longest and highest incline railway on the globe. It is one and one quarter miles long, with a perpendicular rise of 2,600 feet, and attains an elevation of 9,000 feet above sea level.

The ascent is truly a thrilling experience. In places it is almost perpendicular. The view is most interesting. The town of Colorado Springs lies like a checker board beneath one. One can easily distinguish the Garden of the Gods lying between Manitou and Colorado Springs, and the Ute Pass, the great highway over the Rockies to the west. On clear days, one can see Denver to the north-east.

Arrived safely at the top, to the great relief of some of the party, we followed a fascinating trail to the government experiment station two miles away where the government is experimenting with different kinds of trees. This walk was one long to be remembered. The trail, which was steep in places, ran along the side of thickly wooded gorges, down which one caught glimpses of rushing streams, while at every turn, alluring glimpses of Pike's Peak and the surrounding mountains were to be had.

The trip the following day was to the Garden of the Gods. This famous spot is somewhat disappointing. There is no "garden" to be seen. It takes its name from the curious formation of the rocks which are of a reddish hue and of most fantastic shapes suggestive of the gods of old. Passing through the Garden of the Gods, we continued our journey to the celebrated Cave of the Winds.

This cave was discovered by two boys in Williams Canyon who saw the mouth of the cave far below the real one. There, the wind from the canyon gave the cave its name, though in the inside of the cave itself there is no wind.

Approach to the cave, is by a one way road through a narrow, twisting canyon, in some places with overhanging rocks so close it seemed as if our car must hit both sides. Then the road makes a sudden turn and climbs the sheer cliff to the real cave, so the cave is reached through a convenient bungalow.

The cave is very large—a dozen chambers or so—none more than a hundred feet long nor more than thirty feet high, while some are so small and narrow that one has to stoop to pass through. Smoking torches have been fastened in the cave, so the stalagmites and stalactites stand out in their pure whiteness, often very beautiful both in shape and coloring. All the rooms are brilliantly lighted by electricity because of which one of the party called the cave, "a cave de luxe."

One room was known as the "Bridal Chamber" and another as "Old Maid's Hall." In the latter, one saw a curious mass of black objects stuck in nets along the walls, resembling a huge nest of some kind, and were told that these were hairpins, the legend being that any maiden leaving a hairpin here would be married before the end of the year. It is too early yet to speak authoritatively of the efficacy of this method.

The most famous of our trips in this vicinity was that up Pike's Peak. After our experiences in automobiles in the Big Woods and Yosemite, it did not seem wonderful to climb Pike's Peak by automobiles, yet most astounding to the skill of the engineers in finding the easiest slopes and most advantageous places for their hairpin curves.

Whether by automobile or by cog railroad, the tourist rises to the point of view of grand views to the ever widening horizon. The lower part of the canyon is the most beautiful. It runs up a narrow canyon cleft in rock with broken ledges poised over cliffs as if ready to topple over and crush the intruding car. Further up the steep canyon sides are loose gravel hanging over the threatening slopes.

Then the valley widens, lakes appear, holding back the water to be used as wanted for electricity in Colorado Springs.

The slope to the summit is formed of sharply broken stones from the size of a small nut to five feet in length. The summit itself is a rounded dome of three acres of the same loose, jagged stones, in the interests of which snow was still to be found.

Both roads used by the members of our party were on the southeast side of the mountain, the northwestern side being made up of yawning abysses and steep cliffs.

The case of ascent, the strange geology of the mountain, the far-away view of the near pictures of Manitou and of Colorado Springs, made the ascent of Pike's Peak one of the most memorable of the many memorable experiences of the party.

From Colorado Springs, the party went to Chicago where they spent one day exploring the city, and then continued their journey to Boston, the starting point.

We had been gone almost six weeks, and in that time had seen every type of scenery which our great and glorious country affords, from "purple mountain majesties" to the "amber fields of grain" and from "sea to shining sea."

No one who has had such an experience, can doubt that ours is a country with a future before it. God grant that it may always be one of which every American may be proud!

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Following this came many unusual pictures of the sand-dunes, their intensities of color varieties, and their conquering of the trees and shrubs, fighting the encroaching drifting sand.

A historical glimpse of value—the Pilgrim Fathers, as they saw the dunes the first warm week in November in 1620, and our final glimpse, with the Pilgrim Monument towering high against the sunset sky no artist attempts, certainly made us realize to some extent why Cape Cod can lure the artist from every corner of our big country.

At the business meeting, the club made a good record by voting from the Philanthropic Fund the sum of $400 toward the much-needed Library building, for which it is now hoped.
With this incentive, all the townspeople will work loyally. And to end with a good item, as we began with one, the work of the far-famed Chorus must be highly praised. Although the day was cold, they cheered us with three spring songs delightfully sung, the last, with its merry "Ting-a-ling-a-ling" so bright that an encore was demanded.

It is a rare incident when one finds his anticipation surpassed by realization, but this was the experience of nearly five hundred members and guests of the Newtonville Woman's Club who enjoyed "The Story of an Old Violin" on Tuesday afternoon.

The program, charmingly given by Mrs. Sidney Sholley in Peter Pan vein, invited the audience to a "Never-Never Land" of music, and prepared the way for the spirit of the violin personified by Mrs. Fred E. Mann.
Following, came a succession of effectively set pictures: Madonna, posed for by Mrs. Percy E. Gibson; Morris Dancers, Mrs. Edward T. Campbell;
Mrs. William B. Hanna, Mrs. Arthur
LeBaron and Mrs. Harold Billings; Minuet, Mrs. Stanley Arend and Mrs.
Arthur O. Wellman; "Little Bo-Peep" dance, Jane Arend, Jean Arend, Elizabeth Briggs, Lorraine Bond, Jane Hunting, Marjory Ashendon, Jean Walker and Marjory Tyler.

The Civil War episode, introduced by Eleanor Vanderhoof, "Bugler," was pictured by Miss Marion Bassett and Mrs. George A. Edmunds as "Soldiers"; the World War, by Mrs.
Harold H. Lounsbury, posing as a "Red Cross Nurse," while the club chorus, concealed behind the curtains, softly sang "The Long, Long Trail."

The talent which interpreted the various roles were eminently well equipped for their tasks and especially so, Mrs. Clinton Kyle, a "Court Lady of France" in eighteenth century costume, who sang a group of French songs that met with warm applause, Mrs. Kenneth Hastings, "Violin Pupil," delightfully rendered three violin solos, and Mrs. William F. Terrin, "Opera Singer," sang "Mon coeur sauve à toi" from "Samson and Delilah," with fine effect. A waltz to Beautiful Blue Danube, by Mrs.
Andrew P. Doss, a Southern Lady and Mrs. Raymond Hunting a Southern Gentleman proved a favorite number, and Mrs. Linden Ivan Petty (Sylvia Church), who sang Gounod's "Ave Maria" with fine feeling for the sentiment of the theme, and Mrs. Mann, who read her lines with clear enunciation and carefully studied inflection deserved all the favorable comment which was theirs.

Too much praise cannot be given the trio composed of Mrs. Kenneth Hastings, violin, Miss Priscilla Warren, cello, and Mrs. Dana Haddon, piano. Their sympathetic rendition of "Asa's Death" by did the "make-ups" and Mr. Hassler Capron in charge of the lighting. Mrs. Clinton Tyler was Stage Manager with Mrs. Harold B.
Sherman, assistant.

Congratulations are in order for Mrs. Austin H. Decatur, President of the club and Mrs. Harold Bond, Chairman of the Program Committee, who shouldered the burden of responsibility for the performance.

After the regular monthly business meeting on Wednesday, March 4th, the Social Science Club, through its Civic Committee (Mrs. Edward M. Moore, Chairman) had the opportunity of hearing Miss Burchard, State Superintendent of Employment for the Blind, who spoke of her work and its many problems and difficulties. She emphasized the sense of dependency that comes with blindness, the nervous strain of adjustment which is especially hard for those who become blind in middle life, and the unimaginable attitude of the general public, who, often with the best intentions, "persists in regarding blind people as 'different' and not as 'every-day human beings.'"

The resources of the State, both private and public, are inadequate to meet the needs of the 4,000 blind persons in Massachusetts, though many of those existing are excellent of their kind. The nursery for blind babies and children up to six years in Jamaica Plain is perfectly run and equipped, and happily the need for it is rapidly diminishing because of the wide-spread understanding of the proper methods of caring for the eyes of newborn infants.

The Perkins Institute takes children from the kindergarten age through the High School period with post-graduate courses for a few who show special aptitude.

Miss Burchard spoke of the "sight-saving classes" in the schools for children with seriously defective sight.
There is such a class in our own Underwood school.

The real problem comes when the young people leave school and try to find a place in the world outside where they can support themselves. It is impossible to find jobs for all who apply for them, and very difficult to secure places to live for those who have no homes of their own. Homes, especially for girls and women, are urgently needed. One on a small scale has been established in Boston on Revere street which needs help in furnishings and equipment. Y. W. C. A. homes and Homes for Aged Women do not admit the blind. The Massachusetts Association for the Blind maintains two club-houses, one for men in South Boston, and a home for working-girls in Cambridge which is small and restricted.

The State has a Relief Fund of $100-000, but no individual is given more than $30 a month, and many are trying to live on that amount rather than become objects of charity.

Miss Burchard made a plea for local work, so that blind people in any community might feel that they had friends and helpers around them. She also suggested that organizations such as women's clubs could be of great service by undertaking sales of the articles made by the blind, which are of good quality. Lack of a market for their work is a great handicap.

The State Division for the Blind is at 110 Tremont street, and Miss Burchard advised any who were desirous of further information to call at the office or get the telephone connection through the State House.

This ought to be another success as a program, and this club has scored one success after another this year, with a record that may be envied by others who struggle valiantly to find just the right thing for the varying tastes of members.

In Newton Centre the Woman's Club

ly, and indicative of balanced thought paniments will be the theme.

Weimer at the Newton Community of humor is delicious, as well as her samples!)

Women's Educational Club on Friday, March 13th, is in charge of the Public Health Committee, Mrs. Frederick E.
Waring, Chairman, and the speakers

Association, who will give a brief talk on the work of that organization.

Malcolm L. Harvey of Abundant and A. Henry Anderson of West Newton, took important parts in Herbert Franklyn Lang's new comedy "You'll Pardon Me," broadcast by the Little Screen Players, on Saturday evening, February 28th, from W. B. Z.

Mr. Harvey took the leading male part.

The play dealt with incidents in a motion picture studio and the listener got a very clear idea of the atmosphere in which movies are made. This is the first time a play of this type has been broadcast.

The Little Screen Players, of which both young men are members, is the only non-commercial amateur motion picture company in existence. The company has won the distinction of having its first picture, a five-reel drama called "It," taken over by a motion picture corporation. Many of the scenes in this picture were taken in Newton.

FISK JUBILEE SINGERS

The Fisk University Jubilee Singers from Nashville, Tennessee, will give a concert at the Central Congregational church Wednesday evening, March 18. The program will consist of negro folk songs and spirituals.

These singers toured England last summer and were highly praised by the English press, and were presented with historic gifts by eminent people.
Last fall they gave a concert at Symphony hall before a highly appreciative audience. Warren S. Smith in the Boston Post had the following comment to make on their program: "Not only are their voices individually agreeable and beautifully blended, but they sing with a directness and a fervor, a simple sincerity and an absence of all self-consciousness and pose that is rare in the concert hall."

Proud Man Alone Knows Not Value of Fasting

Man knows that wild creatures of the forest and plain at times go through 48 empty hours without making a kill. He knows, also, that certain peoples fast at times as a religious duty, and this without in any way impairing their health. Finally, he knows that individuals have done without food in any form for weeks and have gained rather than lost by the experience, says the Baltimore Sun.

His love for food is so deeply ingrained, however, that when his mule, cow and dog refuse to eat, his wits at once cease to function. He reasons in this way: "When these creatures were well they ate heartily. Now that they refuse to eat, they must be ill. If I am to make them well again, I must by some means force them to eat." So it is when man himself is indisposed by reason of some indiscretion. He does not wish to eat. The very thought of food is an abomination. But his wife, whose love is greater than her reason, says to him: "Honey, you simply must eat in order to keep up your strength, and I have prepared a number of dishes you like in order to tempt your appetite."

The little will that remains to him after one glance at the table urges him to flee, but his greedy palate prevails and he eats heartily. The result is that his overburdened system, striving with all its cunning to get him back to normal, must quit its task for a while and take care of the new cargo he has shoveled aboard. Nature knows its business but is badly handicapped when those it desires to save persist in their madness.

Pigs Make Faithful Guardians of Sheep

In this country one seldom says anything kind about pigs. Yet they are highly esteemed in other parts of the world, says London Answers.

In the Apennines they are used to guard sheep. One man in each village acts as shepherd to the community and is allowed a sheep pig to assist him when the animals are out at pasture. The man's task is an easy one—he may amuse himself by playing the flute or he may even sleep for a few hours while the pig faithfully guards the flock. In the evening the same trustworthy shepherd sedulously singles out the sheep belonging to this house or that and never makes a mistake.

Where truffles grow pigs are used to find and root them up. If carefully trained a pig will keep for his master all the truffles he uproots.

In Ireland, of course, the pig's merits have always been recognized. There he is the "gentleman that pays the rent."

Pretty Medieval Legend

The story of the custom of conveying a kiss by a cross, is that there was once a young man in the days of knighthood and chivalry and glittering deeds, named Sir Ronald du Bois, who was sent on a dangerous mission and was taken prisoner. He had left at home a fair and beautiful sweetheart, and it was his desire to send her some message. A bribed messenger promised to take some symbol to her but refused to bear a written message for fear he would be taken prisoner and the letter found. The knight therefore sent her a metal button from his coat on which he had scratched four letters at the four points of an X. The letters were K, I, S, S. Since this famous message, other lovers have used the X to stand for kisses, but omit the letters at each point. However the romantic story has never been forgotten.—Atlanta Constitution.

Herod's Wonderful Temple

Herod's temple, a structure of white marble, was built by Herod the Great at Jerusalem on the site of the Temple of Zerubbabel. Work was begun in 19 B. C., and in nine years and a half the temple was ready for use. The building, says the Detroit News, was much larger than the preceding one and measured 100 cubits in length, and 70 cubits in breadth and 100 cubits in height. The stones composing this edifice were of large dimensions, some of them being 25 cubits long, 8 cubits high and 12 cubits thick. The temple, "which rose like a mountain of gold and snow," was totally destroyed by the Romans under Titus in 70 A. D. The site is now occupied by the Mosque of Omar.

Age of Alligators

The Department of Agriculture says that the age of an alligator can only be determined by one who has had experience with these reptiles. Alligators grow very slowly and it is estimated that at fifteen years of age they are only two feet long; therefore, a 12-footer may reasonably be presumed to be seventy-five years of age. The rate of growth varies with animals in their wild state and those kept in captivity, and it is also governed by the amount as well as the type of food given.

Wonderful George!

They were on their honeymoon and she regarded him as the most wonderful being in the whole world. They strolled along the seashore. Suddenly he stopped and in a fine poetic frenzy declaimed: "Roll on thou mighty ocean, roll!" "Oh, look, George!" she cried in ecstasy. "It's doing it!"

To Reclaim Land

The Yellow river, "China's Sorrow," has been dammed by an American engineering corporation. Millions of persons have been drowned by the river's floods and it has changed its course many times in centuries past. The land formerly under water will be reclaimed and power may be developed at the dam.

Wouldn't Ride Free

President James Buchanan insisted on paying his fare at all times when he traveled, never receiving a pass, even though he was out of office. He would have been horrified at the idea of traveling free when he was president. Friends often heard him say: "I will pay my way while I can afford it. When I cannot afford to pay, I will stay at home."—From Lakings.

READ FUND LECTURE

Hunnell Club was taxed to its fullest capacity on Thursday night to hear Dr. Edward Howard Griggs lecture on "Hamlet."

"This play," said the lecturer, "is especially appealing to us today because of our interest in the inner life. In this play, Shakespeare rises above the spirit of the Elizabethan period into the universal spirit. It is remarkable that the play should be so successful on the stage. This is due to the remarkable breadth of its interest. There are, according to the lecturer, four distinct tragedies in the play. These are the tragedy of Hamlet, a tragedy of thought; the tragedy of the Queen, a tragedy of moral weakness; the tragedy of the King, a tragedy of guilt; and the tragedy of Ophelia, the tragedy of fate. The latter is too fragile to endure the circumstances of life.

Hamlet and Horatio are contrasting characters, the former the man of thought, characterized by the speaker as "an aristocrat of the intellect," and the latter, the man of action. Although an "aristocrat" intellectually, Hamlet is democratic towards others treating them as equals rather than as inferiors.

Dr. Griggs analyzed the famous soliloquy of Hamlet beginning, "To be or not to be," calling attention to the way in which Hamlet generalizes, and to his sensitive moral nature which shrinks from the killing of the King even though he believes him guilty, and finally to the problem which Hamlet faces which is not whether or not he shall die, but "Why does anyone live in such a world as this?"

Most minds seek an outlet for their emotional nature in action, but Hamlet seeks an outlet in thought. "Inhibition of our natural impulses," according to Dr. Griggs, "necessary and forms a vital part of education, but there is such a thing as going too far and losing touch with real life, the life of action.

In this connection he said that he had often advised young people in college, who grew weary of the intellectual life, to stop for a year, and take up some form of active life. In this way they are able to digest more fully what they have been taking in.

Contrary to many critics, Dr. Griggs does not believe that Hamlet is lacking in will power, but that he was prevented from at once killing his uncle after the confession of the ghost by a moral instinct finer than reason.

There were two solutions possible to Hamlet after the famous interview with the ghost, who by the way, seems real because he voices what Hamlet already has in his own mind, namely the immediate killing of the King, or the leaving of vengeance to God. Hamlet does neither until the end of the play when his emotions are so aroused by the treachery of the King that he is able to break through the circle of the intellect into action.

The speaker justified Hamlet's attitude towards Ophelia on the ground of her former attitude towards him. He also called attention to the difference between Hamlet's assumed madness and Ophelia's real madness.

To many critics the grave digging scene is a mistake, destroying the harmony of the play, but to Dr. Griggs this is not so. To his mind the scene is a

GIRL SCOUTS

Newton has another Golden Eaglet, Lisbeth Leighton of Troop V, the West Newton Troop, was awarded the medal at a Rally which was held in the Gymnasium of the Newton High School, Newtonville, on Saturday afternoon, March 7. Lisbeth Leighton has been a scout since March, 1917, when she joined the first Troop of Girl Scouts to be organized in Newton. She is a First Class scout, is a member of the Senior Division of Troop V (West Newton) Lieutenant in the Junior Division of that Troop, and Sargent Drummer of the Newton Girl Scout Bugle and Drum Corps. She was awarded the Medal of Merit just a year ago. Margaret Noble and Virginia Gray, both of Troop III Seniors (Newton Centre) and Elizabeth Kilburn of Troop V were awarded the Medal of Merit, and Elizabeth Pimpston of Troop III Seniors received the Community Service Pin with the Red, White and Blue Ribbon which stands for 18 points.

Besides these awards 244 Merit Badges were given out to the girls who had earned them.

The Rally was a most interesting and inspiring one. Promptly at 2.30 First Call was played on the Bugle. Almost immediately followed by Assembly and the Troops marched into the Gymnasium preceded by Miss Holbrook, Director of the Metropolitan Girl Scouts, Miss Trot, Director of the Boston Council Girl Scouts, and Miss Bass Field, Captain for the same Council. Behind them came the Colors and then the Corps, which played until all the Troops were lined about the Hall. 393 Scouts and 36 Officers were reported present by the Captains and then Colors was sounded and the Scouts went through the Troop opening. Mrs. Frank Day, Commissioner of Newton, gave out the medals and then each Troop marched around the hall and was judged for its appearance. After this the Chickadees, the new pack of Brownies in Waban formed the Brownie Ring and sang their Song.

The competitive events came next on the program. Because of the large number of Scouts in Newton and also because of their difference in ages, each event was run off in two groups. Each Troop could enter a team in one of the groups in each event. The Senior groups were open to girls of High School age while the Junior groups were for the younger girls.

The first event was the knot relay race. This was won in the senior group by Troop III Seniors, Troop XIV coming in second and Troop V third Juniors; Troop XI first, Troop III Juniors second and Troops VI and VII tied for third.

The Morse code signalling which was given by whistle was won by Seniors; Troop III Seniors, Troop V second and Troop XIV third. Juniors; Troop XI.

The Compass game Senior Division; Troop III Seniors first, Troop XIV second and Troop V third. Junior Division; Troop III Juniors first, Troop IV second, Troop II third.

The obstacle race was won by Troop III Seniors in the Senior group, Troop VII second and Troop VIII third. Junior Division; Troop IV first, Troop XI second and Troop I third.

COMMUNITY CHEST

"Newton and the Community Chest" will be the subject of a vitally important public meeting which will be held on Thursday evening, March 19, at 8 P. M., at the Newton Club House, 345 Walnut street, Newtonville, under the auspices of the Newton Central Council. The meeting is all to all who are interested.

Grosvenor Calkins, Chairman of the Committee on the Study of the Community Chest Plan, will present the Committee's report. No public information has been given as to the conclusions which have been reached by the Committee, and the report is being awaited with intense interest by the representatives of the various welfare organizations of Newton and by contributors and citizens in general.

After the presentation of the Committee's report by Mr. Calkins, the remainder of the meeting on March 19 will be given up to questions and general discussion. The Central Council has been peculiarly fortunate in securing Allen T. Burns of New York to lead this general discussion and to answer such questions as refer to other than purely local matters.

Mr. Burns is the Treasurer of the American Association for Community Organization, a former President of the National Conference of Social Work, and one of the leading social workers in the country. Probably no other person in the country has a broader understanding of the financial federation movement, its successes and failures, and of the issues involved in the adoption or rejection of the Community Chest plan by a local community.

Questions, which will be taken up by Mr. Burns at the meeting, may be mailed in advance to the Newton Central Council, 12 Austin street, Newtonville, or may be asked from the floor.

Preceding the evening meeting, the Annual Meeting of the Newton Central Council will be held in the form of a dinner served at the Newton Club at 6.15 P. M.

President George M. Angier will preside at the business meeting and at the evening session. Brief reports covering the work of the past year will be given at the business meeting, and officers will be elected for the coming year.

The Committee on the Study of the Community Chest Plan, whose report will be the feature of the evening session, was appointed last December and has made a careful and impartial study of the plan of central financing and its probable advantages and disadvantages as far as Newton is concerned.

The members of the Committee are: Grosvenor Calkins, Chairman; Mrs. Virginia M. Hutchinson, representing the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs; Frank W. Remick; Miss Elizabeth Ross, representing the professional social workers; Rupert C. Thompson, representing the Newton Chamber of Commerce; Fred H. Tucker; Guy M. Winslow, Ph. D.; George M. Angier, President of the Newton Central Council; and Arthur Dunham, Secretary.

The Committee of Arrangements for the meetings on March 19, is headed by Mrs. Bertrand Taylor. The other members are: Mrs. George M. Angier, Mr. H. W. Bascom, Mrs. Irving O. Palmer and Mr. Fred H. Tucker.

BETTER NEWTON CONTEST

The Better Homes Movement will be the object of particular emphasis at the fifth annual Home Beautiful and Building Trades Exposition to be held in Mechanics Building from April 25 to May 2 inclusive according to plans recently announced by General Manager Chester I. Campbell. The object of this emphasis will be to combat a known shortage of the right kind of homes in Massachusetts.

"We recognize," said General Manager Campbell, in commenting on these new plans, "that the safeguarding and developing of the home is one of the most urgent issues before the people to-day. Anything that affects the American home affects the very roots of American civilization and progress. We realize how vitally the home is connected with our national prosperity, both as a factor in combating the seditious attacks of aliens within our borders and as a means of bringing about national unity. Our best efforts will be directed towards bettering home conditions."

It is true that, although this exposition has been doing a vast amount of good in New England for five years, some of its activities are not yet as well known as they could be. It is the purpose of the exposition to reach and correct. The Graphic, always interested in anything that will improve the home life of Newton, has willingly cooperated with the manager of the exposition to conduct this Better Newton contest for cash prizes.

The idea behind the contest is to bring to light some idea whereby the Graphic can work to improve home conditions in Newton. It is designed to cause the readers of the Graphic to think more seriously about the home life in their city.

This co-operation on the part of the Graphic will be clearly reflected in additional efforts that will be made at the exposition itself. By the fullest amount of co-operation with the various exhibitors, by the inclusion of broad educational programs and by instructive special exhibits it is expected to give strong stimulus to the Better Homes movement in New England. This movement arose in response to the realization of an urgent national need and has been sponsored by public-spirited citizens everywhere who have given freely of their time and money to aid it. The efforts of these benefactors have been strongly felt in all parts of the country, and their number is rapidly increasing.

Therefore, readers of the Graphic owe it to their city as well as to themselves to give thought to the praiseworthy aims that are behind this contest and to submit an idea. In addition to the tempting prizes that are offered there is the personal satisfaction of bringing about a better home life in Newton.

tion in knowing that you have done something for Newton. Observe closely the rules of the contest. Give careful thought to your idea and send it to the Contest editor at once. In case of two people submitting the same idea, priority will determine the prize winner.

The following three judges have been selected: Mrs. Ernest Cobb, president of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs; Mr. Francis L. Bacon, director of secondary education in the Newton High schools; and Mr. Warren K. Brimblecom, assistant treasurer of the Newton Graphic.

DEATH OF MR. GREEN

Mr. Jacob H. Green, of 20 Hammondwood road, Chestnut Hill, who has been a resident of Newton for the past thirty years, passed away March 11, at the Eliot Hospital. He was associated with the drug business in Newton for twenty-five years, and for the past ten years was President of the Emarco Co., manufacturers of toilet preparations, Boston. The Emarco Co. made very rapid headway due to Mr. Green's policy of associating himself with the best interests of the hair dressing profession. He was recognized for his research work along this line, and had become a very powerful factor in chemical analysis work. He will be greatly missed by his many friends.

BOY SCOUTS

Nearly all the re-registrations for 1925 which were due in February have been received at Headquarters and the number of scouts re-registering is encouraging. Several of the troops are already ahead of their numbers for 1924, others close to that record.

Troop 8 of Newton Centre have their first regular meeting this week. This troop has been inactive for quite a time but is now getting a good start. A large number of boys are anxious to be admitted as tenderfeet and the re-organization meeting last week was very successful.

A new troop has been organized at Newton Upper Falls with Mr. Herbert Kestle as scoutmaster meeting at the Methodist Church. Mr. Kestle has had experience as a scout and in boys' work and is going into the work with a great deal of enthusiasm. He has a good troop committee backing him up and members of the Church and also of the community are much interested in the new troop.

A Court of Honor will be held at the Second Church, West Newton, Friday evening the 20th at 7.30 P.M. Applications should be at Headquarters not later than the morning of the 16th as it may be necessary to hold a preliminary court the preceding evening.

Boy Scouts were given a special part in the evening service at Centenary Methodist Church, Auburndale, last Sunday evening, as well as the Girl Scouts and other young people's organizations. Troop 2 of Auburndale made up the church under the charge of their scoutmaster, two assistants and accompanied by the troop committee and the Commissioner-Executive. Their part of the service was to lead in the Pledge to the Flag, in which all joined. The service, arranged particularly for young people, was very inspiring and although it was not a particularly pleasant evening the church was crowded. May we have more of these meetings.

WANT GEORGE OWEN AS COACH

George Owen Jr., Newton and Harvard athlete, is considering an offer from Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., to coach its football and baseball teams and to be an assistant physical instructor in the department headed by Dr. Edgar Fauver. Negotiations were carried on by Mr. Clarence Newton, a Boston alumnus of Wesleyan. As Owen is wanted as an all-year member of the department of physical education he would sever his present connections with a Boston brokerage concern.

Since graduating from Harvard Owen has acted as a backfield coach there and with his record of winning nine major letters in football, hockey, and baseball seems to be well fitted for taking up coaching and physical education work.

If Owen accepts the position he will succeed Fred Martin, former Oberlin college athlete, as head coach. Since the war Wesleyan football teams have been less successful than formerly, and a change in coaching has been expected since the close of the 1924 gridiron season.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Leverett D. G. Bentley

Now comes the city's budget. Something it sounds less interesting when called by its true name—general appropriations order. But budget is the famed word—probably because it implies many long hours of study, careful preparation, pruning and whatnot. It is the product of three sets of brains. The department heads submit to the Mayor estimates of what they feel they ought to have. The Mayor studies the items and makes such changes as he thinks are necessary in the interest of economy and public welfare. Then the Finance Committee of the Aldermen tackle it, and what they do is the mind of the full board, because the committee, having once determined on a total, sees to it that the other members of the board do not upset their work. Of three sets of brains already referred to our sympathy goes out first to the department heads, secondly to the Mayor, and lastly to the Finance Committee. Having watched the progress of budgets in local and State governments we have gathered a few notions—we were about to say ideas but prefer not to be charged with boasting. According to our opinion the budget should be more worrying than anybody else. He knows the needs of his branch of the city's service, and he also knows that it is a difficult thing to persuade the city fathers that the money should be appropriated. It is fortunate, indeed, that in Newton all who have to do with the budget are sincere and honest and striving only to accomplish results that will prove for the city's welfare. For that reason we believe that criticism should be spared. We ourselves promise to withhold any comment that is based on snap judgment. If we were to venture an opinion we would say that the system is a bit cumbersome. It takes a lot of time and a lot of work. Yet it may be the best way after all. We do not agree with those who insist that money should be run as a business concern. There is more involved than showing a balance on the right side. There is the importance of having a community made up of satisfied citizens. We do not believe that a grasp on the purse strings as tight as that of a miser promotes good feeling or even inspires high ideals of citizenship. Taxpayers have a right to know where their money goes, and should be given full information as to the expenditures. A city, however, must do things for the common good that might be looked upon as poor business by a firm in any branch of trade and commerce. Sometimes economy is an excellent thing, but after all it should be applied along with common sense, and as Newton is not without its share of such sense, we do not think we do not fear that Newton will go far wrong in 1925.

"Who's umbrella is this?" comes the query. Immediately there are two or more responses. "That's mine!" And then you have several claimants for one article. The umbrella problem, as we view it, is one of the deepest concerns of every home. There is the fancy umbrella owned by the women members of the household which the men would not be seen carrying. In that the women have the advantage. But the plain umbrella is the source of what friction may arise. The men of the house believe they are entitled to carry these no matter to whom they belong. (We are now giving the women's side). The men are too busy to establish clearly in their own minds the identity of each "gingham" and should not be expected to do so. (We are now giving the men's side). Meanwhile the umbrella itself is the innocent bystander at many a sharp discussion. "That's the one I bought that day I was caught in a shower," says the first possessor, as he takes it out of the stand in the front hall. "Parade that umbrella and you'll find it with my own money," is the next statement heard from another room. "You lose all the umbrellas that come into this house" is the charge hurled at another member of the family. "Why, I'm the only one who ever thinks of buying an umbrella; the rest of you sponge on me." And there you have a nice little family controversy that is often pronounced sufficiently to make one of the disputants too late to catch his regular train to town. How is this umbrella matter to be settled? The subject is on everybody's mind as long as the rain is falling. It passes out as soon as the skies clear. A good umbrella has a double value when it is needed and no value when it is not. Let someone borrow an umbrella and fail to return it and there you have the beginning of a broken friendship. "I do wish they'd return that umbrella they borrowed a month ago" says Mother at the breakfast table. "Oh, they'll bring it back all right," Father reassures her. Father has a purpose in so doing. He is squaring himself for her in mind an umbrella he borrowed and never returned. It is not the easiest thing in the world to remember to return an umbrella. So many are "swapped" (we would not say "stolen" or the world) by persons who are honest in every other respect. To us there seems to be no way out unless a single price and value be placed on umbrellas everywhere. Then if somebody gets yours or you get one from somebody else it is a fair exchange and nobody has reason to find fault.

A fine estate, consisting of a new 7-room house with a sun porch and garage, located in one of the best sections of Newton Highlands on Rockledge Road, has been sold to R. W. Kent by H. L. and S. M. Ray. Alvord Bros. were the brokers. The price was $15,000.

A new colonial home of seven rooms and one-car garage, handsomely situated at No. 11 Stearns St., Newton Centre, has just been transferred from Greenwood Bros. to W. E. Hicks. The property is valued at $12,500. Alvord Bros. were the brokers. The price was $15,000.

A single home of seven rooms and one-car garage located at No. 25 Canterbury Rd., Newton Highlands, has recently been sold to W. E. Leonard by A. C. H. Walker. The property is valued at $11,000. The sale was closed by Alvord Bros., Brokers.

A lot of land containing about 8,750 square feet located on Halcyon Rd., Newton Centre, has been sold to A. H. Walsh by Hans Christensen, through the office of Alvord Bros. It is valued at $2,000.

Sullivan & McCarthy, Newton Centre, report the sale of 10,347 square feet on Nobscot Road, Chestnut Hill section of Newton Centre, to Frank J. Sullivan of Roslindale. M. Maude Davis of Newton Centre is the grantor.

The same office reports the sale of 15,450 square feet on Nobscot Road, Chestnut Hill section of Newton Centre, to Frank J. Sullivan of Roslindale. G. W. Taylor is the grantor. Mr. Sullivan is to erect a residence for his own occupancy on the Davis and Taylor lots.

The installation of a new fire alarm and a new police signal system is said to be likely in this city. Having observed in our newspaper work the character of such systems we have long wondered how Newton managed to get along with the antiquated apparatus that has been utilized. Most every citizen has heard a patrolman at a signal box howling his lungs out, trying to make himself heard at Police Headquarters. It is the fault of the system, that's all. If it were not that the whole business is ancient and should have been replaced long ago a policeman could go to the box and report without telling the world about it, and it headquarters has something to tell him, like the theft of an automobile or some matter of equal or greater importance, that would reach the policeman's ear without delay. As it is now a policeman, to have a satisfactory conversation with his superiors, is compelled to go to a private residence and use the regular telephone. All this to our mind is absurd. Many smaller cities and towns of Massachusetts have systems of police and fire signals that so far surpass Newton's arrangement that a patriotic citizen is forced to blush. We are terribly behind the times in these matters. And mark you it does not reflect upon the fire or police departments in the slightest. They are and report with their work with the tools of the city has provided. And to the credit of the firemen and the policemen, from the Chiefs down, it should be said they have done admirably considering what they have been compelled to put up with in these matters.

Many smaller cities and towns of Massachusetts have systems of police and fire signals that so far surpass Newton's arrangement that a patriotic citizen is forced to blush. We are terribly behind the times in these matters. And mark you it does not reflect upon the fire or police departments in the slightest. They are and report with their work with the tools of the city has provided. And to the credit of the firemen and the policemen, from the Chiefs down, it should be said they have done admirably considering what they have been compelled to put up with in these matters.

The installation of a new fire alarm and a new police signal system is said to be likely in this city. Having observed in our newspaper work the character of such systems we have long wondered how Newton managed to get along with the antiquated apparatus that has been utilized. Most every citizen has heard a patrolman at a signal box howling his lungs out, trying to make himself heard at Police Headquarters. It is the fault of the system, that's all. If it were not that the whole business is ancient and should have been replaced long ago a policeman could go to the box and report without telling the world about it, and it headquarters has something to tell him, like the theft of an automobile or some matter of equal or greater importance, that would reach the policeman's ear without delay. As it is now a policeman, to have a satisfactory conversation with his superiors, is compelled to go to a private residence and use the regular telephone. All this to our mind is absurd. SCHOOL NOTES

High School

"Twelfth Night" recently given by the High School, was a tremendously noteworthy production, one that the Seniors may well be proud of.

Mrs. Caroline H. Mills, the director, was indispensable. Miss Irene M. Hawthorn, who shouldered the coaching burden on late notice, is to be particularly congratulated for her splendid work. The stage management and scenery were in the hands of Mrs. Blanche F. Bemis and Peter J. Kuntz. Mrs. Bemis being responsible for the beautiful garden scene while the clown's tabor, made by Mr. Kuntz, was most ingenious and required much labor. Edwin R. Pitt's painstaking and exceedingly clever work with the lighting deserves ample acknowledgment. To Miss Edith M. Rideout and her senior committee, go the laurels for the splendid costuming, and they are to be especially thanked for sacrificing a day of vacation to pack the costumes for returning. Mrs. Edith E. Newcombe who assisted in the makeup, as well as Miss Jeannie B. Kenrick of the candy committee, and Miss Margarita Ellis, who had charge of the designing, all come in for their full share of praise. The time is past when a single star can make a play. Those who acted even the minor parts may justly feel that their bit was essential. The class as a whole did its part by supplying the properties, and assisting in ushering and candy selling.

Harold Carver, star guard of last fall's football eleven and outstanding veteran for two seasons, was suddenly stricken with paralysis of the legs at his home in Newton Highlands, Feb. 26. He has the sympathy of his many friends in Newton.

Ernest R. Caverly, faculty adviser of the Newtonite, Raymond O. Rockwood, '25, editor-in-chief, Robert Quick, '25, assistant editor-in-chief, and Malcolm MacIntyre, '25, editor of the year book, and editorial writer of the Newtonite, will attend the convention of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association to be held at Columbia University today and tomorrow.

Shirley Eddy, '25, Frances Brooks, '26, Marion Frost, '27, and Eleanor Savage, '28, were elected captains of their respective class basketball teams.

Miss Mabel C. Bragg, assistant superintendent of schools, spoke to the teachers on the health of the students in the Newton schools, at the faculty meeting in the lecture hall Tuesday.

"The posture in the high school could be greatly improved," said Miss Bragg. She told how it would give a better impression to visitors to see pupils standing on their two feet while reciting rather than see them leaning on the desks and seats as they do now.

Edward Burnham, '25, was elected president of the Drama Club recently. The other officers elected were Elizabeth Savage, '25, vice-president; Gertrude Herlihy, '25, secretary; and Robert Grant, '25, treasurer.

F. A. Day Junior High School

During the past week the school has been visited by many out of town educators and normal school students. On March 19 the members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra Club will give their concert of Chamber Music including the following composers: Beethoven, Brahms, Chopin, Tchaikovsky, Bowdler, Grains, Grieg. This is the second of four concerts to be given in our Assembly Hall.

The girls have had two basket ball victories this week. At Arlington the score was 34-22 and at Waltham the score was 20-18.

Miss Anne Leawn and Miss Claire Curley, who have been observing classes and methods for thirteen weeks, are returning to Bridgewater Normal School to resume their studies.

Williams School

The children in Grade IV are reading with much pleasure "Robin Hood."

Saturday afternoon the moving picture of "Robin Hood" was given at the Auburndale Club House. Many of the children attended and were very enthusiastic over the picture. It was agreed however that the picture was less interesting than the book itself.

In our regular first of the month weighing, the usual after-vacation condition was noted, a falling off in the weight of several boys and girls. During any vacation when the regular daily habits are not maintained this proves true.

The fifth grade conducted a very interesting broadcasting program this week including news flashes, health stories, bed time stories and others in connection with the work in geography.

In Grade III the children are organizing a vegetable contest. Each child is planning to make a weekly chart for himself to account for each green vegetable he eats. On Friday afternoon an accounting will be made to find out the most popular vegetable in the room. Also each child checks himself up to see if he is eating enough vegetables.

The first grade of the Williams School entertained the Kindergarten the last half hour Monday morning. The Victrola was played and a discussion of the various songs followed. In the afternoon an original story was written by the first grade children concerning the events of the visit.

C. C. Burr School

On Friday afternoon the 8th grade Social Studies class gave a lecture hour on the industrial growth of the U. S. A. Following the talks, given by several members of the class, an exhibition of charts, posters, and actual specimens was held, the boys and girls demonstrating the industry most interesting to them.

Seventh grade Social Studies were interested in lectures on France given by Helen Bowley and Donald Hansen, whose talks were illustrated by lantern slides.

A member of the N. E. Food and Dairy Council gave an illustrated talk on "The Care of the Teeth" to the pupils of the fifth, seventh and eighth grades in the assembly hall at the Burr School last Monday morning.

The C. C. Burr District uses the "Educational Thrift Service."

The first of April, a cash distribution is to be made to the rooms having 100 per cent depositors every week.

Grade four, Mrs. Fiske's room, and grade six, Mrs. Spooner's room, are the two in the Williams School which have attained this to date.

Mason School

Alice Quirk, Ruth Bergeson, E. Lawrence, June Wilbar and Claire McCarthy.

Class dues are coming in gradually about four-fifths of the entire class having paid; and already the boys and girls are thinking what they can leave as a class gift.

Tuesday is music lesson day with Mr. Griffin. The eighth grade are taking hold of this interesting part of the program with much pleasure and it is a joy to hear them sing.

Stearns School

Those rooms having the highest attendance last month were: Miss Lovely's, 98.8; Miss Anderson's, 97.6; Miss Stoddard's, 97.1.

The New England Dairy and Food Council sent a speaker last Friday who talked to the 4th, 5th and 6th grades about their teeth.

The children were much interested because the illustrations were drawn, the speaker using colored crayon on paper.

Lasell

Last Sunday Miss L. R. Potter, preceptress of Lasell Seminary was the speaker at the regular afternoon service at Franklin Square House, Boston, Mass.

Dr. G. M. Winslow spoke at the Newton Rotary Club Monday, March 9, on twenty-seven years at Lasell Seminary. On Tuesday evening he gave an illustrated talk on Porto Rico at the Methodist Church in Auburndale, showing slides from photographs procured during his recent trip to the island.

This afternoon Henry W. Poor gives an illustrated lecture on "Switzerland and the Rhine" at Bragdon Hall, Saturday evening, March 14, the seniors will entertain the sophomores at Gardner Hall Gym. The party will be a barn dance and it is expected that the girls will appear in appropriate costumes.

At Vespers, Sunday evening, March 15, Frank W. Davidson of Auburndale, will speak on "Our Pilgrimage to Palestine."

Allen School

On the honor list at Smith College are two from Miss Allen's School, Jane Edmunds and Sarah Taylor.

Dean Lucy J. Franklin of Boston University spoke before the young ladies at Miss Allen's School on Tuesday.

The second winter dance at the Misses Allen School comes Saturday of this week. It is under the management of the Misses Phyllis Cotton, Rosemary Wyman and Laura C. Kown.

Y. W. C. A.

The Blue Triangle Club is to make a tour of the Boston Y. W. C. A. branches on Monday evening, starting with supper in the Fudge room of the Berkeley street home. On March 23rd the club will have as its distinguished guest Miss Carolyn Larkin, who is now Publicity Secretary of the Boston Y. W. C. A. Miss Larkin was a reporter at the front during the war, and has had many interesting experiences and an unusual gift of self-expression, so a rare treat is in store for the members of the club and their friends.

On Friday, March 20th, the High School Club of Girl Reserves is to have a supper and initiation ceremony, at which Miss Peirce will speak on psychology and the slogan of the Girl Reserves. Members of the Board of Directors will be the guests of the club at this meeting.

On March 27th the high school club will hold a pop concert at the rooms of the Association.

On March 20th a big all-Y. costume party will be held to celebrate the third anniversary of the Newton Y. W. C. A. Mrs. Doris Badger Clark, Miss Melba Peterson and Miss Elsie E. Bennett, former secretaries, will all be present. This will be the biggest rally of the year, and all the friends of the Association are invited to be present.

DEATH OF MR. TUPPER

Mr. Charles Binney Tupper, member of a Wall Street, New York, brokerage firm, who died at his home, 403 Convent avenue, New York, formerly lived in Newtonville where he was born. His father was the late Nathan W. Tupper, and his mother, Alice Binney street, Newtonville, with an aunt of Mr. Tupper, Miss Rachel R. Tupper. Mr. Tupper, who had resided in New York eighteen years, was a tenor singer and had made several public appearances. He also was interested in chess and trap shooting.

His wife formerly was Hermine L. Ettinger of Switzerland. There is also a surviving brother, Dr. Walter W. Tupper, assistant professor at Michigan University; and a sister, Mrs. Sara F. Morey, wife of Professor Charles R. Morey of Princeton University. Mr. Tupper studied at Harvard following his graduation from the Newton High School.

Services were held at his New York residence on Thursday and the burial was in New York.

NEWTON BOAT CLUB

The annual meeting of the Newton Boat Club was held at the Clubhouse Monday evening, March 9th. The purpose of the meeting was for the election of officers for the coming year 1925-1926. A very good proportion of the Club was present, including the members of the Newton Boat Club Trust. The Club was indeed fortunate in having the presence of Mr. Charles Hatfield, who gave an excellent impromptu speech.

The new officers elected are: President, Peter D. Boltz, Vice-President, M. Palais; Secretary, William M. Dunkle; Treasurer, Howard Goff; Captain, Charles A. Collins.

Refreshments consisting of doughnuts and coffee replenished the appetites of the almost fatigued, session-weary members. The prospects of the Newton Boat Club this year are excellent. A season of unusually good times lies ahead.

Mental and physical tests for certificates to drive automobiles are in their annual agitation. Decidedly, they are needed. There are persons driving cars now who are half blind, or deaf or crippled. These are the easy cases. There are those who will not keep sober. And that means, for automobile safety, dead sober, and not mere "not drunk." And there are those whose mental, emotional or physical reactions are too slow or uncertain. Tests for all these disabilities exist. And, if it were a matter of engineers or motormen, they would be applied. For a few hundreds or thousands it is easy.

But with automobiles, it means millions. Where are the competent experts or equipment to do it on such a scale? They simply do not exist. The automobile has swamped our scientific faculties quite as certainly as it has jammed our highways.

Postal employees throughout the country are, it can be safely assumed, pleased, for the pay raise for which they have long been contending is now assured. President Coolidge having signed the bill that means an increase of about an average of $300.00 a year for them. It is reasonable to expect that the postal service, now that it has been relieved of the handicap of being underpaid, of which it had so long vigorously complained, will respond to the increase by an improved efficiency. That will be the way for the service to satisfy the public which has to foot the bill.

But the nation which was moved to such profound sympathy by the endeavors to free a single man from his cave prison given but prefatory attention, or even jeers, to the efforts being made to free thousands of children from industrial slavery by means of the child labor amendment.

Friday the thirteenth—again.

DOLLAR DAY DEVELOPMENTS

The Newton Corner Dollar Day Committee held an enthusiastic meeting at the office of the Newton Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday afternoon with practically a full attendance. That the coming Newton Corner "Dollar Day" on Saturday, March 28, is to be the biggest merchandising event held in that corner of the city for several years is the conviction of all members of this committee, the members of which—individually and collectively—are giving a great deal of time to the development of the various details and to boosting the interest and enthusiasm of the other merchants who are in a position to participate.

Nothing will be intentionally overlooked that may contribute to the success of the event or the interest of the general public. Various special publicity methods have already been adopted by the committee, while others are under consideration. This committee will make a full report at the big "Get-Together Meeting" of the Newton Corner merchants at Elks Hall next Monday evening, March 16.

Among the publicity features already decided upon are the hanging of large canvas banners across the streets at Newton Corner, special "Dollar Day" pennants, banners, and posters for use in store windows, and special newspaper publicity of various types. To let every resident of the Newton Corner section know of the event, and to reach them with a forceful collective message from the Newton Corner merchants as a whole—as well as with the individual messages of each merchant—is the aim of the committee. It is already apparent that only the interest and cooperation of the buying public is now required to bring about the successful realization of the fondest expectations of the committee, and to insure a repetition of the event from time to time, with its accompanying buying advantages to the general public.

That the initial "Dollar Day" may be an unqualified success from every viewpoint, the Newton Corner storekeepers are planning an array of "Dollar Day" bargains and "specials" that will make it profitable and worth while for any person to go shopping at Newton Corner on March 28. None of the interested merchants are entering into the movements with the idea of making money as far as any possible profit on Dollar Day sales are concerned—but rather to give an effective demonstration to the people of Newton of the shopping and buying facilities at Newton Corner, and to help to influence more people to acquire the habit of trading at home.

TO HOLD REUNION

Last week Wednesday evening a general committee met at St. Agnes School and made plans for a Grand Reunion, Whist, and Dancing party to take place April 16, after Easter.

This will be the largest affair ever held at St. Agnes School. J. N. McDonald of Auburndale was elected chairman of the committee. Mr. J. Quaint of Newton, Mr. J. McNamara of Abington and Mr. Dan Barnacle of Auburndale also will serve with the chairman.

Plans are made to have all the friends interested in St. Agnes School meet Sunday afternoon, April 5th, where the committee will entertain these friends with music and a collation.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

State House, Boston.—As the session of 1925 progresses some of the more important measures are to receive consideration. It seems a habit with every legislature to let the "big bills" remain undisturbed in committee until there is talk of prorogation, or at least until members begin to ask each other, "When do you think we will get through?" That question, this year, as in all previous years, is hard to answer inasmuch as there is no telling what is likely to happen. There is a strong feeling that the General Court could if it wished bring the 1925 session to a close next month. That would be most unusual, however. A safer prediction is that it will continue into May. Of course this year is not a year of elections and members have not hanging over their heads the question of whether they will have a hard time to secure re-election. It is not fair to ascribe this motive to all of them, but some, at least, are guided by thoughts of the future.

Whether women will be compelled to perform jury service is a matter that must soon be taken up. The Committee on Joint Judiciary, one of the ablest in the General Court, finds itself unable to agree. Eight members favor compulsory jury service for women and eight oppose it. If this is any indication of the attitude of the other members of the Legislature, there is likely to be a struggle in both houses before the bill is passed or rejected.

A bill has been reported requiring automobile owners to insure themselves against accidents either to person or property. This means long debates in both branches as there is an activity on the part of proponents and opponents that cannot be shut off without considerable argument.

City Solicitor Bartlett spoke before the Committee on Ways and Means last Wednesday in favor of the petition of Mayor Childs that the City of Boston be required to pay the State the balance due on account of the construction of the embankment on the Boston side of the Charles River Basin.

Mr. Bartlett said that this would be no burden on the City of Boston at the present time, and would be advantageous to other cities of the Commonwealth. He added that he did not favor the amendment offered by Representative Hollis, which would impose a penalty of 6 per cent interest rate upon Boston.

Murray Pakulski, Assistant Corporation Counsel for the City of Boston, said that Boston intends to pay the money this year, but that they hoped to do so out of the tax rate, and not with borrowed money. He said that the only objection to the petition in so far as it cast a reflection on the City of Boston, he reminded the committee that Boston was not obliged to pay this bill, but was doing so of its own free will.

"I understand that about $300,000 of the $600,000 that we intend to pay will be returned to the City of Boston, for we will pay only if the cost is to be distributed," Mr. Pakulski said.

State Treasurer William S. Youngman, although he has been in office a little less than two months, having assumed his duties January 21, has proved himself well qualified for the position. He started in by insisting that there should be a warrant from the Governor and Council for every cent disbursed by the State Treasurer's office. This was agreed upon by the Governor and Council because there had been instituted a system of paying out money on written promise of the Comptroller that he "would certify to the Governor and Council" that such-and-such bills were proper and should be paid. The idea was to obtain a discount for prompt payment by the State of its bills. There was nothing irregular about it except that money was paid out by the State Treasurer's office without a warrant and this was contrary to the constitution. Mr. Youngman evolved a plan whereby the money was not only paid according to the provisions of the constitution but in season to obtain the cash discount. Another example of his alertness was his bill for authority to dispose of a quantity of souvenir half-dollars issued to commemorate the Pilgrim Tercentenary. There are 52,000 of these, the par value of which is $26,000. Collectors and others have come to Mr. Youngman as State Treasurer offering to buy the coins at a premium of 100 per cent. Mr. Youngman saw immediately the advantage to the State of selling $26,000 worth of coin for $52,000. This and his other official acts show clearly that "on the job" which is what Massachusetts people like to think of their State officers.

Newton Representatives were not united on the bill to permit cities and towns to fix the minimum wage of police officers at $6 a day. None took part in the discussion which occurred Wednesday when the measure was reported by the Committee on Public Service. No Newton member took part in the debate which was rather brief. The measure received a stronger support than was expected as revealed by the roll-call. The question was on ordering the bill to a third reading. There were 94 yeas and 100 nays. Mr. Hollis voted "yes," Mr. Luitwieler voted "no" and Mr. Saltonstall voted "no" on a pair with Representative McLaughlin of Holbrook.

ADD UNDER THE GILDED DOME

The House yesterday rejected all professional Sunday baseball bills, so called. There were three measures. One permitted collections to be taken up at Sunday games, another permitted players to be paid for playing on Sundays, and a third provided for Sunday professional games. Newton's three Representatives voted "No" on each rollcall, there being a rollcall on each of the three measures. This action of the House seems to settle, for this year at least, the question of any change in the laws governing Sunday sports.

The Senate yesterday substituted for an adverse committee report a bill to provide for the nomination of Secretary of State, Auditor, Treasurer, and Attorney General, by conventions of political parties. The bill was that petitioned for by Congressman Foss of Fitchburg, former chairman of the Republican State Committee. Thus the believers in changing the system of direct primaries in the matter of minor State officers have won the first stage of their fight. The end is not yet, however, as the House has to concur in order that the measure may become law. Senator Rice of this city voted on roll call against substituting the bill for the committee's adverse report.

Representative Saltonstall is a member of the special committee of the two branches appointed to arrange for memorial exercises April 1 as a tribute to the late U. S. Senator, Henry Cabot Lodge.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, March 11.—It seems that the country as a whole has sustained a change of heart in regard to legislative proceedings. Ordinarily, the citizens are willing to allow Congress to disband without regret. The sudden discovery that the Vice-President of the United States is a personality instead of a Constitutional rubber stamp intrigues the attention of the reading public. Although Americans are usually a peace-loving people they occasionally relish a quarrel within the family to break the monotony.

There has been much hullabaloo about General Dawes since he took the front position at the inaugural ceremony. Nothing astonishes men so much as common-sense and plain dealing. That is the real reason for the unusual attention paid the new Vice-President.

There is nothing new in Mr. Dawes' activities. He has been the selling agent, but not always the originator, of ideas. It will be recalled that by sheer force of personality he sold the so-called Dawes plan for the rehabilitation of Germany. Those who understand the real situation know that Dawes had little to do with the financial details. The credit is due him for selling the proposition to the European peoples and international bankers. He sold the budget system to the country by the same method.

It is a tradition that Vice-President, like the younger son of a family, should be seen and not heard. The Senate naturally resents the initial speech of its new presiding officer which was delivered bluntly and imperiously. Some say it was comparable to a rookie in the Army delivering orders to 96 regimental commanders. The comment depends on the identity of the narrator.

Prediction has been made that Mr. Dawes will find hard-sledding ahead. The Senate contains many wily men with parliamentary tricks up their sleeves. Mr. Dawes objects to filibusters whereby one man may obstruct legislation indefinitely. Cognizant of the inevitable conflict between the Senate and the presiding officer, those interested in national legislation want the Senate to continue in special session indefinitely.

It appears, however, that the extra session will be short. The House will not meet at this time. It was for the express purpose of confirming presidential appointments to Federal posts that the session was called. An agreement was reached which added the Isle of Pines' treaty to the Senate's program. The debate on this matter may be prolonged for several weeks because of nation-wide agitation.

This treaty has been pending before the Senate for more than 20 years. It involves the surrender of the Isle of Pines, a few miles off the coast of Cuba, to the Cuban government. Inasmuch as the island was developed by American capital and is now owned by American residents they oppose the treaty on the ground that their citizenship will be lost and their properties endangered under Cuban rule. The fate of the treaty is uncertain because Senator Borah, the Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is opposed to its ratification. On the other hand, the Administration, through the State Department, has approved ceding the island to the neighboring republic.

Though the Committee on Committees of the Senate and House have assigned certain members to vacancies on the major committees, there are numerous committees untouched. The folks back home usually believe that a congressman is of influence in legislation because he is a member of the national legislature. This perspective is radically different in Washington. A legislator's importance is measured by his rank on committees. Those who remain in Congress from session to session have one great ambition—to serve as chairman of a major committee. The chairmanship is an unimpeachable sign of influence in legislative matters. As a rule the seniority system prevails and to attain power in Congress it is necessary that the congressman retain his popularity with the voting public and bide his time. In other words, he must outlive, in a political sense, his colleagues on committees in order to reach the coveted post of chairman of a mortality rate in politics always high.

The Government departments are settling down to routine business. Their future is assured for another year as the result of congressional appropriations. Several investigations are under way by Federal departments. These include the inquiry into the electric power and tobacco industry by the Federal Trade Commission. At least five committees of Congress are touring the insular possessions to obtain information, they claim, upon which to base legislative policies. Others, less indulgent, classify these excursions as "junkets" paid for by the taxpayers.

MERCHANTS TO MEET

All advance indications point to a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting at Elks Hall, Newton Corner, next Monday evening, March 16, when the business men of Newton Corner will meet to organize a Newton Corner Merchants' Division of the Newton Chamber of Commerce and to complete arrangements for the big "Dollar Day" on Saturday, March 28. Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock, after which there will be an address on the advantages of organized effort to merchants by E. Fred Cullen, President of the Johnson Educator Cracker Company of Cambridge. This will be followed by the election of officers and the completion of the other details incident to the new organization, after which an interesting report will be presented by the special "Dollar Day" committee, which has been at work for the past week perfecting plans for consideration and approval at this meeting.

This committee has also developed the arrangements for the general meeting next Monday evening, and deems itself very fortunate in having secured the services of Mr. Cullen, who is well and favorably known as a speaker to business men's organizations, and has long been active and prominent in the work of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock. While this is primarily a merchants meeting, anyone engaged in any line of business at Newton Corner will be cordially welcome.

Members of the committee are Bernard M. Burke at the Hudson Pharmacy, James Burrows at the Burrows Furniture Co., William M. Cahill at the Newton Trust Company, George C. Campbell at C. H. Campbell & Co., Charles H. Clark at the Newton Savings Bank, Andrew J. Ford at the Ford Market, Frank M. Goss, Pedrick & Goss, A. P. Hartshorn at the Garden City Press, John A. One of the most important meetings of the year was held on Thursday of last week, by the Newton Woman's Christian Temperance Union, in Cline Memorial Church, Newton Highlands. The inclement weather was a discouragement, yet a large number of devoted members listened with deep interest to the "Echoes from the National Convention."

The future plan of campaign, formulated by the National Organization and forwarded to Massachusetts through the medium of Mrs. Grace M. Hamilton, president of Worcester County, for the enlightenment "of those who will."

"A greater task than that already accomplished now lies ahead—the enforcement of the law. Each member must stand by for the supreme test. The first subjects for attention will be: Scientific Temperance Instruction, still a necessity for the protection of the children.

1. To increase membership 25%.

2. To interest young people in the cause.

3. To attend the local Court liquor cases.

4. To work for jail sentences for liquor cases."

At the close of the paper "Mighty Lak" A Rose" and "Mighty Light" were delightfully rendered by Miss Dorothy Goddard.

The next regular meeting of the West Newton W. C. T. U. will be held at the home of Mrs. Sarah Hovenden, 60 Austin street, Newtonville, next Monday evening. Mrs. Wm. E. Strong will be the speaker. As this is the annual roll call, every member is urged to be present and send a message in response to her name.

Some members of the West Newton W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. Sarah Hovenden last Friday and made puzzle books for the invalid soldiers.

"THE HUT" AT CENTENARY CHURCH

Wednesday, March 4, at 8.00 o'clock, the Methodist Young Men's Club of Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church, Auburndale, presented Fannie Barnett Linskey's drama, "The Hut."

The mystery of the play centered around John Rand, the Governor, which part was splendidly played by Maurice C. Hutchins. Kenneth Bourne, as MacGregor Spillane, proprietor of the hut, displayed genuine histrionic ability, while Donald Wilson, Fred Van Wormer, Milton Hall, and Edward Gammons as guests at the hut played their parts with verve and dash. Wit and humor shone forth brilliantly in their playing.

Ernest Frude as the chauffeur had a genuine comedy part and kept the audience in laughter continually. Raymond Mabey, as Dickey, son of Lawrence Orme, a guest at the hut, and Charles Hilliard and Alexander Fraser, Jr., as detective officers delivered their lines with distinction and conviction.

Great credit for the success of the play is due Rev. Kendall Bass, Director of Young Peoples', who coached the cast. Mr. Bass is having great success in his general work with the young people as teacher and athletic coach. This is his first appearance in the role of dramatic coach.

Between acts Ian Fraser sang to the delight of an enthusiastic audience.

The audience filled the Parish House to overflowing, and responded to every line of the play with obvious approval.

The Young Men's Club has some very ambitious plans for the near future. The proceeds of this play will be used as an initial fund for building a new club house on land recently purchased by the trustees of the church. This club house will have special rooms for the young men, young women and for the large classes of men and women in Centenary Sunday School. Shower baths will likewise be installed in connection with the regular gymnasium work of the club.

"Laborers' Land" Real Meaning of Labrador

According to Scandinavian sagas, Blorn and Eric the Red discovered Labrador about the year 1000, a writer in the Pathfinder Magazine tells us. They named it Helluland, land of slate or naked rocks. The modern discoverer of Labrador was John Cabot who visited it in 1497, the year he discovered Newfoundland. There are two explanations of how the region received its present name. According to tradition, a Basque whaler named La Bradore settled in the bay of that name about 1520. Afterward the whole region came to be called Labrador after the name of this first visitor. But this account of the naming of Labrador is not generally accepted by historians. The more probable origin of the name is as follows: The name is of Portuguese origin and means "laborer." In 1500 Cortereal took to Portugal a cargo of natives from this region. Many say they were Eskimos, but it is more probable that they were ordinary Indians. At any rate, the natives seemed so well adapted for laborers that King Emmanuel thought that he had come into possession of another slave coast whence slaves might be exported to the Portuguese colonies. Hence the name "Laborer," or laborers' land.

Many Claim Animals Dream and See Spirits

Most people are satisfied that animals dream, and many believe that they see spirits. Here are some recorded instances, as related by the Montreal Star: A horse was to be put in a stable at a hotel while the owner had his lunch. The horse would not enter the hotel yard, so the owner asked what was the cause. The reply was: "I expect he knows we have a dead man here, taken from the river this morning."

A terrier was seen begging (as he always begs for sugar, then he barked and went upstairs, then begged again. A person who was a clairvoyant noticed this, and saw he was begging to the spirit of the lady who, when she was on earth, taught him to beg for sugar. A cat was seen running all over a bedroom, got upon the bed, etc. The cat was trying to follow a spirit form that was moving about the bedroom. At a lecture given at the Crystal Palace a live rat was put in a glass tube, and the tube was sealed up at each end. The room was in darkness and an electric light was put onto the tube. When the rat died a form the same shape as a rat came from the tube and went up in the air.

Seek Handkerchief Origin

It is difficult to assign a period and a country of origin to the handkerchief. But it seems to have been known in remote ages, and traces of it are to be found among the Egyptians. On the contrary, strange as it may seem, the Greeks appear not to have used handkerchiefs, says the Detroit News. Passing from the Greeks to the Romans, we find that the latter had something of the kind which they called "sudarium" (sweat, sweat). It was of the finest lace and was used chiefly as an ornament and as a fan during the games in the circus.

For many centuries afterward there is no mention of handkerchiefs, and we only find traces of them about 1550 in Italy. For many years the handkerchief was round and oval, and it was not till the time of Louis XVI that it became square.

Women Give Up Before Little Things of Life?

Men smash and fall under big misfortune, loss of health or financial disaster. Most women who fail, fail just because the little things of life have defeated them.

Lady Diana Duff Cooper wrote an article on this subject. She called it "When Women Fail."

In it she said: "When the woman who fails confesses that after years of half-hearted struggle she at last reached her opportunity but lacked the motive power to seize it, she spoke the bitter truth of many failures. . . . How many women fly off from study, concentration or rest just to run out to tea or a week-end . . . yet they expect that weathercock success to register a steady wind."

And there, all in a nutshell, you have it—the reason why women fail, observes the Philadelphia Record.

As far as "half-hearted struggles" go there is very little to be said. Competition is too keen, every path in life too crowded for half-hearted efforts to succeed. Whatever your line may be, your wish to succeed must be ardent. You must wish it with your soul, your heart, your mind. The lukewarm never succeeded and we even have biblical authority that rather than that it's best to be frankly cold.

So make up your mind to be one thing or the other—to be as keen as mustard or else to make no attempt.

But what about the women who are as keen as mustard and who yet fail through trivial petty distractions? Their only hope is to develop a will like iron and a heart of stone.

When the Fuzzy Wuzzies "Crumpled Up the Square"

It was at the battle of Tamal in the Sudan, on March 13, 1884, that the Fuzzy Wuzzies "broke the British square." The tribesmen, utterly reckless of death, charged an angle of the square in the face of what seemed an annihilating fire. They threw themselves on the bayonets, and used their spears in the death agony before the bayonets could be withdrawn. They came over the bodies of their own dead, and crawling on hands and knees, under the muzzles of the guns, they gained the inside of the square, and stabbed and slashed until one brigade gave way in confusion, and its guns were captured. The other brigades closed in, the guns were retaken, and the Fuzzies were chased far past the scene of this momentary triumph, but they had "crumpled up the square," and the exploit caught the British imagination and put Fuzzy Wuzzies into English literature. The Fuzzies themselves belonged to the Hadendowa tribe and were commanded by Osman Digna, although the latter generally kept himself in a place of safety during the fighting. The Fuzzies got their name owing to the peculiar manner in which they wore their hair. The Black Watch formed part of the "square," and fought with the utmost bravery during the whole of the campaign against the Mahdi.

Scientific Future Love

The matrimonial reports of our day are undertaking to put love on a sound, scientific basis. Let us skip a few hundred years and behold the synthetic romance of a youth and a maid of some generations to come. The young man, armed with a stethoscope, a tape measure and the means of making a blood test, goes to call upon the lady whose charms have attracted him. He taps a vein, listens to the thump of her heart and to the wind whistling through her bronchial tubes and ends his labors with a careful examination of the soles of her feet. Satisfied with the showing he makes a request for a kiss and obtains one, duly hygienized through a strainer whipped from a vanity bag. That is, he does unless the young woman wallows him instead. —Toledo Blade.

Friendship With Nature

What sweet and tender, the most innocent and divinely encouraging society there is in every natural object, and so in universal nature, even for the poor misanthrope and most melancholy man. There can be no really black melancholy to him who lives in the midst of nature and has still his senses. There never was yet such a storm, but it was Aeolian music to the innocent ear. Nothing can compel to a vulgar sadness a simple and brave man. While I enjoy the friendship of the seasons I trust that nothing can make life a burden to me.—Thoreau.

England's Fish Rain

In August, 1918, a small territory in northern England enjoyed what was possibly the most novel of all showers. The precipitation in large part consisted of fish. The explanation which has been made, and which is seemingly a logical one, is that a waterspout offshore lifted the fish by its power, carried them a short distance inland, and with the dispersion of the waterspout and its power dropped the fish on the land. Science and Invention Magazine.

Traveler's Tale

"Traveler!" said a sailor in a train to a passenger who had questioned him. "I should think I have. I've been all round the world; over an under it, too. There ain't many ports I don't know the inside of."

"Yes, we did put in there once, but only to coal ship. 'Taint worth a place, what I remember of it."

Object Lesson Should Have Impressed Youth

A boy returned from school one day with a report that his scholarship had fallen below the usual average.

"Well," said the father, "you've fallen behind this month, have you?"

"Yes, sir."

"How did that happen?"

"Don't know, sir."

The father knew, if the son did not. He had observed a number of cheap novels scattered about the house, but had not thought it worth while to say anything until a fitting opportunity should offer itself. A basket of apples stood upon the floor, and he said:

"Empty out those apples, and take the basket and bring it to me half full of chips."

Suspecting nothing, the son obeyed.

"And now," he continued, "put those apples back in the basket."

When half the apples were replaced, the son said:

"Father, they roll off; I can't put in any more."

"Put them in, I tell you."

"But, father, I can't put them in."

"Put them in! No, of course you can't put them in. Do you expect to fill a basket half full of chips and then fill it with apples? You said you did not know why you fell behind at school. I will tell you. Your mind is like that basket. It will not hold more than so much, and here you have been for the past month filling it with chip-dirt—cheap novels."—Bom-bay Guardian.

Cruel Human Sacrifices Part of Aztec Religion

In ancient Mexico, the Mexico of the Aztecs, human sacrifices were not only the custom, but practically the only sacrifice offered. But mostly the sacrifices were composed of offenders, law-breakers and enemies. Enemies were generally offered up in preference to victims of their own race.

Another civilization much like the Aztec was the Incas. The Aztecs and the people of the Incas worshipped a sun god much as the Egyptians and the Babylonians, although the moon was a sort of lesser divinity to each, finding its counterpart in the Egyptian Isis.

The human sacrifices were unnecessarily cruel. The victim was either laid upon a regular sacrificial table and had his heart cut out by a few incisions, or else was put upon an eminence and armed with a blunt wooden sword. He was then attacked successively by men armed with obsidian swords and very sharp. He fought until he was killed. Many evidences of these cruelties have been excavated.

There was another custom, that of a priest praying a person to death. This was believed quite possible. Anyone whom a priest was known as praying to die was certain to die. For the most part they died, killed by terror—Bruce Bryan, in Art and Archeology.

Land Ruled by Insects

After an African trip an English explorer said that on the dark continent the fly was the ruler of man, for the human was constantly battling with it. "Africa," he says, "is but an ant heap. What a land of insects! What a power they wield! This is the sort of country it is: 'We journeyed down to the valley, starting early to miss the heat of the day, black and white men, armed with fly-switches, each with an ear attuned to the buzz of the tsetse fly behind him. In six days we reached the Luangwa river, which runs at the valley bottom.' This was a wild spot where the canoe awaited Mr. Barnes and his fellow travelers. The banks were lined with great mahogany trees, raffia palms and hanging monkey ropes. Brilliant birds and butterflies were there. 'Elephants came there nightly to drink,' says Mr. Barnes. 'Hippos snorted in the pools. The broad river alone was alluring after the arid bush behind us.'"

Angier School

A vaudeville show was presented last week to the children and parents of Waban by sixteen members of the school. The great success was due to the constant coaching and supervision of Mr. Penney, our principal.

The first act was a dumb act by "two clowns, Donald Dimock and Dana Dutch. It was greatly enjoyed by all the audience. Frank Baxter and Kermit Fogg, followed by an act entitled "Just a Line of Chatter." This was enjoyed mostly by the elder people in the audience. Raymond Ferris took the part of "Hishen Liew," a Chinese magician. A tramp act followed, starring Loring Siegner and following that was a comedy in one act with Raymond Ferris, Donald Dimock, Frank Baxter, John Argersinger, Dana Dutch, and Edward Offutt. This was probably the funniest act of the evening. The last act was an up to date downtown radio concert entitled "Listening In." The actors in this home they appeared were Charles Leach, Dunbar Holmes, Sam Douglas, Sam Davis, Willis Pinkham, and Kermit Fogg.

This show increased the school fund eighty dollars. The money raised for this fund will go toward a new moving picture machine. The money that was in the fund before was used to purchase footballs, soccer balls, basketballs and gymnasium equipment.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Newton Federation

If anyone thinks that to be the President of this club is a very simple task, because there are only three meetings in the year, and a few Board meetings, they ought to follow this very active person over the State of Massachusetts for a few weeks, to Presidents' Days, where she has to represent her city by speeches—and to make excellent impressions that all may look upon our Federation with respect—to Presidents' Conferences, to meetings on club matters, and on a thousand present day problems, where she must keep informed on all trends of our times. Mrs. Ernest Cobb has done her full duty on these things and we know of her as travelling up and down the State attending club and other meetings until it becomes a marvel as to how she manages to be in so many places at the same time—or so it seems!

Parents' Visiting Day on Tuesday at the High School is reported an amazing success, full of entertainment and of demonstration as to what is being done not only in instruction in the schools, but in bringing together in viewpoint and understanding the two factors of our young peoples lives—parents and teachers. The Girls' Glee Club, those who heard it say: "sang beautifully," and the high school orchestra was splendid. Demonstration of the speed—and modern method—of typing the play of a victrola, makes all wish they could have seen this done. But all of us haven't the faculty of being everywhere at once!

The Newton Federation may be proud that their Education Chairman, Mrs. J. Porter Russell, is so aiding in these conferences and arousing the interest of Newton residents. The meetings are practically becoming a part of our education work of the club, for our committee furnishes the hostesses for the day, and aids in many ways to make them a success. Mrs. Russell herself was hostess on Tuesday.

Club members are reminded that next Monday, the 16th, is Board meeting day at the Newton Club, 10.15, and they are urged to be present if possible. As a means of bringing together all the clubs and their interests, and in getting their various opinions and viewpoints, and problems, the Federation Board meeting is an excellent meeting-ground. Miss Cora Riley, the new visiting teacher, will be present to speak on her work. Mr. Stuart, the City Commissioner of Streets, will address us, and Mr. Wood, of the Athletic Association, will talk about the athletic field, in which the clubs have become so interested, in an effort to secure privileges for the girls.

Recent Events

"Machine-Made Beauty" at the March 2nd meeting of the Monday Club proved to be a most fascinating array of book prints, embroideries, velvets, reproduced on cotton cloth by Italian skill, and any number of wonderful examples of machine and hand work, until one could fancy oneself in an Eastern bazaar, where treasures undreamed of were to be stumbled upon. Visions of Bagdad, and other intriguing old cities flashed into mind on viewing these wonders of art.

Mrs. A. H. Armstrong and Mrs. S. W. Jones discussed the exhibit which was held at the home of Mrs. G. A. Salmon. Mrs. Raymond Fosgate added to the pleasure of the afternoon by singing, and Miss Talbot was her accompanist.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday, Mrs. Irving U. Townsend presented a paper on "The Constitution and its Interpretation: John Marshall," the fifth on the study topic for the year "Men and Movements of Our Early History."

Mrs. Townsend began by saying that in a sense the Mayflower compact may be called the first American constitution. She traced the various stages and gradual development of the constitutional idea from the first Continental Congress assembled in Philadelphia in 1774, to the convention which met in the same city in 1787 with Washington as chairman, to draw up a constitution. The fifty-five delegates labored for four months, secrecy being insisted upon, and after bitter debate, followed by concessions and compromises, the document was completed and ready for ratification by the States. This proved a long and stormy process, but was finally accomplished, partly owing to the influence of "Hamilton's" paper, "The Federalist," and his efforts in the New York convention to bring that most important State into line. Washington was inaugurated President of the United States in New York on April 30, 1789.

One of the most important acts of the first Congress was a bill organizing the Supreme Court. On February 2, 1790, it held its first session, with John Jay of New York as first Chief Justice.

Mrs. Townsend then turned on the life of John Marshall, born on the Virginia frontier of parents who educated their children carefully. The youthful John served as Lieutenant in the regiment of which his father was major during the war, and went through the experience of Valley Forge. After the war he began his law practice, married, and returned to his home.

He took an important part in the convention for the ratification of the Constitution in the Virginia legislature. Later he served as Secretary of State under President Adams, and at the very end of Adams' term of office when the Federal government was in the hands of the British.

Another appeal to artistic sense, and one that ought to bring out a goodly number of our club members, is the exhibition of Water Colors—all painted by Newton Artists—which will take place in the Club gallery during the week of the 19th, until March 26th, inclusive. Those who wish to view these paintings, and awaken, if they have not already, to the talent of our Newton acquaintances, may do so daily during this week.

In this good club, also, is now going bravely, and appetizingly, forward the series of cooking demonstrations of the Washburn-Crosby Company, for whom Miss Welmer is a most interesting "demonstrator," and it is hoped that many of our club members will be able to hear her, and of learning "tricks," are not being so foolish as to be too busy, or too indifferent, to let them hitherward!

Art again—and a most interesting and a bit unknown in these modern rushing times—is Potter's Art, the subject for the March 16th meeting of the Newton Upper Falls club, by Miss A. Kretschmar of the Jones, McDuffie and Stratton Company. The meeting is an evening one, and Mrs. Robert McLaughlin, Chairman in charge.

On Wednesday, March 18th, Mrs. Francis S. Parsons opens her home for a second time for a matinee whist for the Piano Fund. There will be refreshments and prizes. The significance of "second time" needs explanation, so that all may know of the wide interest in and success of the efforts to get a new piano for the Kindergarten room of the Emerson School. So many wanted to attend the whist of February 22nd, when the club president graciously opened her home in this splendid cause that all could not be accommodated, and Mrs. Parsons, rather than forfeit the inflow of dollars toward the fund, was only too glad to open her home a second time for the good cause. It would appear that at the rate these enterprises are bringing in reward it will not be long before the shining instrument will materialize.

Music—another form of art, and one that because of the Pipes of Pan, seems Springlike—is in the air for the Audubon Woman's Club in the next two weeks.

"The Viola d'Amore," a little known musical instrument, will be the subject of the lecture by Mr. Paul Shirley, a member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, at the meeting in the Auditorium on March 17th at 2.30 P. M. Mr. Reginald Boardman will be the pianist of the afternoon. Miss Barbara Hillard Smith will sing, and tea will be served at the close of the meeting.

Then there is announcement of a concert to be given by the far famed Audubon Woman's Club Chorus. The concert scheduled for March 25th, at 8.00 P. M. in the Auditorium is hoped will attract from not only Audubon club members and others, but from the other Newtons as well. The program is in two parts; first, miscellaneous; and second, a cantata, "The Highwayman." There will be assisting artists, Miss Marie Zeleny, violin; Miss Florence Colby, cellist; Mr. Walter Kidder, baritone. The proceeds are for the Chorus and for the piano fund. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. MacNutt, Chairman, Tel. W. N. 0908, or from any member of the Chorus. They urge you to come and enjoy an evening of good music.

And then there is another program—not unmixed art, but with a dash of science—scheduled for March 17th, by the Newtonville Woman's Club, when Rev. Willard L. Sperry, Dean of the Divinity School of Harvard University and well-known lecturer, will speak on "The Artist and the Scientist."

Dramatic interest and creative ability are shown again in two other announcements of the same club: On Monday afternoon, March 16th, in the Junior High School Library, at 3.15, Mr. Francis Bacon, Director of Secondary Education in Newton, will address the class studying "The Modern Drama and Little Theatre Movement," on "Dramatics for School and Community." This is a rare opportunity to hear Mr. Bacon on a pertinent subject, and all club members are invited to attend.

Attention is focusing on ways and means of increasing the scholarship fund which the club maintains for a girl residing in the City of Newton, preferably Newtonville, who is eligible by reason of scholarship, character, and financial need; the scholarship is conferred at the discretion of the Executive Board. The Dramatics Committee, Mrs. Norman Southworth, Chairman, is the first to step forward with a project to increase the fund; rehearsals have already begun for a one-act play to be presented early in April, in the Technical High School Hall.

And once more artistic genius to the fore—just to prove that another section of Newton hasn't the monopoly of the encouragement.

On April 21st, at the annual luncheon and business meeting there is to be an exhibition of the work of Newtonville artists and craftsmen. It is earnestly hoped this innovation will awaken general interest and receive the active co-operation of all who enjoy the work. Those intending to make entries should notify Mrs. Hubert G. Ripley, 36 Birch Hill road.

The musical event of the Club season of the Woman's Club of Newton Highlands, comes off next Tuesday in Lincoln Hall, when Ruth Masters, 'cello, Nina Spaulding, violin, Frances Adelman, piano, and Mr. Charles Ellis, tenor, will appear in an afternoon's program presented by Mrs. Earle C. Rundlette, chairman of the Music Committee. Guest cards may be obtained in advance. Mrs. William H. White of Wellesley Hills, Director of the twelfth district, will be the President's guest for the day.

Club tickets will admit all members on March 24th when Miss Eunice Avery will give the last of her lectures on Current Events. Following her talk the meeting will be thrown open to a discussion relating to the increase of annual dues. Every member is urged to be ready to present her own prejudiced opinion on this important change before the vote is taken on April 7th.

Pussy-willows will reward the members who join the hike on March 18th led by Mrs. Harry P. Forté.

And now comes Spring gardening and that most fascinating topic of seeds and bulbs. Mr. George N. Smith of Newton Lower Falls will tell of "Home Gardening," illustrated by the helpful and hopeful process of stereotypes of garden spots before and after the effort of cultivation and care, when members of the West Newton Women's Educational Club meet on the 19th for luncheon at the home of Mrs. R. C. Thompson, 60 Hull street, Newtonville. The luncheon is scheduled for 1 o'clock, and as if this were not enough opportunity for enjoyment of companionship and "home comfort," there is this added program, which is always so inspiring in the Spring time. Every one knows of some nook or plot of land that has garden possibilities and only needs the incentive of practical suggestion and the proof as shown in such pictures to make her go home and "start something." Members will aid and abet one another in this starting process, too, for they will take pot seeds and bulbs to this meeting and exchange with their fellows, for the good of all concerned. It will be interesting to learn sometime in the Summer just what "grew" from out this day in March.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday, March 18th, Mrs. Frank R. Stubbs will present a paper on "The Period of National Expansion: Thomas Jefferson"—the sixth on the study topic for the year, "Men and Movements of Our Early History."

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands is planning for their March 16th meeting "A Trip to Iceland," under the guidance of Mrs. J. C. S. Taber, and they get from the home of Mrs. C. G. Wetherbee, 47 Terrace Avenue.

Rabbi Harry Levi will speak in the Albert Angier School on the evening of March 16th, for the Waban Woman's Club, at 8 P. M. Mrs. James E. Meissner is Chairman of the program. The Rabbi's subject is "The Vocation of Parenthood." Each member may bring a guest, and in fact the program is open free of charge to all people of the community who wish to attend. (Your editor thinks this will mean a crowded hall, and it ought to, for Rabbi Levi is a splendid and inspiring speaker, as all who heard him at the Federation meeting a year ago last Fall have good cause to know, and

LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Draws Large Audience at Community Theatre

The lecture on Christian Science by Judge Frederick C. Hill in Community Theatre, last Sunday afternoon, was listened to with the closest attention by a large audience. The lecture was given under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Newton, whose First Reader, Mr. Wentworth P. Barker, introduced the speaker in these words:

"Friends: The members of First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Newton extend to you all a most cordial welcome. We have invited our friends here today to hear statements of truth regarding Christian Science.

Some twenty years ago I was told many things about Christian Science by people who thought they were telling me the truth; but when I went to an authoritative source I found that many of the things I knew about Christian Science I didn't really know at all because they were not true.

So today we have one to address us who speaks with authority, he being a member of the Board of Lecturers of The Mother Church, in Boston, Massachusetts, and it gives me great pleasure to introduce to you Judge Frederick C. Hill, C. S. of Clinton, Illinois, whose subject is "Christian Science: God's Revelation of Spiritual Healing."

Judge Hill spoke as follows: "Christian Science is, as its name implies, essentially Christian, and its practice being predicated upon absolute law, it brings healing from sickness and deliverance from sin. There is within the so-called human mind a fixed and abiding conviction that it is legitimate to be healthy and happy. This inherent conviction is evidence per se of the fact that health and happiness is the normal state of being. This desirable end can be accomplished only through right, scientific thinking; hence it must be perfectly clear that Christian Scientists, looking toward the idealistic or spiritual, are concerned about the mental rather than the outward or material.

Bible Revelation
I have assured you that this Science is essentially Christian. This being the case, Christian Science, as a great religious movement, must be based upon a revelation of the teachings and practical truths presented in the Bible. Let there be confusion in the thought of those who have never investigated this subject, I assure you at the outset that Christian Scientists use for their study and in all their church services one Bible authority, that of the King James Version of the Old and New Testaments. There are many religious denominations and bodies, each claiming to teach and practice the Christian religion; each claiming the Bible as authority for creed and doctrine, and each claiming salvation as the desired goal. There are wide and seemingly irreconcilable differences of opinion among these Christian bodies and an utter disagreement as to the fundamentals of salvation. There is but one conclusion to be drawn: individuals have ceased to do the one natural, normal thing—that is, have ceased to think spiritually and have accepted as facts many things which are not true. As a natural consequence confusion follows, as that which is untrue can never be made the foundation for that which is enduring and true. At this point it is well to understand that there is one absolute truth about everything, and regardless of one's sincerity in believing in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

The Discoverer and the Discovery
Christian Science as it is presented to you and to me came through the discovery by Mary Baker Eddy of the operation of absolute, fixed spiritual law, an impartial investigation of Christian Science is desirable, in fact quite essential, to know somewhat of its Discoverer and Founder. I feel quite safe in assuming that my early experience in the investigation of this subject is similar to yours. My first impulse was to inquire, "Who is Mrs. Eddy?" That did she discover and found? The answers to these questions is simple and helpful. Mrs. Eddy was a devout and lovable New England woman, deeply interested in the Bible. Early in childhood she displayed a keen perception of the underlying truths contained in Bible narratives. Through her research and study of the Bible she noted that perverted trust in dependence in God's laws were followed by permanent and fixed results, and that blessing and healing were part and parcel of His infinite plan. She concluded that God governs His universe. His creation, through infinite intelligence or absolute law, and that this law, being spiritual, could be understood and applied, and that when so applied renders null and void the false beliefs of law inherent in the so-called human mind. She concluded that this law could be definitely known and stated, and was as fixed and unchanging as the laws of nature. She further concluded that since disease has no more authority than sin it could be cured and health restored to the body in exactly the same manner and with the same certainty of results as sin could be destroyed. During her investigation an injury caused by an accident led her to discover the spiritual law by which she was healed herself; and later, upon her restoration to health, she applied the same law to the relief and healing of others.

In the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 107), Mrs. Eddy says: "In the year 1846 I discovered the Christ Science or divine laws of Life, Truth, and Love, and named my discovery 'Christian Science.' She had discovered the absolute, fixed, and eternal laws of God and had proved that they are present and operative, and can be relied upon to heal the sick as they did in the time of Jesus. She found these laws 'compassionate, helpful, and spiritual' and named them 'Christian' (Retrospection and Introspection, p. 25); and because they constitute the absolute laws of God, are available, and can be demonstrated, she named them 'Science.' Hence, Mrs. Eddy discovered and proved the divine laws of Spirit, the laws of Life, Truth, and Love. After this discovery she subjected it to proof, and being convinced of the healing and redeeming ministrations of these spiritual laws, she determined to give to the world the benefit of her observations at discovery. Accordingly she wrote and published 'Scriptures,' and designated it the Christian Science textbook. The reading and study of this book, in connection with the Bible, has brought health and healing to many, and is indeed a key to God's inspired Word, the Bible.

Regardless of conflicting reports, I make this positive and emphatic declaration of fact: Mary Baker Eddy is the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science and has been so decreed by our courts.

After her discovery, Mrs. Eddy founded a church, designed to commemorate the works of our Master, which should represent primitive Christianity and its lost element of healing. So she states in the Manual (p. 17), 'That Church, founded by her, is The Mother Church in Boston; and the Church whose hospitality you are now enjoying is an authorized branch of The Mother Church.'

Christian Scientists are grateful to Mrs. Eddy for her years of devotion in establishing practical Christianity and its lost healing art. They love her in the true spiritual sense, but do not worship or deify her. They are engaged in perpetuating and applying her discovery to the needs of humanity. Because she loved God and because she also loved those who apparently did not love her, Christian Scientists are earnestly striving to make practical her saying, 'A genuine Christian Scientist loves the Protestant and Catholic, D.D. and M.D., loves all who love God, good; and he loves his enemies' (Miscellany, p. 4).

Reality Is Basic
It will early be discovered that Christian Science emphasizes the final destruction of sin and the healing of bodily infirmity. Some of our religious friends have offered the criticism that Christian Scientists make too much of the healing element. At no time does the human mind part with cherished beliefs or relinquish traditional claims until proof, clear and positive, has been presented showing that there is a better way. It is not surprising, therefore, that after material methods have failed and Christian Science treatment has restored health and happiness to the individual, very much should be thought and made of the healing element. In fact, all Christian Science practice is healing in character whether it is applied to bodily afflictions or to other forms of discord. The healing of bodily ailments by prayer is the "eye opener" to the sick and is positive and indisputable proof that matter is submitting to spiritual law. Likewise the false beliefs which material man calls law cease to govern and bind him in proportion to his spiritual discernment. It is natural in the consideration of this important matter that questions should be asked: "I have asked myself many times: Is there an ideal, basic state of being? If so, how may I know this ideal state? How may I become conscious of the way of escape from the baneful effects of apparent disease and disaster? Rightly to understand and draw proper conclusions there must be a clear discernment between that which is absolutely real and basic and that which, to the senses, seems to be real but is deceived by the human mind to be such."

Common experience teaches us that we are consciously or otherwise governed by and subject to fixed laws. These laws operate in an impartial, uniform manner, regardless of our understanding or recognition of them. The individual who rejects their operation or who disputes their authority, through ignorance or other wise, pays a heavy penalty. Such infraction in proportion to the magnitude of the offense. The laws of gravitation, mathematics, harmony, and the laws regulating individuals in society operate uniformly and effectively, regardless of the beliefs of those who are uninstructed or who for some reason refuse to recognize and accept their supreme authority. For example, a man of no individual belief, not based upon any scientific fact, that the result is due to some force from above. Quite likely one alone can explain the theory of the operation of gravitation. During all this time gravitation is operating uniformly undisturbed by ignorance or false belief, and the earth and the planet respond to its force just the same. False belief, lack of any belief in or knowledge of gravitation has not affected its operation. In the so-called material universe the law of gravitation is basic, fundamental and is there to be understood and intelligently utilized by man. I am sure a personal experience may be helpful in further explaining the distinction between the real and that which is believed to be real.

Some years ago I presented at a bank a ten dollar bill, a silver certificate, the usual words "This certifies that there has been deposited in the Treasury of the United States of America, ten silver dollars, payable to the bearer on demand," were printed in the usual type across the face of the bill. I believed this bill to be genuine and, in the light of past experience, I had a right to expect that the paying teller of the bank would at once count out to me ten silver dollars or their equivalent in exchange for this bill. However, contrary to my expectations, in a very short period of time the teller returned the same bill to me with the word "counterfeit" stamped in large red letters across its face. In a moment of time and without any effort on my part the status of that bill became apparent. I no longer looked upon it as a genuine medium of exchange. It represented nothing and was nothing. It was merely a counterfeit. I no longer expected ten dollars in exchange; I was absolutely convinced that no person would ever be deceived again by that particular bill. My belief in its value was sincere but erroneous. It had escaped detection perhaps many times, yet from first to last it represented nothing, was a counterfeit, and needed but the trained and skillful knowledge of that paying teller and a little red ink to destroy forever its fictitious value. Through all this experience there was a real genuine silver certificate in circulation and its value remained absolute and undisturbed. The sincere belief of every person in the world could not make a genuine bill out of that counterfeit. The basic, fundamental value was not there. That bill was but the visible evidence of the counterfeit mind which had produced it, and which, until detected, endowed it with its own fictitious value.

Good and Evil Mental
In the consideration of Christian Science it is absolutely essential to understand the nature of good and evil and to be able to distinguish between that which is intrinsically good and that which presents merely the appearance of good.

Human laws have been devised for the protection of individuals as units in the human community. Some of these laws are of ancient origin; so much so that mankind has no knowledge of their source except that they are founded upon usages and customs, which have prevailed so long that the "memory of man runneth not to the contrary." These laws, like all others, are based upon the theory that there is a supreme, sovereign power, which is right, commanding that which is right, and prohibiting that which is wrong. It should be remembered that these laws have been formulated by the human desire to rise above the chaotic condition of no law, and many of them are profound examples of the human attempt to pattern the decrees of infinite, divine justice. There is a well-defined and recognized rule or law which prevails in most civilized countries that every individual is presumed to be innocent until proven guilty by competent evidence beyond every reasonable doubt. This presumption is an essential and substantial part of the law of the land, and it is the duty of the courts and the juries to maintain this presumption of innocence up to the very moment that it is overcome by the evidence. So strong is this presumption of innocence that the complaint, information, or indictment against an individual can never be used in and of itself to contradict or overcome this inherent presumption with which every individual is clothed. It is further a presumption of law that every one is honest, truthful, and law-abiding until the contrary is shown.

So strong is this presumption of innocence that the complaint, information, or indictment against an individual can never be used in and of itself to contradict or overcome this inherent presumption with which every individual is clothed. It is further a presumption of law that every one is honest, truthful, and law-abiding until the contrary is shown. This presumption of normality of mind and body prevails, and our courts guard very jealously these wise and humane presumptions. Notwithstanding, human observation and experience present evidences of crime unchecked. Moral delinquency seems to run riot; dishonesty, untruthfulness, and infirmity in mind and body would wholly eclipse the desirable ends to be attained. Christian Science truly admit that such conditions of mind and body should not exist among Christian people. Common observation will convince any rational person that much confusion is due to the lack of absolute knowledge regarding the sources of good and evil. Christian Scientists do not close their eyes to these apparently alarming conditions. Indeed, they are wide-awake to the real cause and are doing the only thing that can be done to destroy these false beliefs and to maintain these humane presumptions, not merely in theory but by making them real, enduring, basic laws in fact. Christian Science declares in no uncertain manner that God is the source of all good and that the human, the carnal, mind is the procuring cause of all evil. It is the responsibility of each individual to man lives by divine decree, and that the Scriptural text, "In him we live, and move, and have our being" declares the real status of man, and not merely an emotional theory. It declares emphatically that evil is not a person, place, or thing; that it is not a cause or creator, and that there is no realm or dominion over which evil is the sovereign power. In fact, it denies that evil has any power except such as it assumes in human belief, and it then destroys this assumed power by overcoming the human mind with the divine Mind.

The Worship of the One True God
Christian Science is a religion and has been so decreed by the courts of our land. Its practice involves obedience to the first great commandment, "Thou shalt have no other gods before me." Its keynote is expressed in the words of the Master, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind." This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself." Its paramount object is worship—the worship of the one true God. Through this worship healing is experienced. It will be apparent that all true worship must rest for an enduring foundation upon the right concept of God. The wrong concept of God lays the foundation for the superstructure of false belief and idolatry. Mere human belief about God can never be substituted for, nor urged in support of, His real nature. To the carnal mind, essentially material, God appears as a magnified human being—a superhuman man. This conception of His nature and character has prevailed almost universally for centuries, as evidenced by an illustration of "The Heavenly Father and the Evil One" in Faust. In this illustration, God is portrayed as a large, old man, with a assume to be. Now, the mortal mind is a counterfeit, an erroneous belief; it is enemy against the one true Mind, God.

God is also defined as Infinite Principle, and Christian Scientists worship Him as such. When it is understood that there is but one omnipotent, omniscient, omnipresent cause, embracing within itself all wisdom, power, truth, law, order, and perfection, it will be clearly apparent that the term "Principle" is descriptive of the exact nature of the one absolute God. It will be observed that divine Principle is descriptive of the one perfect unchangeable, and eternal cause. This eternal cause is Life, Truth, and Love, and as we apprehend more of the divine nature, we express in human experience a higher and a better understanding of these divine qualities. The verdict of the human senses, however, does not seem to support this happy and desirable state. The human mind, educated and instructed by processes of erroneous thinking, draws conclusions of death rather than of eternal Life; conceives of man as subject to birth, maturity, and decay, and concludes that all is mortal—subject to death—as the word implies. In like manner, the human mind believes a lie rather than the truth, and envy, hatred, and revenge are substituted for Love. All these erroneous conclusions, if retained in consciousness, have but one ultimate result. Death and destruction follow. It is wholly outside the range even of the most material logic to conceive of God who is infinite Life and creator of all that is good, as being the author of death and destruction.

That infinite Truth and Love could possibly be responsible for any state of being, pregnant with evils, human delinquencies, and malicious purposes. To limit or circumscribe God in any degree invites disaster at the outset. It would destroy His infinite nature and deprive Him of His omnipotence, omniscience, and omnipresence. Such a god could not and does not exist, and the religionist who in his thought deifies matter, or who would take from God's infinite nature one of His qualities and bestow it upon some human belief, is an idolater and a worshiper of false gods, as truly as the children of Israel became such by bowing down to a golden calf, or as were the prophets and followers of Baal.

The Need of Salvation
We have heretofore seen that the so-called human mind believes itself to be a creator and seeks ways and means of perpetuating itself as well as of pursuing pleasure and happiness in matter. Its quest for perpetual existence and pleasure is disappointed, for, as we have seen, this mind conceives of death as the ultimate of all things. Some plan must be devised by this assumed creator to save its creature from the dire effects of its own mortality. Accordingly, this erroneous belief proceeds to devise a speculative and nebulous place somewhere in space called heaven, as well as an opposite place called hell, with a full code of regulations governing admission to each. Notwithstanding death is dissolution, destruction, yet this carnal mind, through some vague process of reasoning, would make death the entrance to heaven and hell where in space called heaven, as well as through fear, have been faithful to its decrees, ushered into heaven, and have conferred upon them eternal life as a reward of merit, and, likewise, would have those who reject its plan ushered into eternal destruction as punishment. My friends, there is no such heaven and hell as no such hell. The Bible plainly declares that the kingdom of heaven is within you; and it is reasonable to conclude that if the kingdom of heaven is a state of consciousness in divine Mind, its opposite, hell, must also be found in the realm of mortal mind. In the exercise of all our mental faculties as rational individuals, we must conclude that heaven is a condition of consciousness, and is to be sought and attained here and now and that the only means at our command by which we may become conscious of its dwelling within us is by the process of right thinking. It is not gained merely as a future reward of merit, in some habitation located by human metres and bounds. It is a real, vital condition of thought and can be experienced and enjoyed at once in proportion to the illumination of the divine Mind shining in human consciousness. Adopting the same line of argument, we conclude that a wrong mental state induces fear and other erroneous beliefs, and establishes in human consciousness the opposite of heaven—torment and hell. It is common observation that sometimes mortals are as much in a state of torment and woe—utterly lost—as though they were actually being consumed by the traditional eternal fire of hell; and there is no escape, no deliverance from this state of torment except through the avenues of right mental action and the destruction of the erroneous beliefs which have induced this state of torment. No further argument is necessary to convince the most skeptical individual that the so-called human mind, the producing and procuring cause of all human discord and misery, is sorely in need of salvation; and we shall hope to satisfy your thought that Christian Science is the revelation of that salvation.

Christ Jesus—the Way-shower

We have tried to bring your attention thus far to the fact that the carnal mind, through its erroneous beliefs has utterly failed to comprehend the true nature of God and His plan of salvation. It must be evident then, that a mortal man, the creature of the carnal mind, is lost and without hope unless there is some rational and appreciable way by which he may renounce these errors and be healed of his false beliefs. The human mind tries to endow matter with life, and there is a constant endeavor to preserve and perpetuate this concept of life in the body. Jesus said, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." And "This is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent." This is Scriptural authority for concluding that the mission of Jesus was to bring to light a higher and better sense of life, and that men should know and understand eternal Life through the knowledge of God, and His son, Christ Jesus.

Christian Science practitioners are the Way-shower in a practical manner by giving heed to his words and works and by repeating in human experience many of the signs and wonders which he said should follow them who believe on him. In fact, as he healed the sick, overcame sin, and raised the dead, leaving a commandment that his followers should likewise, Christian Scientists are humbly engaged in this healing ministry. They freely admit that the highest desirable results have not yet been attained and that human discords have not yet been entirely overcome. The sincere Christian Scientist, however, finds much joy in the practice of the precepts of his Master, and his limitation at the bank. This farmer was reared and his life has been spent in a Christian home. He is a steadfast, conscientious believer, according to his understanding, in the efficacy of the Bible truths. He has made a manly effort to live his religious convictions and to be worthy of the name of a Christian. The wife, however, is possessed of all the grace and charm incident to a true, noble woman. Like her husband, she has been surrounded by religious influence all her life, and long before becoming a wife and mother united with the little band of workers in the little village church. The Bible has been her companion, and with the establishment of a home, she and her husband have remembered the "family altar" and have kept it sacred. The other member of this household is an only daughter, a charming, lovely young girl just coming into womanhood. Thus far the surroundings furnish evidence for the conclusion that this was an ideal home. One thing, however, was lacking. This daughter was an invalid—her mother, who had been afflicted with a disease of the heart, was unable to care for her. The laws of heredity to be incurable. Early in her young life the best approved material remedies were applied without success. The family physician frankly admitted his inability to cure her. The specialist applied his technical knowledge and skill without success. The schools and institutions for medical research revealed no new light. The decision was the same—she was incurable. After these successive failures there remained one hope. Religion had been a vital force in this family and the Bible promises had never heretofore failed them. Why should not this daughter be healed by the same power of God that raised the daughter of Jairus from the dead? These parents at once applied to the Christian Science church, and should be frankly admitted that no greater tribute can be paid to the Christian ministry than the statement that the efforts of this pastor were faithfully and conscientiously given in the light of his understanding, in the effort to heal this daughter. After weeks of patient endeavor her condition remained unchanged and the family sorrowfully accepted the conclusion that her case was incurable and sought to be reconciled to the belief that "God moves in a mysterious way."

At this time Christian Science came to their attention. After many struggles with the usual objections against it, the parents renounced all objections, and accepted the full key to the Scriptures and Health with Key to the Scriptures, and a Christian Science practitioner were secured. From the start, her improvement was rapid and pronounced. At the moment, however, when the fondest hopes of the parents and daughter seemed about to be realized, her improvement apparently ceased; her case became stationary and, while improved, she was not healed. Having been convinced that her procedure was right the daughter continued therein faithfully and courageously, and over and over again searched her consciousness to discover the subtle, hindering cause. Through her study of Christian Science she had grasped one of its basic teachings, that the cause of all disease is mental and not material, and upon a self-examination she discovered a deep sense of fear, doubt, self-pity, and resentment. She concluded that these were the elements binding her and preventing her full recovery, and she further discovered that her father and mother were entertaining exactly these same erroneous beliefs. Upon this discovery the daughter and parents set about intelligently and effectively correct their wrong mental action, and in due time these parents were healed of many of their erroneous conclusions regarding Christian Science, and in the course of further study, development, and understanding the erroneous beliefs binding this young girl were destroyed, and she was permanently and completely healed through Christian Science and restored to happiness and harmony.

I bring this illustration to your attention in order that you may see and understand the baneful effects of ignorant, sympathetic mesmerism, operating unchecked and unconsciously under the guise of pity, remorse, or self-condemnation. I want you to understand that regardless of motives, the well-meaning or the sincerity, back of and prompting such beliefs, they are erroneous and dangerous, and constitute a serious menace to successful healing until they are recognized and destroyed. You may inquire of me, "Are you sure that Christian Science heals?" I hold no mere abstract opinion on that subject, and I answer it positively and directly. I know that it heals, and I bear public testimony to the fact that years ago through Christian Science treatment I was healed of the same serious disorder which had taken my mother, a sister, and two brothers—the entire family except my father—after all material remedies had failed both them and me. The Christian Science periodicals contain testimonies of healing, and if you will attend a Wednesday evening meeting in any Christian Science church or society throughout the world you will hear many testimonies equally authentic and perhaps more convincing than mine.

The Signs of the Times
In 1954, Cyrus W. Field, a merchant of New York city, conceived the idea of binding Europe to America by means of a submarine cable, through which messages between the two countries could be exchanged. Upon announcement of his proposed project, he was at once hailed as a madman and as one fit for commitment to an asylum. After three unsuccessful attempts, on July 27, 1866, he successfully tied the two continents by a cable, which endures to this day. This vision demonstrated the final linking of every nation of the world, and at this time there are hundreds and thousands of miles of submarine cable connecting every habitable part of the globe. This achievement is truly a noble and inspiring monument to the vision of Cyrus Field.

In November, 1921, through the establishment of electric circuits and by means of an invention known as the loud speaking amplifier, the voice of the President of the United States, while delivering an address in Arlington, was simultaneously heard and recognized by fifteen thousand people in Madison Square Garden in New York city, and by twenty-seven thousand people on the Pacific Coast, a distance of thirty-seven hundred miles. Since that time, in April, 1922, through further invention, the human voice was broadcasted through space, hundreds and thousands of miles without wire or cable, with just a sending and receiving instrument in perfect adjustment. Thus, through its own invention, the human mind has eliminated two of its most cherished elements—that of time and space. The period of time embraced between the transmission by a "runner" of the first message on a piece of crude bark to the instantaneous broadcasting of the human voice over hundreds of miles, without wire or cable, is rich in advancement and progress. These are inspiring monuments to the achievements of mankind. The law governing the latest invention was just as available at the time that the crude bark was used and during all of the intervening years as it was in April, 1922. The human mind, however, required years of education and unfoldment before it could relinquish the use of the bark, the wire, and the cable. Thought, however, was developing and unfolding, and in due time this law, awaiting a discoverer, was brought to light.

Likewise, in the year 1866, Mrs. Eddy discovered Christian Science, the Christ-cure. Her undertakings were more revolutionary and more in advance of the times than those of Field. Like him, however, when apparently forsaken by friends and acquaintances, she pressed on, proving each new step until finally she gave to the world a restatement of primitive Christianity, binding it together by her statement of spiritual law more effectively than does the submarine cable. As the law of the radio broadcasting was real and available, likewise the laws of spiritual healing have always been real, awaiting a discoverer to make them available for present use. Hundreds of years of idolatry and false belief had obscured these laws until revealed and unfolded in the receptive thought of Mary Baker Eddy, and restated by her in Christian Science.

In the achievements of Mary Baker Eddy may we not see more than simply the founding and establishing of a great organization? May we not see the shadow of that time when the whole "earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea?"

May we not see in the successes achieved by the instantaneous broadcasting of the human voice our close approach to the time when the operation of spiritual law shall appear to human consciousness as natural and as normal as the manifestations of material law now seem—the time spoken of by the psalmist when he said, "He spake, and it was done?"

In conclusion, I want to recommend an earnest, conscientious endeavor on the part of every one of my hearers

to apply the Christ-healing as taught and practiced in Christian Science to the discord, misery, sin, and unholy conditions in human experience. I know that this endeavor will bless you, and in proportion as you understandingly destroy one element of evil in your own consciousness you are helping to destroy it for the whole world. I know of no better concluding thought to leave with you than that contained within the following admonition from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 945):

"When the illusion of sickness or sin tempts you, cling steadfastly to God and His idea. Allow nothing but His likeness to abide in your thought. Let neither fear nor doubt overshadow your clear sense and calm trust, that the recognition of life harmonious—as Life eternally is—can destroy any painful sense of, or belief in, that which Life is not. Let Christian Science, instead of corporeal sense, support your understanding of being, and this understanding will supplant error with Truth, replace mortality with immortality, and silence discord with harmony."

Christian Science Treatment—Prayer
A Christian Science treatment is a conscientious effort based upon a sincere desire to bring into human experience "the enduring, the good, and the true" (Science and Health, p. 261) so that by the renewing of the mind it can be proved what is that "perfect will of God." In other words, the reformation of the sinner and the healing of the sick is but proof that divine Principle, God, is present and available, and is, as we have heretofore seen, Immanuel, or God with us. This happy and desirable mental condition is established through the medium of prayer. There is great lack of understanding among Christian people as to what constitutes prayer. This lack of absolute knowledge is the procuring cause of much error, and accounts for the erroneous belief that Christian Scientists do not pray. Such belief has no foundation in fact. They pray continually and understandingly, and the fruits of their prayers are to be remembered, however, that in their prayers they do not supplicate God to conform His will to theirs or "to change His infinite design." Neither do they charge Him with human delinquencies; and, as a matter of course, they do not petition Him to remedy or correct that which He has not created. They do pray to Him from the standpoint of sincere desire, and "absolute faith that all things are possible to God" (Science and Health, p. 1); and such prayer is answered by driving out of human consciousness the diseased, erroneous images of thought and letting in the light of God's man created in His image and likeness. In other words, the Christian Science practitioner, through the medium of prayer, is establishing a positive connection with the divine Mind.

In the practice of medicine and surgery the successful physician first makes an intelligent diagnosis of his patient's case. In fact, modern medicine is laying more stress upon successful diagnosis than it is upon the administration of a remedy. This fact is significant; it indicates that the matter physician recognizes the cause of the ailment as of more importance than the method of treatment. We certainly will agree with our friends in this particular, and we frankly admit that they are proceeding in the right direction. They feel that our leading they will be compelled to adopt our conclusion as to the initial cause of disease being mental; and of course we will be glad to recommend to them the One who, as the psalmist declares, "healeth all thy diseases." As the successful physician makes his physical diagnosis, so the Christian Science practitioner is ever on the alert and actively engaged in discovering the mental status of his patient. Some of the most alarming physical conditions quickly yield to Christian Science treatment, when fear, self-pity, self-love, self-condemnation, malice, hatred, revenge, and other secret, hypocritical, and meretricious influences are uncovered and destroyed. Let me give you an illustration.

On the fertile prairies of Illinois lives a highly respected and prosperous farmer. His wife and daughter constitute his family. Through years of honest thrift this man has accumulated a fortune. This is the result of his own efforts and his check passes without limitation at the bank. This farmer was reared and his life has been spent in a Christian home. He is a steadfast, conscientious believer, according to his understanding, in the efficacy of the Bible truths. He has made a manly effort to live his religious convictions and to be worthy of the name of a Christian. The wife, however, is possessed of all the grace and charm incident to a true, noble woman. Like her husband, she has been surrounded by religious influence all her life, and long before becoming a wife and mother united with the little band of workers in the little village church. I bring this illustration to your attention in order that you may see and understand the baneful effects of ignorant, sympathetic mesmerism, operating unchecked and unconsciously under the guise of pity, remorse, or self-condemnation. I want you to understand that regardless of motives, the well-meaning or the sincerity, back of and prompting such beliefs, they are erroneous and dangerous, and constitute a serious menace to successful healing until they are recognized and destroyed. You may inquire of me, "Are you sure that Christian Science heals?" I hold no mere abstract opinion on that subject, and I answer it positively and directly. I know that it heals, and I bear public testimony to the fact that years ago through Christian Science treatment I was healed of the same serious disorder which had taken my mother, a sister, and two brothers—the entire family except my father—after all material remedies had failed both them and me. The Christian Science periodicals contain testimonies of healing, and if you will attend a Wednesday evening meeting in any Christian Science church or society throughout the world you will hear many testimonies equally authentic and perhaps more convincing than mine.

The Signs of the Times
In 1954, Cyrus W. Field, a merchant of New York city, conceived the idea of binding Europe to America by means of a submarine cable, through which messages between the two countries could be exchanged. Upon announcement of his proposed project, he was at once hailed as a madman and as one fit for commitment to an asylum. After three unsuccessful attempts, on July 27, 1866, he successfully tied the two continents by a cable, which endures to this day. This vision demonstrated the final linking of every nation of the world, and at this time there are hundreds and thousands of miles of submarine cable connecting every habitable part of the globe. This achievement is truly a noble and inspiring monument to the vision of Cyrus Field.

In November, 1921, through the establishment of electric circuits and by means of an invention known as the loud speaking amplifier, the voice of the President of the United States, while delivering an address in Arlington, was simultaneously heard and recognized by fifteen thousand people in Madison Square Garden in New York city, and by twenty-seven thousand people on the Pacific Coast, a distance of thirty-seven hundred miles. Since that time, in April, 1922, through further invention, the human voice was broadcasted through space, hundreds and thousands of miles without wire or cable, with just a sending and receiving instrument in perfect adjustment. Thus, through its own invention, the human mind has eliminated two of its most cherished elements—that of time and space. The period of time embraced between the transmission by a "runner" of the first message on a piece of crude bark to the instantaneous broadcasting of the human voice over hundreds of miles, without wire or cable, is rich in advancement and progress. These are inspiring monuments to the achievements of mankind. The law governing the latest invention was just as available at the time that the crude bark was used and during all of the intervening years as it was in April, 1922. The human mind, however, required years of education and unfoldment before it could relinquish the use of the bark, the wire, and the cable. Thought, however, was developing and unfolding, and in due time this law, awaiting a discoverer, was brought to light.

Likewise, in the year 1866, Mrs. Eddy discovered Christian Science, the Christ-cure. Her undertakings were more revolutionary and more in advance of the times than those of Field. Like him, however, when apparently forsaken by friends and acquaintances, she pressed on, proving each new step until finally she gave to the world a restatement of primitive Christianity, binding it together by her statement of spiritual law more effectively than does the submarine cable. As the law of the radio broadcasting was real and available, likewise the laws of spiritual healing have always been real, awaiting a discoverer to make them available for present use. Hundreds of years of idolatry and false belief had obscured these laws until revealed and unfolded in the receptive thought of Mary Baker Eddy, and restated by her in Christian Science.

In the achievements of Mary Baker Eddy may we not see more than simply the founding and establishing of a great organization? May we not see the shadow of that time when the whole "earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea?"

May we not see in the successes achieved by the instantaneous broadcasting of the human voice our close approach to the time when the operation of spiritual law shall appear to human consciousness as natural and as normal as the manifestations of material law now seem—the time spoken of by the psalmist when he said, "He spake, and it was done?"

In conclusion, I want to recommend an earnest, conscientious endeavor on the part of every one of my hearers

to apply the Christ-healing as taught and practiced in Christian Science to the discord, misery, sin, and unholy conditions in human experience. I know that this endeavor will bless you, and in proportion as you understandingly destroy one element of evil in your own consciousness you are helping to destroy it for the whole world. I know of no better concluding thought to leave with you than that contained within the following admonition from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 945):

"When the illusion of sickness or sin tempts you, cling steadfastly to God and His idea. Allow nothing but His likeness to abide in your thought. Let neither fear nor doubt overshadow your clear sense and calm trust, that the recognition of life harmonious—as Life eternally is—can destroy any painful sense of, or belief in, that which Life is not. Let Christian Science, instead of corporeal sense, support your understanding of being, and this understanding will supplant error with Truth, replace mortality with immortality, and silence discord with harmony."

Christian Science Treatment—Prayer
A Christian Science treatment is a conscientious effort based upon a sincere desire to bring into human experience "the enduring, the good, and the true" (Science and Health, p. 261) so that by the renewing of the mind it can be proved what is that "perfect will of God." In other words, the reformation of the sinner and the healing of the sick is but proof that divine Principle, God, is present and available, and is, as we have heretofore seen, Immanuel, or God with us. This happy and desirable mental condition is established through the medium of prayer. There is great lack of understanding among Christian people as to what constitutes prayer. This lack of absolute knowledge is the procuring cause of much error, and accounts for the erroneous belief that Christian Scientists do not pray. Such belief has no foundation in fact. They pray continually and understandingly, and the fruits of their prayers are to be remembered, however, that in their prayers they do not supplicate God to conform His will to theirs or "to change His infinite design." Neither do they charge Him with human delinquencies; and, as a matter of course, they do not petition Him to remedy or correct that which He has not created. They do pray to Him from the standpoint of sincere desire, and "absolute faith that all things are possible to God" (Science and Health, p. 1); and such prayer is answered by driving out of human consciousness the diseased, erroneous images of thought and letting in the light of God's man created in His image and likeness. In other words, the Christian Science practitioner, through the medium of prayer, is establishing a positive connection with the divine Mind.

In the practice of medicine and surgery the successful physician first makes an intelligent diagnosis of his patient's case. In fact, modern medicine is laying more stress upon successful diagnosis than it is upon the administration of a remedy. This fact is significant; it indicates that the matter physician recognizes the cause of the ailment as of more importance than the method of treatment. We certainly will agree with our friends in this particular, and we frankly admit that they are proceeding in the right direction. They feel that our leading they will be compelled to adopt our conclusion as to the initial cause of disease being mental; and of course we will be glad to recommend to them the One who, as the psalmist declares, "healeth all thy diseases." As the successful physician makes his physical diagnosis, so the Christian Science practitioner is ever on the alert and actively engaged in discovering the mental status of his patient. Some of the most alarming physical conditions quickly yield to Christian Science treatment, when fear, self-pity, self-love, self-condemnation, malice, hatred, revenge, and other secret, hypocritical, and meretricious influences are uncovered and destroyed. Let me give you an illustration.

On the fertile prairies of Illinois lives a highly respected and prosperous farmer. His wife and daughter constitute his family. Through years of honest thrift this man has accumulated a fortune. This is the result of his own efforts and his check passes without limitation at the bank. This farmer was reared and his life has been spent in a Christian home. He is a steadfast, conscientious believer, according to his understanding, in the efficacy of the Bible truths. He has made a manly effort to live his religious convictions and to be worthy of the name of a Christian. The wife, however, is possessed of all the grace and charm incident to a true, noble woman. Like her husband, she has been surrounded by religious influence all her life, and long before becoming a wife and mother united with the little band of workers in the little village church. The Bible has been her companion, and with the establishment of a home, she and her husband have remembered the "family altar" and have kept it sacred. The other member of this household is an only daughter, a charming, lovely young girl just coming into womanhood. Thus far the surroundings furnish evidence for the conclusion that this was an ideal home. One thing, however, was lacking. This daughter was an invalid—her mother, who had been afflicted with a disease of the heart, was unable to care for her. The laws of heredity to be incurable. Early in her young life the best approved material remedies were applied without success. The family physician frankly admitted his inability to cure her. The specialist applied his technical knowledge and skill without success. The schools and institutions for medical research revealed no new light. The decision was the same—she was incurable. After these successive failures there remained one hope. Religion had been a vital force in this family and the Bible promises had never heretofore failed them. Why should not this daughter be healed by the same power of God that raised the daughter of Jairus from the dead? These parents at once applied to the Christian Science church, and should be frankly admitted that no greater tribute can be paid to the Christian ministry than the statement that the efforts of this pastor were faithfully and conscientiously given in the light of his understanding, in the effort to heal this daughter. After weeks of patient endeavor her condition remained unchanged and the family sorrowfully accepted the conclusion that her case was incurable and sought to be reconciled to the belief that "God moves in a mysterious way."

At this time Christian Science came to their attention. After many struggles with the usual objections against it, the parents renounced all objections, and accepted the full key to the Scriptures and Health with Key to the Scriptures, and a Christian Science practitioner were secured. From the start, her improvement was rapid and pronounced. At the moment, however, when the fondest hopes of the parents and daughter seemed about to be realized, her improvement apparently ceased; her case became stationary and, while improved, she was not healed. Having been convinced that her procedure was right the daughter continued therein faithfully and courageously, and over and over again searched her consciousness to discover the subtle, hindering cause. Through her study of Christian Science she had grasped one of its basic teachings, that the cause of all disease is mental and not material, and upon a self-examination she discovered a deep sense of fear, doubt, self-pity, and resentment. She concluded that these were the elements binding her and preventing her full recovery, and she further discovered that her father and mother were entertaining exactly these same erroneous beliefs. Upon this discovery the daughter and parents set about intelligently and effectively correct their wrong mental action, and in due time these parents were healed of many of their erroneous conclusions regarding Christian Science, and in the course of further study, development, and understanding the erroneous beliefs binding this young girl were destroyed, and she was permanently and completely healed through Christian Science and restored to happiness and harmony.

I bring this illustration to your attention in order that you may see and understand the baneful effects of ignorant, sympathetic mesmerism, operating unchecked and unconsciously under the guise of pity, remorse, or self-condemnation. I want you to understand that regardless of motives, the well-meaning or the sincerity, back of and prompting such beliefs, they are erroneous and dangerous, and constitute a serious menace to successful healing until they are recognized and destroyed. You may inquire of me, "Are you sure that Christian Science heals?" I hold no mere abstract opinion on that subject, and I answer it positively and directly. AUBURNDALE LIBRARY

The movement for a new building for the Auburndale branch of the Newton Public Library was launched with great enthusiasm at the Auburndale Club House on Thursday, March 5th, at a meeting called by Mrs. Walter Van Patten Steiger, chairman of the Education Committee of the Auburndale Woman's Club. The gathering constituted a temporary committee, which electing the following officers: Dr. J. Arthur Furbish, chairman; Mrs. Hector R. Gai, secretary; and Mr. Felix Rantlett, treasurer. Mr. E. J. Winslow acted as temporary chairman in the absence of Dr. Furbish.

Mrs. H. H. Longfellow, president of the Auburndale Woman's Club, announced that, by a unanimous vote of her organization, four hundred dollars had been made available for the new project. It was reported that the Review Club also had pledged four hundred dollars as their contribution.

These encouraging indications of widespread interest were followed by a lively discussion of possible sites, ways and means, and plans for securing to the community at a mass meeting, what has already been achieved toward the acquisition of a much-and-long-needed library.

Reports on city ordinances regarding library buildings, data on available sites, and the procuring of general plans and elevations of buildings suitable for the purpose were under consideration, were left in the hands of a sub-committee consisting of Messrs. E. Braithwaite, chairman, W. K. Corey, H. T. Dougherty, and Mrs. W. Van Patten Steiger.

A sub-committee for the formation of tentative plans for the mass meeting was also elected, consisting of Mr. Arthur W. Lane, chairman, Mr. George Barnett, and Mrs. H. H. Longfellow.

These committees will report to a temporary committee at a meeting to be held at the Auburndale Club House, Thursday, March nineteenth, when the date for the mass meeting will be decided.

COMMUNITY CHEST REPORT

Newton Central Council Issues Report of Community Chest Committee Regarding a Newton Community Chest

That "at least two conditions should be fulfilled before a Community Chest can be established in Newton" is the conclusion of the committee appointed last December by the Newton Central Council to make an impartial and disinterested study of the Community Chest plan and its desirability and undesirability in Newton.

The Committee, whose report was made public by Grosvenor Calkins, the chairman, at a meeting of the Newton Central Council held at the Newton Club on Thursday evening, March 19, names the two minimum conditions for the establishment of a financial federation in Newton as follows:

1. Federated financing should be approved by from 70 to 75% of the contributors and by a still higher percentage of the larger contributors.
2. Federated financing should be accepted without coercion or reluctance by agencies whose contributions represent approximately 70% of the total contributions required by the eligible agencies. In other words, a Chest should not be organized unless charged with the responsibility of raising at least $100,000 of an estimated total of $140,000.

According to the Committee's report there are eighteen welfare organizations in Newton which raised during the past year about $132,950, and which, with normal expansion in activities will require approximately $140,000 during the coming year.

The contributors' lists of three of the largest agencies were analyzed and it was found that 1924 contributors, or only about 6% of the city gave a total of $47,911 to the three organizations during their last fiscal year.

The bulk of the contributions to the three agencies was given by a very small proportion of the individual contributors. Nine per cent of the contributors furnished 55% of the money. Sixty-one per cent of the givers contributed only 15% of the total. Sixty-two per cent of the 1909 individual contributors contributed to only one of these three large agencies, while only 10% contributed to all three.

A carefully weighed statement of "some expected advantages and disadvantages" of the Chest plan in Newton is given by the Committee:

"The experience of communities which have tried federated financing justifies the prediction that with a community chest more money will be raised and a much larger number of persons will contribute. Board and staff members should be relieved from the constant necessity of money-raising and should be free to devote more

ZONING ORDINANCE

The board of aldermen received the report of the select committee on the zoning ordinance at the meeting Monday night, and will hold a meeting at 7:45, April 6th, to consider it. Visions of a renewal of the old fight, which went on for two years before a decision was arrived at, looms in the minds of the board. The select committee reports in favor of a single residence zone which was the bone of contention in the former discussion.

In 1922 a zoning ordinance was passed and approved by the Mayor after he had vetoed previous ordinances because they contained single residence districts. The ordinance, in which Mayor Childs placed his seal of approval was passed just before the 1922 board adjourned for the year and contained in lieu of a single residence district, which the Mayor held was unconstitutional, what is known as a private residence district, which allowed the erection of one or two-family houses. In several sections of the city, notably Waban, West Newton Hill, Farlow Hill, Mt. Ida, Chestnut Hill and parts of Newton Centre, where the houses are for the most part single family residences, the residents wanted a single residence district, so that these sections might be retained and in order that two-family houses, duplex dwellings and flats might be excluded.

For the purpose of making another study of the situation a committee was appointed comprising the following members of the board: J. Earle Parker, chairman; William B. Baker, Roy V. Collins, Harry W. Fitts, John H. Gordon, John C. Madden, Norman F. Pratt. This select committee recommends the amendment of the zoning ordinance so that in addition to the five districts now provided a single residence district may be included with the same provisions and same uses of buildings as in the present private residence district with the exception that a building used as a dwelling shall be limited to the use of not more than one family. The committee further recommends a provision for the alteration or adaptation for the use as a dwelling of not more than two families in the proposed single residence district of large old houses in these proposed districts, now used by one family.

The new proposed district would permit only the erection of single family houses, schools or other educational institutions owned for profit. Only such accessory buildings could be erected as are usual in such districts and would not permit of a private garage for more than three automobiles. It is also provided that the board could permit the erection of

The subject of the lecture by Dr. Edward Howard Griggs on Thursday night at the Hunnewell Club was "Macbeth." This play is the third of a tragic trilogy, the other two being "Othello" and "King Lear." "Othello" is a tragedy of Fate; "King Lear" of Fate and Guilt; and "Macbeth" of pure Guilt.

Macbeth, like Brutus and Hamlet, is given to soliloquies, but his soliloquies are not more materialistic than those of the other two.

Dr. Griggs characterized the "Weird Sisters" as "Sisters of Fate" rather than "witches" is the generally accepted sense. They suggest not only what is already in Macbeth's mind, but symbolize the forces of Evil. They do not, however, according to the lecturer deprive Macbeth of moral responsibility, in as much as he need not have paid attention to them. "It is by paying attention to Good or Evil that a man determines his course in life."

The speaker dwelt upon the two series of consequences which follow wrong doing, namely, the inner and the outer consequences, the first being the effect upon the soul of the individual of his act, and the second, the effect upon his environment. Both of these consequences are shown in "Macbeth."

Lady Macbeth, unlike the sisters in "King Lear", is utterly feminine. She is in many ways stronger than Macbeth. She not only steels herself to perform the task before her, but keeps Macbeth's courage to the sticking point.

The lecturer drew an interesting and true comparison between men and women. "The woman," he said, "is higher or keyed than the man, but has less endurance. She is like the high string on a violin which can be keyed to a higher pitch, but if keyed too high or too often is likely to break." He was of the opinion that Lady Macbeth was ambitious for herself as well as for Macbeth.

Dr. Griggs read the famous soliloquy of Macbeth on "Sleep." This has been severely criticized by many critics as being too imaginative for a blood-faint man who she learns that these same grooms have been killed by Macbeth. This, the speaker said,

HOLD SHORT SESSION

The board of aldermen of 1925 last Monday evening equalled their record of a few weeks ago by adjourning after a short session of fifty minutes. President White presided and pushed the meeting through in his usual efficient manner. Aldermen Fitts and Weeks were absent. At 8:40 the board adjourned after passing orders calling a special meeting next Monday when they will discuss the new high school and calling the meeting of April 6th at 5:30 to consider the budget and at 7:45 to consider the subject matter in the report of the select committee on zoning.

Considerable interest was manifested by residents of Newton Highlands in the hearing on the taking of land for a sewer in Carver road and other streets in the vicinity. Edward Egan, Joseph Rogers, Donald Kirkpatrick, William Hamson, P. L. Bernard, and several others appeared to urge the board to take the land for the sewers. Most of them had had trouble with their cesspools filling up and those that had not yet been forced to have them pumped out were expecting trouble at any time. One resident said that he would consider himself lucky if the sewer was built before his cesspool filled up. The residents claimed that the soil was unfit for cesspools being a blue clay mixture with not sufficient absorptive qualities to dispose of the sewage. The health of their families and themselves were in jeopardy and they asked the board to pass the order. Letters were read from several other residents of the vicinity who were in favor of the sewer. A request for a show of hands was made and forty or fifty were found to be in favor of the project. The hearing was closed and the matter referred to the Committee on Public Works.

The petition of Anthony Mandile for permission to enlarge his store on Boylston street, Newton Highlands, was opposed by Mr. Maurice B. Bisco. Mr. Bisco said that the residents of the vicinity wanted to keep the district a residential one, as it is now, under the zoning law, and that he thought that the store had been reopened after the zoning law had been passed. The store had formerly been doing business but had been closed for some time before Mandile had reopened it.

Mr. F. A. Campbell opposed the petition saying that the abutters objected and that Mr. Mandile had no permit for the store and that new fittings had been put in after the zoning law had been passed.

Mr. Robert Hurley opposed the petition on the grounds that it was a direct violation of the zoning ordinance. The former store had been closed last Spring and Mr. Mandile had not opened it until the Fall. Mr. Hurley said that he believed that the permit for an addition to the store was a forerunner to a permit for a gasoline station.

Miss Eliza Philbrick said that the building was not strong enough to carry the weights specified in the building laws. She also stated that being the owner of property across the street from Mr. Mandile's store she found it difficult to sell as people would not buy house lots on account of the store being there.

Mr. P. O'Connell, an attorney representing Mr. Mandile, arrived later and asked the board to reopen the hearing. He said that Mr. Mandile intended to enlarge his store by enclosing the piazza. In answer to questions by Alderman Lloyd regarding the length of time the store had been closed Mr. O'Connell replied that it had only been a matter of a few days while legal title to the property was being settled. Mr. O'Connell stated that the goods had not been removed from the store during this time. The hearing was again closed and the matter referred to the Committee on Franchises and Licenses.

Communications from the Mayor were received and referred to the proper committees. A petition from the Women's Clubs asking that $1,200 for concerts be included in the playground department budget was referred to the Finance Committee.

A notice from the state fire marshal of an appeal by Lillian G. Budding from the decision on the granting of the garage permit to A. T. Stuart at the last meeting was received. The state fire marshal had refused to grant the appeal so no action was taken.

Phillips Byfield, of Newtonville, was granted an auctioneer's license and F. C. Hall was granted a license for an express truck.

INTERIOR DECORATION

Chester I. Campbell Gives You An Idea. Have You A Better One for the Better Newton Contest

Have you thought of your idea yet? Take a look at the list of thirteen cash prizes that are announced to day to be divided among the winners and then start thinking about life in Newton and how you would go about to improve it. There are many things that the Graphic can do and is willing to try and do if they are but brought to their attention.

It is no more difficult to work for the betterment of Newton than it is for the Home Beautiful and Building Trades Exposition to be held in Boston from April 25 to May 2 to work for the betterment of New England. General Manager Chester I. Campbell each year adds some new idea or department that is aimed to raise the level of every home in New England. So broad is the scope of this great show that each year its sphere of influence widens and reaches deeper into the more subtle phases of home life. It has been well named "The Home Owners Own Show."

One of the features that has been included this year is a series of lectures to be given in Paul Revere Hall on the art of Interior Decoration by H. Francis Winter, Director of the New York Professional School of Interior Decoration. Mr. Winter is one of the leading authorities in the decorative profession and is regarded as one of the foremost educators in interior decoration in the country.

His lectures will cover such interesting and educational subjects as Color Harmony, Color Psychology and Scientific Environment all explained in non-technical terms in order that they may be clearly understood by the layman. It is planned to show actual examples with demonstrations of period and modern renderings suitable for New England homes. The better types all within the reach of average income.

H. Francis Winter has the distinction of being practically born and reared in Fifth Avenue decorative circles where he has done much toward the advancement of his profession. He is well known as an artist, artisan writer and educator and during his life has had such a wide experience that his coming to Boston as a lecturer will give home lovers of this section a real chance to learn the things they have long wanted to learn but have feared the expense would be to great.

SCHOOL NOTES

Edited by DOROTHY DRAKE

F. A. Day Jr. High School

Mr. Carr announced at Assembly that moving picture programs similar to those we had last year would be resumed provided that such would be feasible and appreciated.

The Fun Lovers' Club presented a play entitled "Her Uncle's Boots" very well. The cast included Mary Wakefield, Beatrice Armstrong, Raymah Wight, Ruth Taft, Elizabeth Arend, Virginia Brown, Louise Horrigan.

The players are to be commended especially since two of the cast—Dorothea Whitney and Rosalind Harris—were absent because of sickness.

There was also a song by Miss Mary Wakefield, and the piano solo by Miss Louise Horrigan. Miss Winnifred Evans had charge of the program.

Mason School

This week, the music, science, and English Club meetings were omitted to allow time for drill on points not fully understood in Arithmetic and English.

The eighth grade are very busy making and transferring designs to linen. Later, they will be painted, and then the linen will be used as covers for cushions of various kinds.

The decorations in the hall on Father's Night, March 18, were provided by using plants from the different school rooms. Of course the N. C. School Association Banner occupied a prominent place. In these meetings of the Association, the parents attending are credited to the different rooms in which their children are pupils.

The room having the greatest number of parents to its credit, receives the banner until the next meeting.

Hyde School

On Monday, March 9, a very interesting flower talk was given in connection with lantern slides by Miss McGinnis from the Society for the Preservation of the Wild Flowers of New England.

Mr. Miller has recently invested in some Literary Digests for the Social Science department. All four classes are enjoying them, and it is making the work in Current Events much broader and more interesting to the children.

In Miss Jewett's room each row has a different colored posture standard given for the best posture. The boy having the best posture is given a button to wear. The girl is given a bow.

The kindergarten has worked out a very interesting plan on weight. Backgrounds picturing a meadow were prepared and many little children with kites placed in the meadow. The children with the white kites signified the children of standard weight or over, the blue ones for those of 10 per cent below standard, and the red ones for those more than 10 per cent below standard.

As the cooking year advances the girls are becoming so accomplished that they are able to make combinations toward the preparation of dinners. Next they will take up the cost and planning of daily and weekly menus. Because of the increase in the size of classes two new stoves have been added to the cooking room.

Donald Adams, a pupil in the seventh grade, very skillfully carved and painted two birds for the window boxes of the science class and another one which he placed at the top of a graceful trellis, which he also made, for an ivy in his own class room.

Miss Ryder's class will soon give a lantern lesson entitled "A Tour Through New England."

This morning the children of the upper grades enjoyed a motion picture showing the story of milk.

Mrs. Arthur Williams gave a tea at her home on Hyde street, Thursday, March 12, to which all the teachers of the Hyde were invited to attend.

On Friday of last week three of the Junior High School science classes, under the direction of Mrs. Blake, had the unusual opportunity of seeing a black swallow tail butterfly emerge from its chrysalis.

In the autumn the pupils of the seventh grades brought in caterpillars of all varieties and watched them go into their dormant state. This is the first butterfly to emerge.

The seventh grades tested milk in their science classes this week, for fat, sugar, starch, protein and mineral matter.

The eighth grade science classes are conducting experiments in mold and bacteria.

West Newton Music School

The two recitals at the Peirce school on March 6th and March 13th were enjoyed by the pupils and many of the parents and their friends.

The Music School furnished a program at the meeting of the West Newton Woman's Educational Club on Friday afternoon, March 13th.

Lasell

On Tuesday afternoon, March 17, the Newton High and Lasell basketball teams met in a game at Lasell, which was won by the Newton High girls.

After a six-day siege, the seniors of Lasell Seminary on Thursday out-generaled the juniors, and won the annual battle of the tables. Following one of the many customs at the Auburndale School, the seniors each year try to "capture" the dining room tables while the juniors employ all the resources at their command to prevent the seniors from gaining possession of the dining room.

The first threat of the seniors was made last week. Since that time the juniors had constantly maintained guards on the tables in the dining room of Bragdon Hall, where the 300 students assemble for meals. The juniors were compelled to have at least two guards on each table at all times and the seniors were to make their attack when the tables are unguarded or insufficiently guarded. All devices were used to lure the juniors from their positions.

This afternoon a party of seniors made a feint at one end of the dining room, attracting the juniors to that end. When the juniors left the tables unprotected at one end the other party of seniors rushed in and seized them.

The victory carries the privilege that the senior class may sit together for the remainder of the school year. Henry W. Poor will give an illustrated lecture on "Paris the Magnificent" and Rural France, next Friday afternoon at Bragdon Hall.

Saturday afternoon there will be a basketball game between Lasell and the Waltham High School teams at two o'clock. Following the game there will be a swimming meet at the pool in Bragdon Hall.

Professor Daniel Evans of Harvard will be the speaker at Vespers on Sunday evening, March 22.

The Lasell Mandolin and Glee Clubs under the direction of Rev. Earl E. Harper, are to furnish music at an entertainment given by the Rebecca Lodge in Waltham on Monday evening, March 23, 1925.

THOMAS LONG CO.

The house of Thomas Long Company, jewelers, has just celebrated its 55th anniversary by moving into a new store at 40 Summer street, next door to Kennedy's. For the last 24 years, the company had occupied the building at 41 Summer street, next door to Hovey's.

The new establishment, fully three times as large as the old store, comprises one of the largest jewelry stores in the United States. Several new departments have been added, including those for birthday and anniversary cards, kodaks and clocks, and every fixture in the store is new. In planning this store, the company had in mind not so much a place of rich elegance as one of convenience for shoppers yet the building is artistic throughout.

In the basement are a receiving room, a glass duplicate store room, jewelry boxes, and a rest room for the young women. Two electric dumb-walkers run to the jewelry repair shop and the polishing department on the second floor and the watch repair shop and the engraving department on the third floor.

The arrangement of the centre of the store is entirely different from that of any other jewelry store in the city. The show cases—of American walnut—in the centre, are in four "islands," each approached by a wide aisle, thus insuring plenty of room for customers. Near the entrance is the diamond department, with a special room for customers who desire privacy. On the left are cases devoted to watches and clocks, and nearby is the men's jewelry department. An original feature is the "goods-for-the-baby" department; and one of the most beautiful departments is that devoted to leather goods. The large frontage, with the high windows, provides plenty of sunlight.

The house was founded in 1870 by Thomas Long, a manufacturer of jet jewelry and the factory was in a small room on Avon street. In a few years, Mr. Long enlarged the business and became an importer and wholesale jeweler. He died 28 years ago, and the business passed into the hands of the present owners—Charles W. Davidson of Newtonville, president; Frank F. Davidson of Auburndale, treasurer, and George Moses of Boston, secretary. The company was doing a wholesale business, exclusively, up to 1901, when it opened a retail department in connection with the wholesale at the old store, 41 Summer street. The wholesale department occupies most of the second and third floors of the new store, having a separate entrance at No. 46.

DECLINES OFFER TO COACH

George Owen Jr., Newton and Harvard athlete, has declined the flattering offer to coach football and baseball and to be an assistant to Dr. Fawcett of the physical department at Wesleyan College, Middletown, Conn. Owen is in the brokerage business in Boston, which he would have been forced to give up had he accepted the offer. It is possible that he will continue his interest in athletics by keeping his post as a member of the football coaching staff at Harvard.

NEW MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION

The Newton Corner Merchants Association of the Newton Chamber of Commerce came into existence under most favorable auspices at an enthusiastic meeting at Elks Hall on Monday evening. Seventy or more merchants of the Newton Corner section were present and unanimously endorsed the report of the committee in charge of the big Dollar Day announced for March 28, listened to an exceptionally inspiring address by E. Fred Cullen of the Boston Chamber, and voted to organize a Newton Corner mercantile association under the direction of the Newton Chamber of Commerce. Officers were elected and steps taken to make the new association one that will be continuously active and a program outlined which, in its development, should materially benefit the citizens of that section as well as the merchant members of the new organization.

The organization of the Newton Corner Merchants Association is the initial development in the new Chamber of Commerce plan through which the merchants of each village of the city having a reasonably representative membership will be assisted in the organization of a local mercantile body. Each of these may at times function independently and develop dollar days and other merchandising events in the respective communities, independent of similar events in the other villages. This is in accordance with the long expressed desires of a majority of the mercantile members of the Chamber, and is expected to materially assist in the successful development of the work of the Mercantile Division as a whole. The chairmen of the respective village groups, with a general chairman who will also be a vice president of the Chamber, will make up the general Chamber Mercantile committee, in accordance with the By-Laws of the parent organization, this development having been anticipated in the reorganization of the Chamber more than three years ago.

The organization meeting on Monday evening was preceded by an excellent dinner at 6:30 o'clock, which was enjoyed by more than sixty business men who were interested in the new organization. Others came in for the business session, while several representatives of the mercantile committees from other villages were present to observe the initial development in the new mercantile working plan of the Chamber.

Much of the success of the meeting must be attributed to the exceptionally fine address given by the speaker, E. Fred Cullen, a director of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, president of the Johnson Educator Food Company of Cambridge, and a well known speaker along the lines of cooperative and organized effort. Mr. Cullen discussed the advantages and possibilities of cooperation in both the local and broader fields, speaking authoritatively of present day business development and opportunities in New England and Greater Boston, as well as of the country as a whole. In pointing out the possibilities of the Newton Chamber of Commerce and its mercantile groups, he was especially effective. His talk provided just the right type of inspiration and advice for a new organization, and developed a degree of enthusiasm which was reflected in subsequent proceedings throughout the evening.

Following the address by Mr. Cullen, the meeting was called to order by Mercantile Secretary Wilmer W. Redish of the Chamber, who outlined the new plan of separate mercantile organizations in each village, promised the whole-hearted and continuous cooperation and support of the Chamber, and pledged his personal efforts to bring about the complete success of the mercantile movement of the Chamber, and of the respective village groups now in the process of organization.

That the new Newton Corner association may have an unobstructed field and be assured of the cooperation and support of all interests, a substantial proportion of the membership of the former Newton Corner Business Men's Association voted unanimously to discontinue that organization and to give its entire support to the new organization. This action was taken upon the recommendation of President Harold Moore of the former association, who strongly urged all of his former associates, most of whom also held membership in the Chamber, to get behind the new organization and give it their support.

An hour or more was given over to the discussion of the coming Dollar Day on Saturday, March 28, and the plans of the special Dollar Day Committee unanimously approved. Various suggestions were made and adopted, and others referred to the committee for further consideration. If unadulterated enthusiasm, interest, and effort are to count in the development of the coming Dollar Day, this will be one of the biggest and most successful merchandising events ever held in Newton. This was made clearly evident through the assurances of cooperation given by practically every one present at the Monday evening meeting.

The presiding officer during the latter part of the meeting was Raymond E. Williams, of the Woolworth Five and Ten Cent Store, who was elected chairman of the new association. A nominating committee, comprising Frank J. Perry, Chairman, Bernard M. Burke and William M. Cahill, submitted a report through its chairman, which was followed with the unanimous election of the other officers, as follows: Vice Chairman, Harold Moore; Secretary, Wilmer W. Redish, and Treasurer, George C. Campbell. There will be an executive committee of twenty-five, including the officers and following: Bernard M. Burke, James Burrows, William M. Cahill, Charles H. Clark, Andrew J. Ford, Frank M. Goss, A. P. Hartshorn, A. B. Hayden, Fred G. Rowe, Thomas J. Kavanagh, John H. Kent, John A. Kyte, E. G. Lagerblad, Walter L. McCommon, Samuel Marshall, Charles C. Governor Fuller's recent vetoes of private pension bills met the prompt approval of the Legislature, which should not have passed the bills in the first place. Our experience in the General Court showed a lamentable lack of system in consideration of pension matters. It is impossible to obtain a logical and consistent course when pension matters are distributed to five or six committees. Matters of general pension interest are sent to Social Welfare, bills affecting pensions on Metropolitan district employees go to Metropolitan affairs, of county employees to Counties, while private or individual pensions go either to Cities or Towns, depending on status of the municipality from which the pensioner comes. We have repeatedly urged the Speaker to have a committee on Pensions and Retirement created which would handle all pension matters, but without success. With the rapidly increasing amount of pensions, before Legislature, some action should be taken along this line.

Vice President Dawes has hit a popular vein in calling attention of the United States Senate to the inadequacy of the rule to close debate. It will be of little benefit to the Republican majority in dropping the non-Republicans from committee assignments, if still allows a single senator to hold up public business, as is now possible. This so-called prerogative of senators has oftentimes been a public scandal, and the two new Senators from Massachusetts can do a praiseworthy act by insisting on a cloture rule in the Senate which will actually function.

In the passing of William C. Brewer the city loses an official whose qualities are possessed by few. As Chairman of the Playground Commission since its establishment more than fifteen years ago Mr. Brewer has done more for the recreation life of Newton than can be measured in words. Regarded as one of the foremost playground experts in the country, Mr. Brewer served not only his home city but his country. We sincerely regret that his services have been taken from us and will always remember his faithfulness and his honesty in the affairs of our city.

As between the bee and the ant, both touted as examples of industry, a lot of chaps prefer to pattern their lives after the latter, which works for itself instead of laying up treasures for others.

Washington, it seems, was mostly asleep when Vice President-elect Dawes arrived. If he gets anything like a good chance though, it is our bet that he will wake the town up.

FATHERS' NIGHT

A large and enthusiastic audience practically filled the Mason School hall on Wednesday evening, the occasion being the fourth annual Fathers' Night of the Newton Centre School Association.

Mr. S. B. Paul, master of the school, greeted the parents and introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Ernest W. Butterfield, Commissioner of Education, of Concord, N. H., who spoke on the subject, "Principles and Practice of the Control of Children."

The fact that Mr. Butterfield spoke as the father of four children, rather than as a schoolmaster, gave his talk a very human appeal.

He began by paying a tribute to modern parents. He had seen, last September, what he called "the sacrament of the first day of school," children of all ages, starting out, eagerly and joyously on a new year, and as their mothers watched them, from the doorways, their last words were always, "Be good." When these are the parting words to the child each day, as they are all over the land, the family can not be on the downward path as so many modern writers would have us believe; and Mr. Butterfield feels that never have the great majority of parents been more anxious for the welfare of their children than at the present time. The cry that children are more frivolous, lazy, and disobedient now than ever before, has been heard in every generation. How seldom does the parent realize that it is not the child who is at fault, but that he, himself, in his role as parent, is poor.

He traced punishment to the early days of mankind, when the man found what transgression against the laws of nature brought a physical penalty. From that knowledge grew the law of "an eye for an eye"—a punishment for revenge or reparation. As man grew higher, he punished for the good of society, and so isolated the offender, this being the form of punishment most used by our courts. But the present attitude is slowly becoming that the offender be punished for his own good, and to bring about his reformation; and that is the purpose for which we should punish our children.

Three characteristics of proper punishment were given. It should be sensible, that is, it should have some connection with the offense. It should be done pleasantly. Let the child feel that you hate the sin but not the sinner. As a boy said, illustrating this point, "I'll do it for you because when you jaw me, your eyes ain't mad." Then it should be expiatory, not given in anger, but at the time of the offense, not held off and made a ceremonial.

Five don'ts were, don't set a penalty ahead, don't threaten and raise the voice, don't make the punishment too severe, don't try to punish by making an appeal to the child's sympathy for your "worn out" condition, and don't attempt to bring up one child alone. Three happy thoughts for parents were next given. When the child is going through the different trying phases that come with different stages of development, when the family is in need of patience and long suffering, remember always, "This too will pass." Remember that most of the child's misdeeds are socially disturbing, but are not sinful, and remember, too, that we need not punish for things that are past. Do not look back, but keep training for the future.

Parents should never encourage fears and phobias in children. They should try to locate the most trying time of the day and so change conditions in the household that these unpleasantnesses may be avoided and above all, plan the days, especially for younger children, that time out of school may be fully and pleasantly occupied. Mr. Butterfield made an appeal to the audience to think of what stood out most clearly in their childhood thoughts of their parents, and asked if it were not the times when their fathers and mothers played and worked with them as associates and friends. He closed with a quotation from the 127th Psalm, "Children are an heritage of the Lord; happy is the man that hath his quiver full of them."

The meeting was opened very pleasantly with a group of songs by Mr. Edward N. Griffin, supervisor of music in the Newton schools, and an outline of the work of the Association for the past year was given by the president. Following the talk a social hour was enjoyed. This very interesting and enjoyable evening was planned by the program committee under Mrs. Harold Giddings.

The Newton Centre School Association is closing its fourth year with a membership of 736, nearly one half of whom are fathers.

MEN'S CLUB OF WEST NEWTON

Last night the Men's Club of West Newton held its fifth meeting of the season in the parish house of the Second Church. The speaker was Robert J. Brown, Jr., first lieutenant Air Service commanding Boston Air Port. His subject was "Our Progress in Aviation with Special Reference to the World Flight."

Lieutenant Brown was chairman of the world flight committee which planned the details of the round-the-world flight of U. S. Army planes. During the war he was in active service in Texas as a flying instructor. Since then he has been on duty in Washington on the Staff of General Patrick, chief of the air service of the U. S. Army, and at present is in command of the Boston air port in East Boston.

His talk was accompanied by motion pictures from official films.

MOTHERS' REST ASSOCIATION

Contract has been awarded to Robert Vachon & Son of Newton, for constructing a dormitory in the rear of 26 Oak Hill street, Newton, for the Mothers' Rest Association, according to Brown's Letters, Inc., Construction Reports. It will be of wood and stucco construction, two stories high, 213x104 feet. Kendall, Taylor & Co., of Boston, are the architects.

buildings for associations of persons living in a common dwelling house; hospitals or sanitariums, farm, stock garden or green house, truck garden or nursery; and the board could permit a private garage for more than three cars if necessary.

In order to provide for the adaptation of an old house into a two-family house the proposed ordinance provides the board may permit such alterations on houses at least 25 years old, of a ground area of more than 1200 feet, exclusive of porches, provided such alterations would increase the floor area or area of the building by not more than 15 percent and that the general appearance of a single residence be maintained. No building in the proposed district under the proposed ordinance can be more than four stories or 55 feet in height and the porches could not occupy, including porches, steps, projections, etc., and accessory buildings, more than 30 percent of the lot. This does not apply to private garages in connection with a building already in existence, and for one or two families.

No building could be located under the proposed ordinance nearer than seven and one-half feet of the line of an adjoining lot, except accessory buildings, which could not be nearer than six feet.

The sections that would be affected by this proposed ordinance are outlined on a map, copies of which are to be distributed to the civic organizations of the city for examination prior to the Aldermen's meeting on April 6, which will be held April 6, at City Hall. The greater part of Waban is affected, and included also are parts of West Newton Hill, the section of Newton Highland adjoining Waban, most of Chestnut Hill, parts of Newton Centre and Newtonville in the Prospect Hill, Mt. Ida and Bulboughs Pond Districts, Farlow Hill and Mt. Ida in the Newton Corner Section. These maps will be ready for examination in a few days.

The entire proposition is very similar to the ordinances vetoed by the Mayor, and whether he is still of the same mind and will take the matter before the Supreme Court to decide on its constitutionality, which has been previously questioned, is a matter of conjecture.

GIRL SCOUTS

Nearly 800 persons witnessed "Treasure Island," the Paramount Arctart picture which was presented at the Community Theatre last Saturday morning by the Newton Girl Scouts. The whole entertainment was a most delightful one. Besides "Treasure Island," the audience enjoyed one of the extremely funny "Esof Fables" and the children got very excited over the adventures of the "Gang" engineering a railroad of their own after having experimented on the real thing and nearly annihilating poor Topsy. Mr. Sumner, well known to the Community Theatregoers, co-operated most generously with the Girl Scout Officers in making this Benefit possible. He gave the use of the theatre to the organization, and beside that ran the "Pathe news during the program. This included pictures of the inauguration of President Coolidge, which the Scouts applauded vigorously and which seemed particularly real to those who had listened to that day's program over the radio. Mr. Ross of the Pathe Exchange Company, who butted the comedies to the program, which were greatly appreciated by the audience if one can judge by laughter and applause. Treasure Island was given by the Famous Players, Lasky Corporation, and was the drawing card of the program. From the start to the finish of this picture the children were held spell bound. It was all that they expected and more. They enjoyed all the thrills that they had anticipated. This program was made possible by Mr. Sumner, Mr. Ross and Mr. Bevan and the Girl Scout Officers' Association of Newton appreciates the courtesy shown to them by these three gentlemen. During the performance candy was sold. The Newton Girl Scout Bugle and Drum Corps played during the intermission and played exceedingly well with Miss Dorothy True of Troop 11 as Drum Major. Scout Lisbeth Leighton, Sargent Drummer, a member of Troop V, played a drum solo, and Scout Elizabeth Plimpton, Sargent Bugler, who is also the Champion Girl Scout Bugler of Massachusetts, played a solo on the Bugle. Miss Ruth Underwood of Troop VI played the piano while the pictures were being shown.

The committee for the Benefit were as follows: Tickets, Mrs. Walton S. Redfield; Captain Bugle and Drum Corps; Ushers, Miss Inez Larmore, Captain Troop I; Candy, Miss Margaret Ball, Lieutenant Troop II; Clear-Up, Miss Doris Lovell, Captain Troop VII.

The profits from the entertainment will be three hundred dollars.

Leaders Course:

First Class work will be taken up at the Leader's course next Wednesday evening, and will be continued during the remaining meetings of the course.

The special feature of the meeting next week will be "How to Lead the Scouts in Troop Singing." Mr. Rupert Sireom, organist and choirmaster of the Unitarian Church, West Newton, will conduct this part of the program, and the Newton Council Girl Scouts is "certainly most fortunate" in securing his help and co-operation. A large attendance is hoped for.

The nomination of James A. Waters as chairman of the registrars of voters was confirmed by ballot.

The report of the Finance Committee that it was inexpedient to make a special appropriation for an adding machine in the treasury department was accepted and no appropriation will be made.

An appropriation of $4,300 was made for water mains in Canterbury road, Ridgeway terrace, Carl street, Ward 5; Commonwealth avenue, ward 4; Coolidge road, Intervale road, ward 6; and Thaxter road, ward 2.

An amendment to the order levying assessments for sewer construction was passed. The amendment was to correct the names of land owners so that the order would read with the names as of April 1st and not as at present.

An order was passed making the division of new precincts to go into effect at once and not on December 31. This matter nearly went through at the last meeting but City Solicitor Bartlett informed the board that it was without his sanction to have the division put over until December 31. President White referred the matter back to the committee and it was changed to go into effect at once.

Hearings were assigned for April 6 on the Central Garage, Inc., for a 150-car garage in Newtonville and on the petition of the American Auto Livery Company for a gasoline permit.

Appropriations were made to the treasury department to settle the Dorriclaim amounting to $527 plus interest and for payment of taxes on the Nottage land amounting to $21.89. An appropriation of $322 was made to the street department for a sewer in Centre street at Locksley road. Eight hundred and twenty-five dollars was appropriated to the treasury department for school bond forms.

The Edison Light Company was granted several locations for poles. A petition for six poles on Tangleton road was presented and the board suspended the rules, as all the abutters had waived their rights to have notice of a public hearing, and granted the petition.

Petitions of the Boston Gardening Company for permit to alter and use the building at 583 Chestnut street as a packing shed and of Herbert F. Hatch for permit to alter the building at 390 Waverley avenue into a 3-car private garage were granted without reference to the committee.

The following private garages were granted:

Donald McKay, 26 Dexter road, Ward 2, 1-car in dwelling.
John Proia 128-130 Linwood avenue, Ward 2, 2-car in dwelling.
Mrs. L. D. Towle, 285 Franklin street, Ward 7, 2-car in dwelling.

DEATH OF MR. MURPHY

A large number of Newton people were shocked and saddened by the rather sudden death, on last Friday, of William Leo Murphy, of 103 Los Angeles street, this city.

Mr. Murphy was a life-long resident of Newton, and through his ever sparkling wit and pleasant personality, had made a legion of friends, to whom he was known as "Billie." He was employed at the Stanley Motor Car Co. of this city for twenty-four years, and will be sadly missed by his fellow-workers. He succumbed to pneumonia at the Newton Hospital after a week's illness and was buried from a solemn high mass of requiem at the Church of Our Lady on Monday morning. Interment was in the Calvary Cemetery, Waltham. His funeral was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends from all over the state, and many floral tributes bespoke the esteem in which he was held by all who knew him.

Mr. Murphy is survived by his mother, three brothers, John, Joseph and Frank, one sister, Mrs. Louis Cook, and a wife and three small children. His wife was Miss Mary Blake-ney of 77 Court street, Newtonville, and his passing ended a union that was regarded as an ideally happy one.

of their time and effort to constructive service. Better planning, budgeting, and accounting and lesser overlapping of work may be expected, as well as a general improvement in administrative efficiency. Some relief will come to contributors by reduction in the number of local appeals.

"More important than any of these, there should be a much wider knowledge of the contribution of the welfare work of Newton through more and better publicity; and a more united, tolerant, and broadly democratic community spirit should be developed among our citizens by reason of the informed co-operative effort for the welfare work of the city."

"The disadvantages can not be stated so concretely. They depend, to the same extent as the advantages, on the character, ability and permanence of the management. The Chest may promote extravagance and undue expansion. Comparatively it may benefit the weaker more than the larger and more widely known agencies. Finally, and this in the opinion of the Committee is the most fundamental disadvantage, it may lessen and in some cases destroy the personal interest of the contributor in the cause to which he contributes. The gift may become an imposed tax and the real interest and management devolve increasingly on paid workers. A certain spiritual value may be lost. To us, brought up to giving to individual charities, this may not matter, but what will be the effect on a new generation of givers?"

In order to ascertain the opinions of contributors regarding the Community Chest plan, the Committee sent a carefully worded questionnaire to 674 representative contributors, both large and small. The 286 replies to the question, "Do you favor a Community Chest for Newton?" were as follows: Yes, 1777, 62%; no, 84, 29%; doubtful, 9%.

The Committee made no investigation of the attitude of the welfare agencies toward the Chest plan, since it was desired that the agencies should have the report of the Committee as a basis for discussion.

In summing up the considerations for and against the Chest plan, the Committee's report says "If any plan of federated financing is undertaken, a representative and balanced form of organization should be adopted which will give due recognition to (1) the welfare requirements of the community, (2) the financial ability of the community to contribute, and (3) the equitable apportionment of the funds among the participating agencies."

"Finally and most important of all, men and women must be found to direct the Chest. This is the most exacting requirement of all. In the last analysis the success or failure of the plan may chiefly depend on this factor. This is a public service which cannot be paid for. The requirements are exacting. The general welfare of the community as presented by expert professional workers must receive broadminded consideration. The financial capacity of contributors must never be strained. Old and new agencies must be treated with impartial consideration. Furthermore, the Committee believes that if qualified men and women can be found, their acceptance of this responsibility should not be induced by promise of being relieved after a short term of service. It is the experience of nearly every chest that the most important problems do not develop until after several years of operation. The success or failure of the enterprise may depend on continuity of management and the development through experience, sound judgment, and even balanced control of the complete confidence of the agencies, the contributors, and the community."

The personnel of the Community Chest Study Plan is as follows: Grosvenor Calkins, Chairman; Mrs. Virginia M. Hutchinson, representing the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs; Frank W. Remick, Miss Elizabeth Ross, representing the professional social workers, Rupert C. Thompson, representing the Newton Chamber of Commerce, Fred H. Tucker, Guy M. Winslow, Ph.D., George M. Angier, President of the Newton Central Council.

Arthur Dunham, Secretary.

The complete report of the Newton Central Council's Annual Meeting, at which the Chest Study Report was presented, will be contained in next week's issue of the Graphic. The full text of the report will be published in next week's or in succeeding issues.

SPRING FIRING

With the Spring season near at hand, only a moderate fire in the heater will be necessary.

To run a low fire, PEA size coal mixed with the larger sizes is most necessary.

A fire banked with PEA coal with drafts checked will often keep forty-eight hours without attention.

The bringing of this nationally known lecturer to Boston is but another example of the thoroughness with which the Home Beautiful and Building Trades Exposition goes into every detail about the home with practical suggestions and ideas. Interior decoration can be made a real art in any home and the taste with which furnishings are selected to harmonize with wall papers, draperies and rugs reflects the culture of the occupants.

Try and think of some new idea for home decoration that will be simple and yet effective, economic and yet practical. It is such thoughts that are useful that this Better Newton Contest is trying to bring to light in Newton. Manuscripts are already coming in. Don't forget that priority will be the rule in case of two similar ideas. Get your letter in today and make sure of being first. Be sure and clip the coupon which you will find on page 9.

The following three judges have been selected: Mrs. Ernest Cobi, president of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs; Mr. Francis L. Bacon, director of secondary education in the Newton High schools; and Mr. Warren K. Brimblecom, assistant treasurer of the Newton Graphic.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Leverett D. G. Bentley

It may be we have crossed our signals in some inadvertent way or perhaps we need to have stronger lenses in our eye-glasses. At any rate it is a long time since we have observed youngsters rolling hoops. This Spring, during the mildest of the milder days, we have had an eye out for them, but all in vain. Can it be that the sport of hoop-rolling has passed out entirely? It doesn't seem so very long ago that boys and girls managed to find plenty of amusement from this innocent diversion. As we do not keep in close touch with the profoundest of profound students of child life we do not know how they stand. It may have been decided by medical experts and other deep thinkers that hoop-rolling is not good for children. Possibly it has been found that it dislodges their teeth or jars their ear drums. The men and women who seem to find so much that is undesirable in what used to be ordinary pastimes are taken pretty seriously most everywhere nowadays. They flinch at the chief and important subjects the young children. What the youngster does that isn't good for him, according to their views, is aptly. Just as soon as he gets plastered with mud while making mud pies he is snatched up by the nurse-maid, who has been warned that in every atom of mud there is lurking 10,000,000,000 germs, or enough to wipe out an entire army. We could go on and on about these instances but as we are in no way qualified to judge, it seems more prudent that we lay off. However, we really would like to know why there is no more hoop-rolling and whether it is not popular with the children of today, or just what has caused it to become a game of the past. We know there are "scooters" and "coasters" that shoot along the sidewalk when manipulated by the owner, who is resting one foot on the "machine" and wearing the leather sole of his other shoe at the rate of a half-inch an hour. Hoop-rolling cannot offer the thrill of these one-legged go-carts. But there was a time when a youngster could get a pretty fair speed while rolling a hoop. Occasionally he got a thrill when he turned a corner suddenly and there came in a disguised gentleman. Sometimes the boy got his ears boxed, as they said in those days. Today a stranger who boxes a boy's ears is liable to be arrested for murder by the police and sued by the boy's parents for permanently injuring the boy's hearing, mentality and general career. Hoop-rolling may have gone out with "a box on the ears." If so, the sooner they come back the better off the ordinary youngster will be.

We heard the other day of the case of an alleged "mad dog" and of the terrible actions of a desperate animal that "would have taken a little boy to bits had not several brave men intervened." Long ago we were cautioned by the head of the metropolitan newspaper on which we were employed to "go slow" on so-called "mad dog" stories. This man said to us, "It is very easy to declare that a dog is mad and very difficult to prove it. Unsupported statements of individuals who may be prejudiced against dogs are unfair. It doesn't make any difference whether the dog can sue the paper or not, he is entitled to a square deal. Furthermore, stories of mad dogs told by irresponsible people only create alarm when published in the newspapers. So, go slow, young man." We shall never forget this little sermon from the "boss." We have applied its teachings in many cases, not restricting it to mad dogs. But when we do hear of vicious dogs we always want to know the circumstances and are not satisfied with a harrowing story of some bystander whose imagination is greater than his respect for plain, ordinary facts. We merely investigated this latest "canine outrage" as we have many other stories and reports in our line of duty. We found that it was a female dog that had bitten a small boy. That surprised us because we knew female dogs to be much more gentle, fond of children, and patient in the face of continued "playing." One of our informers declared at all our theories about female dogs had been blasted by the conduct of the animal in question. Still skeptical we decided to convince ourselves. Just how we went at it would prove of interest to the readers of this column, for a newspaper writer has his own way of getting facts and all he can do is to report the result of his efforts. So, we are prepared to say that this dog was the mother of four small puppies, that the puppies were lying at her side when the "terrible affair" happened, that the boy had been warned to let the dog alone, and that the boy was a disobedient little "tease." The dog was protecting her puppies, displaying the mother instinct in standing between her young and danger, and the boy was persistent in his efforts to pick up the puppies, in spite of the fact that the dog had growled a warning during the several minutes the boy was doing his utmost to annoy her. Here is only one instance. It is not uncommon. Often such cases have happened and then the city fathers have rushed into special meetings and proclaimed that all dogs must be muzzled for a period of 90 days and if not muzzled shot on sight. We favor the policy of "going slow" before condemning even a dog.

If called upon to select a subject for a joint debate we are prepared to offer what we believe to be a timely and most fruitful theme. We have not the remotest idea that anybody is going to ask us for a topic and therefore we hasten to give our readers the idea. We would not present, "Resolved, that there is danger in wearing a light suit in a cafeteria." At first glance it might seem that this was a men's debate. If one will pause and think the women have as great an interest. They may be "going out" with the wearer of the suit, or they may have to hear him complain when he gets home. For these and several other reasons women have a right to look into both sides. For the affirmative we have this to say: A cafeteria is patronized by the careless as well as the careful. Sometimes one of these groups is in the majority and sometimes the other. If the careless are in the ascendancy the day you wear your light suit the chances are that you will be talking earnestly to your tailor before you have fully digested your luncheon. We have often wondered whether cleansing establishments did not have an interest in cafeterias. It seems that it is such a simple matter to put one's coat-cuff into a pool of slopped-over coffee that there is a closer connection between the two establishments than most people think. It may be that we are suspicious beyond all sense of reason. Still we have seen at the entrance of a cafeteria who had not hesitated in pushing the other customers here and there. It struck us at the time and since that these men might be soliciting business for tailors and cleansers, or that they might be naphtha salesmen working up sales. As absurd as that notion may seem it has its practical side. Why have we distinguished between a light suit and a dark suit? Simply because a dark suit is good for more spots and does not have to be cleaned until the accumulation of soup, gravy, pie-juice and milk has caused the fabric to harden and therefore become uncomfortable to the wearer. If we were to take the negative side of the debate we would say that a light suit could be worn in a cafeteria with impunity, if one had covered with a tightly-buttoned raincoat.

"You seem to know so much about umbrellas," writes H. A. R., referring to the paragraph in last week's Graphic, "that maybe you can tell me how to keep an umbrella after I once get hold of it. I seem to have more borrowers in my family and among my friends and neighbors than any other man in the world. They do not hesitate to ask me for the best silk umbrella I own, and, if you want to know the truth, they do not get it. I have loaned many an umbrella in my day and may say that only a few of them have been returned. I have to guard my prize silk one with my life and that requires too much effort. Will you advise me?" We regret that we are not an authority on the subject of umbrellas, although the compliment paid us by H. A. R. is pleasing to read, if not deserved. We wish we could help him out. There is no intimation in his letter that he is in need of funds with which to buy bits had not several brave men intervened. He merely wants to know how to keep his friends from borrowing them. We do not know how scrupulous H. A. R. may be. If he is not particularly so he might look the would-be borrower right in the eye and tell him that he had no umbrella. That would be technically true, but there would be no umbrella in H. A. R.'s hand at the time. Far be it from us to encourage reticence. We should not sleep well if we thought that our writings had inspired anyone to pervert the truth. We feel for H. A. R. To us it seems that if he wants to be a "good fellow" and lend an umbrella whenever called upon, all he needs is a large stock of them. This can be obtained by the expenditure of much money. It requires one who is patient, a little nerve and some patience. H. A. R. should board the rear car of a train on every rainy morning of the year. When the train reaches the South Station let him walk right through the coaches, smoker and all, and if he doesn't gather in at least one umbrella a trip we will present him an umbrella as a gift. Where it was obtained the gift umbrella has nothing to do with this offer.

DEATH OF MRS. RYDER
Mary Elizabeth Smith Ryder, formerly of Newton Centre, aged 82 years, passed away at the home of William F. Stewart, 263 Norfolk Street, Dorchester, Mass., March 11, 1925. Up to 3 weeks of her death she had enjoyed fairly good health. At that time she suffered a shock from which she failed to recover.
Mrs. Ryder was the daughter of Amanda M. and Rev. William Smith of the New England Methodist Conference. She was born at Leominster, Mass., July 18, 1842. The early years of her life were spent in the various places where her father held pastorates. When a young woman she moved to Newtonville and became identified with the Claffin Methodist Church, where she held the position of organist and choir leader for twelve years. She was an ardent worker for the church and Sunday school, and was active in all its affairs. For some years afterwards she was organist and choir leader at the Newton Highlands Methodist Church. She was a devoted student of music, and took an active interest in all the musical events of a half century ago in Newton. For years she was a teacher of piano and organ, and in ways had large and enthusiastic classes.
Mrs. Ryder will always be remembered by her children and those who knew her as a true and loyal friend, and for her unusually bright and cheerful disposition. She was of a most unselfish nature, and had a host of friends who always knew of her as one who was always ready and anxious to do for others. This characteristic of cheerful unselfishness—the giving of herself for others—endured her to all with whom she came in contact.
Mrs. Ryder leaves a daughter, Mrs. Luella Ryder Greenwood of Dorchester; a granddaughter, Mrs. William F. Stewart; a grandson, Walter F. Greenwood, of Norfolk, Virginia; three great grandchildren, Marie, Mar-Jorie and Elsie Greenwood of Norfolks and a sister, Mrs. F. C. Perry of Newtonville.

Funeral services were held at the Waterman Funeral Home, Brookline, Saturday, March 14, Rev. John L. Brant of Newtonville officiating. Two favorite selections of Mrs. Ryder, "In the Garden" and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" were sung by Mr. James C. Buftum of Oxford, Mass., accompanied by Mrs. Charles H. Smith of Dorchester. Interment was at the family lot in Cambridge Cemetery.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, March 18.—The tug-of-war between the President and the Senate has been temporarily abandoned. Everybody anticipates a resumption of these tests between the legislative and executive branches of the Government when the regular session convenes in December. Meanwhile, great changes have been inaugurated in the Federal Department without creating a ripple of public interest.

Meet the "Gold Dust Twins" of the present Administration—Messrs. Hoover and Jardine! Though they have been at work only ten days, the results of their plans are easily apparent. Mr. Jardine, as Secretary of Agriculture, with Secretary of Commerce Hoover as his chief advisor, has started a house cleaning which was predicted a few weeks ago.

In overhauling the mechanism of the Agricultural Department in the interest of efficiency, the axe has fallen first upon the bureau chiefs. Their resignations were requested or suggested within a few hours after Mr. Jardine took the oath of office. On the theory that a new broom will sweep clean, it is expected that the personnel of the important bureaus will also be altered in due course. Jardine as a member of the President's Agricultural Commission discovered evidences of bureaucratic domination.

These drastic methods are not at all to the liking of the individuals known as "professional farmers" or farm organization representatives in Washington and other localities. According to impartial observers, these organizations have placed their strength in strategic posts in the Federal service. While Secretaries Jardine and Hoover favor cooperative action among farmers, and are not hostile to legitimate cooperative work, it is known that they resent dictation from these groups. The story is coming into Washington that certain national organizations of cooperatives are protesting with the cry that "there is too much Hoover in the government."

It was understood that Mr. Jardine met with the approval of Hoover before he was finally invited into the Cabinet by the President. Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hoover share the opinion, it is said, that new methods of administration must be introduced in the Department of Agriculture, to assure the highest efficiency. Owing to the fact that the late Secretary Wallace differed with Mr. Hoover on various points in the Federal service, changes of this kind were necessarily deferred. The new Secretary and his Cabinet colleague are not at odds over jurisdiction. As a consequence, the team work is directed primarily to making the department more useful to the farmers and the consuming public. The two Cabinet officers are in general agreement that the farmer must pay more attention to the improved marketing methods.

In an interview today Secretary Jardine summarized his position very briefly when he said: "What we all need to do is to talk less tommyrot and throw fewer monkey wrenches into other people's machinery. We want to stop trying to line up one group against other groups. We want to co-operate together. Americans should be co-operating, not quarrelling with each other over the interests of the group or that." "If applied in the right way, cooperation can make of American farming a big, voluntarily unified, permanently and dependably profitable business, in a way that no paternalistic legislation could possibly do." He implies, that the farm organization fight among themselves too much.

The airing of the political line in the Senate has produced interesting news stories and editorial comment throughout the country. Nobody seems to know just what will really happen when Congress settles down to business next winter. The Warren matter has taken some of the wind from the sails of the Administration. It appeared for a time with the apparatus of majority of votes, that nothing could stem the expressed wishes of the executive branch of the government. Those whose Republicanism was more or less rightly questioned were suddenly revised to meet the emergency. The control was shown up as a "paper" not an actual, majority. The Senators whose activities savored of political heresy had their windings. Yet the majority deemed them and generally neglected to place the dissenters on important committees.

In boom times little heed is paid to changes in the prices of foods. The Bureau of Labor Statistics issued a statement this week showing that in 17 cities retail prices of food have decreased since Jan. 15. The cuts were particularly noteworthy in Little Rock, Butte, Kansas City and Milwaukee. There is room for further reductions. Compared with average cost for the year of 1913 the retail price of foodstuffs on February 15 was 61 per cent higher in Birmingham, 58 per cent in Baltimore, Washington and Scranton, 44 per cent at Little Rock. The dollar does not buy much these days. The government and private agencies believe that the solution of the distribution problem will bring essentially for it will eliminate many middlemen's profits.

ation made interest greater. It was an advantage, too, that the scarcity of music compelled Mr. Shirley to compose some himself, for the three numbers he gave of his own composition were gems, especially the last, "Gnomes," so captivating that it had immediately to be given as an encore.

Miss Barbara Smith, one of the club members, of whom the club is most justly proud, gave two groups of three songs each. Her clear tones, her vivid interpretation, and her dignity of bearing, all called forth warmest praise from her audience. Especially attractive were the "Ave Maria," by Gounod, with viola accompaniment, and "By the Waters of Minnetonka," which was repeated.

The third of the artists was Mr. Reginald Boardman, who played accompaniments most sympathetically, and also delighted his hearers with two piano solos, a Bach, and a Debussy, old and new; and for encore, at Mr. Shirley's special request, played a very modern English interpretation of a hurdy-gurdy, quite making us see the spring streets, awakening from their winter sleep. After the program, the Hospitality Committee served refreshing sherbet and cakes.

At the business meeting, preceding the entertainment, several important matters were presented. The Nominating Committee explained the names of officers for the coming year to be voted on at the annual meeting April 14th, as follows: President Mrs. Stephen Wright; Vice-presidents, Mrs. George Nudd and Mrs. J. Arthur Furbish; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Arthur L. Shaw; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Ralph Keyes; Treasurer, Miss Anne Bunker; Directors, 1925-1928, Mrs. T. C. Donovan and Mrs. Earl Ordway; Nominating Committee, six names from which four are to be chosen, Mrs. Rufus Estabrook, Chairman.

Of quite a different nature was the program of the West Newton Women's Educational Club when on Friday last, Miss Mabel C. Bragg gave an interesting talk on "The Meaning of Health Education," explaining some of the features of health work as carried on in the Newton schools, and stressing the great value of the formation of good health habits during childhood. Miss Bragg's talk was of special interest to mothers of children of school age. Miss Elizabeth Ross spoke of the work of the District Nursing Association, giving facts which emphasized the excellence and importance of the work done by this organization. Pupils of the West Newton Music School contributed music. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Frederick E. Waring, Chairman of the Public Health Committee, who, the club feels, is to be congratulated on the fine start she has made on the work, which is a new department in this club.

It is always regrettable that the unusually fine program is so often the very one to which the fewest club members turn out, and they themselves awaken sometimes too late to what they have lost, in allowing other engagements to steal in upon club time. There should have been so many more present to enjoy and profit from the splendid address of Rev. Willard L. Sperry, D. D., of Harvard University, given on Tuesday before the Newtonville Woman's Club! His subject, "The Artist and the Scientist," is—alas!—not a bit appealing to the imagination or curiosity-provoking, and yet so often in life's experiences, the paths of the two are so close that they turn out to be far more wonderful than a clever, catchy appeal in title. Such a wonderful thing happened when this topic was presented by such a scholar and lecturer as Mr. Sperry. From his first sentence, his presentation became as fascinating as a fairy tale to a child.

His material included the latest theories of the astronomers; the results of patient research work of the biologist; the yearning of the poet to find the Truth in the "Little flower in the crannied wall"; the vision of the artist that can enhance for us a well known landscape, and find lovely forms in roots we unseeingly toss aside.

He brought out the dependence of the artist upon the scientist, especially that of the sculptor in his use of stone, and throughout his talk kept well in the foreground the fact that both were working for the Truth, but in different ways. The scientist is seeking it through the examination of a multitude of allied facts, the artist in a single object.

His lecture was a whole might well be styled a prose poem, and all those who enjoyed the privilege of hearing him hope to listen to him again.

On Wednesday morning, Mrs. Frank R. Stubbs addressed the Social Science Club on the subject: "The Period of National Expansion." Thomas Jefferson spoke with almost no reference to notes. She first sketched the early life of Jefferson, emphasizing his aristocratic birth and inheritance of large estates in Virginia. She mentioned his happy, though brief, married life, and his devotion to the two daughters who survived early childhood. The remainder of the talk was concerned with Jefferson the public man, who so closely associated with all the important developments of the national life. Beginning with the Declaration of Independence in 1776, which is almost entirely Jefferson's work, through his service as governor of Virginia during the war, when the British army devastated the colony including his own estate, Mrs. Stubbs went on to describe his life in France where he succeeded Franklin as minister. He became very popular there and was greatly influenced by the French revolutionary ideas though he returned to America before the actual outbreak of the Revolution. She then traced his career as President.

Questions and comment followed the close of Mrs. Stubbs' most interesting talk, and the meeting adjourned.

Coming Events

Two excellent programs are given below for the West Newton Women's Educational Club—one to which the public is invited, and one—alas—to which they are not. Your editor may be prejudiced, being especially interested in all things legislative, but she feels that any clubwoman, or any man who has the leisure, who does not take advantage of the first opportunity has something radically wrong with her—or his—good taste!

Lieutenant-Governor Frank G. Allen is announced as speaker for the regular meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club on Friday, March 27th, at 2:30 P. M., at Player's Small Hall. Mayor Edwin O. Childs will also speak, and invited guests include Senator Abbott B. Rice, Representatives Leverett Saltonstall, Clarence S. Luitwiler, and Arthur W. Hollis, and Hon. Thomas W. White, President of the Board of Aldermen. Vocal numbers will be contributed by Virginia Denny Birgefeld, and tea and a social hour will complete the program, which has been arranged by Mrs. Fred M. Blanchard, Chairman of the Legislative Committee. It is to be an "open day," and all interested in legislative matters are invited to attend.

Mrs. Harold Larned will open her home, 380 Waltham street, West Newton, on Monday, March 23rd, at 2:30 for the meeting of the Travel Class of the West Newton Women's Educational Club. The papers announced are "Lakes of the Holy Land—Galilee and Tiberias" and "Jericho, Jordan and the Dead Sea."

It sounds like a long way to go, but like all good things requires effort, and the reward, we are sure, will be great, for all who attend.

On Wednesday, March 25th, the Social Science Club will have the opportunity of hearing Professor Raymond L. Buell of Harvard University, who will speak on "The Monroe Doctrine." Guests may be invited.

The Auburndale Woman's Club offers an unusual program for the next meeting, Tuesday, March 31st, at 8 P. M. in the Auditorium, a reception to the sons and daughters of the club. No age limit is set, all are urged to come, although the entertainment will probably appeal more to those over 10 years old. The program is illustrated by a picture on "New England Birds and Wild Flowers" by Mrs. Harriet Upham Goode, past chairman of the State Federation Conservation Committee. With birds and flowers about to return to us a talk of this kind is particularly timely, and valuable hints may be given as to how to look for and find these two visitors of spring. After the lecture will come an exhibit of interest to all children of club members. All children of club members are invited as guests, other guests may be brought by club members for the usual guest fee. All are asked to notify Mrs. Frank Burbank or Mrs. Alice Smith as to the probable number of guests they will bring, that plans may be made accordingly. Mr. Harold Cook of the State Forestry Department will give an exhibit of interest to all children of club members. The same evening is in charge of the Conservation Committee, Mrs. Royal G. Whiting, Chairman.

And don't forget the concert to be given by the Auburndale Woman's Club Chorus Wednesday evening, at 8:00 o'clock in the Auditorium. The program is in two parts; the first, miscellaneous; the second a cantata, "The Highwayman." Assisting artists are Miss Marie Zelezny, violin; Miss Florence Colby, cellist; Mr. Walter Kidder, baritone. Proceeds are for the Piano Fund and for the Club Chorus. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Lowell MacNutt, Chairman, or from any member of the Chorus. Come and enjoy a good evening of music and fine work along, is a plea that should not be ignored.

Mr. Robert Haven Schaffler will be the speaker at the meeting of the Newton Community Club on March 26th, at the Hunnewell Club House, at two-thirty o'clock. He will speak on "Adventures with British Authors." Mr. Schaffler is one of the leading essayists of the United States, as well as being a poet of distinction.

On the same day, and at the same hour, in the Newton Centre Clubhouse there comes the regular business meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club, that annual affair so necessary to the well-being of every club and so fascinating. Afterwards there will be what is termed a "delightful half-hour" in which the members will hear Mrs. Christine Denham Ulmer and community singing by the club. Tea will be served.

On the 23rd, the Christian Era Study Club of Auburndale meets at the home of Mrs. Edward Allen, on Hancock street, where the members will hear papers on "Rocheboucauld" by Miss Abbie Hall and on "Samuel Pepys" by Mrs. Allen.

All requests for gifts from the Philanthropic Fund of the Newton Highlands Woman's Club should be made in writing and sent before March 25th to the Chairman, Marion H. Dorr, 249 Lake avenue. Tickets for the luncheon which precedes the annual meeting of April 21st are now ready for distribution and can be procured from Mrs. Albion Brown and members of the Home Economics Committee. On Thursday, April 2nd, Mrs. Frank L. Richardson will open her home at 245 Woodward street, Waban, for an evening of music. The Music Committee has charge of the tickets and program which promises to be a very pleasing one to all lovers of the best in music.

Mrs. M. M. Cannon will open her home for the meeting of the Review Club Tuesday, March 24th. The subject of the morning: "The Poetry of the Revolt," will be introduced by Mrs. W. J. Spaulding, Mrs. M. M. Cannon and Miss E. C. Williams.

The evening of the 34rd, marks a happy occasion when Mrs. Ernest Cobb, President of the City Federation, Miss Madeline Cobb, and Mrs. Saldee W. Tenney, will be the hostesses for a "Farm Shower" to be given to the President of the Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club, Mrs. Francis Parsons, and to Mr. Parsons. Members of the club, their husbands, or other escorts, are invited to the affair.

an expression of good will and affection by club members, who so wish Mr. and Mrs. Parsons God speed in their new home and venture—an interesting 200-year old farm in Petersham to which they go after Mrs. Parsons ends her club year on April 27th. The endless possibilities of such a farm, which they hope to develop, catch the imagination, and the "farm shower" of their many friends, it is hoped, will aid in that plan of development!

"Women in the Fine Arts," is the interesting subject to be discussed by Mrs. Robert Clark at the afternoon meeting of the Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. for this same date—the 23rd. Miss Lydia Webster is hostess for the afternoon. The programs of the 9th and 23rd have been interchanged, as reference to the calendar will show. The general topic of this splendid club for the last half of the year has been "Woman of Today," and the fine possibilities such a well-chosen topic gave promise of have been well carried out. Possibly woman's place in the world seems pre-eminently in the "fine arts" due to her natural characteristics and qualities, but in every field that has been selected by the club members for research, be it law, science, industry, business, or workers in far lands, there has been an amazingly educational and entertaining fund of facts presented.

Rehearsals are in order for the cast of Mr. Frank Craven's play: "The First Year," to be presented by the Newtonville Woman's Club under the direction of the Dramatics Committee, Mrs. Norman Southworth, Chairman, on the evening of April 3rd, in the Technical High School for the benefit of the scholarship fund maintained by the Club. A group of thirty-five members is in the field with tickets for everybody in town. Mr. Craven, the author, has shown his interest by a humorous letter to the chairman in which he says his play has been instrumental in raising funds for everything from redecorating a Methodist Church down South to helping equip a fire department in some town in Ohio. "I know of no better use it has been put to" he says, "than the cause to which you have subscribed yourselves. It would be terrible if the lucky scholar advanced to the position of a Professor Baker and, in after years, turned and ripped the manuscript that fed him! I hope this will never happen but rather that she will in after years think as kindly of 'The First Year' as I do now. A big success to you!"

Won't everyone help make it a "big success" by asking Mrs. Norman Southworth, 63 Otis street, or Mrs. Edwin T. Campbell, 20 Beaumont avenue, to send you a ticket.

The Education Committee of this same club, Mrs. J. Mace Andrews, Chairman, is sponsoring a lecture by Mr. Lewis MacBryne, director of safe roads, on "The Problem of the Child in a Machine-Made World," to be given in the library of the Classical High School on Monday, March 30th, at 2:30 P. M. No tickets are required and all mothers, whether club members or not, are cordially invited to attend.

Young people will probably turn out in large numbers to see their fellows featuring the work of the Newton Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday afternoon, March 25th, at 3 P. M. in the Y. M. C. A. Hall. The entertainment will be given by two groups of young people, and there is hardly anything more fascinating to them than to "play" in such a performance, and to have the plaudits of their friends and associates. We hope for their sakes and for the sakes of their friends that they will through the hall that afternoon to cheer their talented associates!

"Young People and the Y's" is the official subject of the day, and doesn't half show what a splendid program is arranged! This completes the series on young people and their problems given this winter by the Women's Auxiliary, and any young persons who are foolish enough not to "grab" this chance of an afternoon's fun deserve to lose the good time upon which they turn their backs!

ITS 25TH ANNUAL STATEMENT

The Boston Mutual Life Insurance Company in its 25th annual statement, continues to record consistent gains in all departments during the past year.

Transacting both "ordinary" and "industrial" (weekly payment) insurance, the Boston Mutual as of December 31, last, had insurance in force of over $42,000,000, an increase of nearly three million dollars over the previous years. Its income of over $2,313,000 represents an increase of nearly $225,000 over the previous year, and the reserves maintained by statute are over $6,110,000.

In addition to the reserves required by the rigid insurance laws of Massachusetts, the company carries a surplus of over half a million dollars to meet unforeseen contingencies. This surplus is its "spare anchor" in case of storm.

FIRST CHURCH ORCHESTRA

The First Church Orchestra gave a most interesting concert in Bray hall, Newton Centre, on Thursday March 19. This date was the seventh anniversary of the first concert given by this popular musical organization. Under the leadership of Mr. Ralph Maclean its progress during these years has been remarkable, and has attracted the attention and support of the music lovers of Greater Boston. Newton has in this organization an opportunity and special privilege of hearing good music acceptably played, but also of watching and supporting the development of a unique musical institution which it may call its own. The soloist for this concert was Mrs. Ralph H. McKnight, one of Newton's favorite contraltos. The program included: Overture "Der Freischütz"; (1) Andante quasi larghetto; (2) March from Symphony Lenore *5 Op 177; Introduction to act 3 of "Lohengrin"; (1) Czardas, (2) Mazurka from Ballet "Russe"; Waltz "Blue Danube." There was a large and enthusiastic audience.

TERMS, $3.00 A YEAR

SPECIAL SESSION OF ALDERMEN

Grant Petition for 150-car Garage in Newtonville. Appropriate $730,000 for New High School

The board of aldermen held a special meeting Monday night at which two important matters were discussed. The first, the petition of the Central Garage for a 150-car garage in the rear of Claffin and Central blocks on Washington street, attracted considerable interest from over a hundred Newtonville residents, who were about evenly divided upon the question. After the hearing the committee on Franchises and Licenses held a meeting and reported favorable action by a majority vote of 4 to 3. Considerable discussion was held on the matter by various members of the board and in the end the petition was granted in spite of the dissenting vote of two of the Newtonville members of the board, by a standing vote. While no roll call was taken, Aldermen Walton, O'Connell, Leahy, Gallagher, and Heathcote voted against the petition and Aldermen Ball, Baker, Bliss, Collins, Crosby, Earle, Fitts, Gordon, Hinchley, Lloyd, Madden, Parker, George W. Pratt, Norman F. Pratt voted in favor of the petition. Alderman Weeks was absent. President White presided.

The other matter of importance was the communication from the Mayor recommending that $730,000 be provided for the building of the new central high school in Newtonville. The sum of $600,000 to be raised by a bond issue of 10 year bonds and $130,000 to be raised by revenue. Alderman Fitts said that the lack of school facilities had been under consideration for some time by three members of the board and three members from the School Committee, and that they had concluded that the most pressing needs were for a new central high school. Competent architects have been employed and plans had been drawn. The school was to have classrooms, administrative facilities, assembly hall, a cafeteria, and a gymnasium. Haven and Hoyt were the architects and they had had the advice of other competent experts on the various items. Bids were asked and had been rejected as too high. This necessitated a careful study of the project and economies had been introduced where feasible. These economies, Mr. Fitts stated, would not change the facilities nor the appearance of the building. New bids were then asked and $100,000 cut from the cost. To complete the school $823,000 would be necessary but $93,000 could be held over until next year. This amount represents contracts for auditorium seats, window-shades, electrical fixtures, and some of the wiring which would not be reached until next year. The select committee was gratified at the way the matter had been handled by all and felt that they had secured a fair contract for the work to be done. The fall of 1926 will see the school in use and Mr. Fitts said the relief would be appreciated by all the citizens of the city.

Alderman George W. Pratt, chairman of the finance committee, said that 10 years had been set as the time of maturity of the bonds as it is expected that the saturation point in the schools will again be reached and the city would thus find itself free from debt and new construction will not be hampered. He predicted that a new City Hall might be considered. Regarding the $130,000 to be raised by taxes Mr. Pratt surprised many by his prediction that with the present policy of the board a reduction in the 1925 taxes was possible even with the appropriation of such a large sum. The enormous building boom in Newton has increased the valuation of property in Newton to such an extent that it is felt it will more than offset the $130,000 appropriation. The $93,000 which will have to be appropriated next year to complete the school will not place an undue burden on the city as this also can be easily absorbed in the tax rate.

Orders were then passed authorizing a bond issue of $600,000 and a tax levy of $130,000. An order was passed approving the site shown on the plans and also approving the plans themselves as drawn by Haven and Hoyt.

Mayor Childs appointed Albert P. Carter as chairman of the playground commission in place of William C. Brewer, deceased, the first and only chairman of the commission who served for more than fifteen years. Confirmation of the appointment will come up at the next meeting of the board.

The Newton Centre Improvement Association sent a communication recommending the taking of land, by the city, at the corner of Boylston and

READ FUND LECTURE

The last lecture in the inspiring course on Shakespeare by Dr. Edward Howard Griggs was given on Thursday night at the Hunnewell Club. The subject of the lecture was "The Tempest."

This play, like the "Winter's Tale," is one of the so-called "Romanesque" of Shakespeare in which joy and sorrow are mingled. These do not sound the depths of life as do his great tragedies, but they emphasize certain spiritual values.

The "Winter's Tale" is a "fireside story of life" and violates all of the unities of the classic drama: "The Tempest," on the other hand, obeys the unities of Time and Place. The latter was probably written about 1612 to celebrate a marriage at court.

There is very little action in the play. The scene is laid on an island—"the island of our dreams."

The speaker drew an interesting comparison between this play and "Hamlet." Prospero and Hamlet are both men of thought. Both have been injured by people whom they trusted. For Hamlet there is nothing possible but revenge. Prospero, on the other hand, has his daughter, Miranda, to consider. For twelve years she has been a potent factor in his life. She has transformed him from a man of thought to a man of action. He is Shakespeare's most perfectly balanced character.

This play is the more remarkable because the Elizabethan age was not especially interested in children. "Childhood," said Dr. Griggs, "was regarded as a period to be gotten over as soon as possible; children were to be seen and not heard, and seen as little as possible."

Shakespeare's creed as shown in this play is that Success does not depend upon good or bad Luck, but upon Wisdom to see Opportunity when it comes, and the Will to seize upon that Opportunity.

The opportunity to revenge himself upon his enemies comes to Prospero; they are helpless upon his island. He sees this, but instead of avenging himself and his past injuries, he is magnanimous, not only forgiving his enemies but being willing to forget what they have done. To Dr. Griggs' mind, true forgiveness consists in forgetting the past completely.

Caliban and Ariel are symbolic figures, the former representing a degenerate character who has fallen, morally, and the latter, one who has

RESOLUTION PASSED

A resolution referring the Community Chest plan to the consideration of the social welfare organizations of Newton was adopted at the annual meeting of the Newton Central Council which was held at the Newton Club, Newtonville, on Thursday evening, March 19.

The resolution, which was passed following the presentation of the report of the Community Chest Study Committee by Grosvenor Calkins, the Chairman of the Committee, was as follows:

Be it resolved:

1. That the Newton Central Council transmit to its member-organizations the Report of the Community Chest Study Committee.

2. That the Council urges that this Report be carefully studied by the members of the governing boards and staffs of those Council member-organizations which raise money from voluntary contributions.

3. That the Council urges that the governing board or executive committee of every such organization meet before April 15, 1925, if possible, and express itself formally in regard to the following question: "Is this organization generally favorable to participation in a Community Chest, provided that the specific plan of organization proposed for such a Community Chest should prove acceptable to this agency?"

4. That the Council suggests that if an agency answers the foregoing question in the affirmative, the agency should appoint two representatives to meet with representatives of other agencies and to take whatever further action may seem desirable.

5. That the Council expresses its deep appreciation of the service performed by the members of the Community Chest Study Committee in making their study and preparing their report; and that the Council expresses the hope that the members of the Community Chest Study Committee may be willing to hold themselves available for consultation with individual agencies during the period of their consideration of the Report.

Council Officers Elected

The annual business meeting of the Newton Central Council was held following a dinner served at the Newton Club at 6.15. President George M. Angier presided, and reports were received from Leon B. Rogers, Treasurer.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

State House, Boston — One of the most interesting pieces of legislation this year — at least one to attract widest attention — was the bill passed to be engrossed by the House Wednesday providing that for second and subsequent offences a person convicted for driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor shall be sentenced to serve a jail sentence.

There has been some criticism of the attack on the courts made by Registrar of Motor Vehicles, Frank A. Goodwin. However, Public opinion seems largely behind him in his attempt to have drunken drivers punished. On the rollcall last Wednesday Representatives Hollis, Luitwieler and Saltonstall voted in favor of the bill, as was to be expected.

There is said to be some doubt as to the attitude of the Senate on this measure. Great pressure has been brought upon those Senators who have previously expressed themselves as of the opinion that Mr. Goodwin has already too much power.

The House amended the bill in its last stages so that there are no loop holes. A judge will find he has no alternative on the second and subsequent offences but to send the convicted person to jail. All possible doubt was dispelled by the wording of an amendment proposed by the Bills on the Committee on Third Reading and which the House adopted.

Although the vote in favor of passing the bill to be engrossed was overwhelming in the House there was a rollcall. This, it is suspected, was sought by the Republicans in order to put on record those Democrats who had talked against the bill. The Republican party, at least as far as the House is concerned, is not open to criticism. The members can "point with pride" to the fact that they supported Mr. Goodwin.

This attitude, it is believed will also influence the Senate. The members of that body have received many letters urging them to stand back of Mr. Goodwin. Therefore, it is believed that the Republicans in the Senate who may privately oppose the bill will "go through" more because of the insistence of the public than from choice.

Representative Luitwieler did his best to convince the Committee on Joint Judiciary to report his bill which would make it mandatory upon State Registrar of Motor Vehicles to revoke the license of an automobile operator for one year upon conviction of the operator of a felony in which the automobile was used.

The committee reported "leave to withdraw" and apparently that ends the matter for this year. The fact that the committee's report was unfavorable is not a reflection on the bill. Many a good measure is turned down because the committee believes that it would be unlikely to pass and

Get Your Letter in Now. Thirteen Prizes Don't Be Superstitious. The Contest is Half Over

It costs you nothing to try! Nobody ever wins anything in this world unless they spend some time trying to win it. Here is a chance to partake in the distribution of cash prizes which requires only the effort of taking a look around the town. As you walk down the street observe the homes that you pass. Study them for the lack of something that might aid the occupants.

Look around your own home or perhaps your friends' home and pick out something that you or they can do to make life sunnier. Put your idea on paper for the benefit of readers of the Graphic. Attach it to a coupon clipped from this paper and mail it at once to the contest editor.

Valuable suggestions are coming in to the Contest Editor, but there are a host of things that have not yet been touched on. Your idea may be just the one that will carry off the first prize of $20. Even if it does not warrant first place there are twelve other prizes in which it may share.

Did you ever think what an important place dress takes in the home? Perhaps you have and perhaps you haven't but as a matter of truth it can play a leading role in the happiness of home life. Through the knowledge of proper dress a housewife may look neater and dress better at all times of the day or evening, either while doing her housework or in attending social functions. Particularly is this true of the economic phase of purchasing materials and in making garments.

The Home Beautiful and Building Trades Exposition from April 25 to May 2 plans to go into the matter of dress in the home. Through the cooperation of The Shepard Stores and Butterick Pattern, General Manager Chester I. Campbell has announced what will be known as a Fashion Fabric Style show on the stage in Grand Hall.

This style show will be featured by 20 beautiful models on a big runway. The models will be attired in garments made from Butterick patterns and will show the correct dress to be worn for every occasion during the day. House dresses, afternoon dresses, evening dresses will be displayed in a variety of patterns. The most important feature of this style show will be to teach the housewife how to get the same results at a minimum of expense.

In addition to the Style Show itself, which will be complete in every detail there will be lectures by experts on "Dress." Any part of this educational program will be of the utmost interest to the thousands of housewives who will attend the Exposition. It represents a new effort on the part of General Manager Chester I. Campbell to make the Home Beautiful and Building Trades Exposition cover every conceivable phase of home life in an instructive and entertaining way. The cooperation of The Shepard Stores guarantees the Fashion Fabric Style Show of success.

DOLLAR DAY SATURDAY

Saturday will be Dollar Day at Newton Corner. For several weeks the merchants of that section, numbering a hundred or more, have been planning and preparing for the event and have entered into the spirit of the occasion in a way that promises to be reflected in a multitude of ways that will benefit the buying public.

The cooperation and support of the public seems assured. If one may judge from the expressions of interest that are heard on every hand, while the large and energetic Dollar Day committee is confident that a favorable break in weather conditions is all that is now needed to make this the greatest merchandising event ever held in Newton. Even should the weather be unfavorable, it is believed the array of bargains and special Dollar Day features is such as to insure success anyway and to make it well worth the while of all Newton people to do at least their week-end shopping this week in the immediate vicinity of Nonantum Square.

Newton Corner is fairly ablaze with special Dollar Day advertising features, including hundreds of special Dollar Day pennants, circulars, and special publicity matter, the latter including two huge canvas banners stretched across two of the entrances to Nonantum Square. Attention is now respectfully directed to the special Dollar Day sections of the Newton Graphic and the Newton Progress, that those who are interested in the event may note the detailed individual announcements of a majority of the participating merchants.

All initial expectations of the committee are being exceeded in the variety and attractiveness of the offerings of the individual merchants. Many of these are displaying an array of special Dollar Day bargains that will compare favorably with those of other cities where Dollar Days are a long established institution. The enthusiasm of Newton Corner merchants for their initial Dollar Day, with their desire to contribute in every possible way to its success, has resulted in announcements that are worthy of the careful attention of every thrifty citizen.

Those who are quick to take advantage of every opportunity to make a dollar go farther than ever before may safely anticipate a busy day in the necessary process of elimination from hundreds of Dollar Day "Specials" that have been arranged for their consideration. The task of spending a few dollars to the best possible advantage promises to be anything but an easy one, so many are the available opportunities to purchase standard merchandise of every conceivable type at a figure away below the regular price. Reductions ranging from ten to fifty per cent, or even more, will be in order Saturday throughout Newton Corner, wherever the prospective shopper may turn in his, or her quest for Dollar Day opportunities.

The public is cordially invited, and urged, to shop as early in the day as convenient. It is not unlikely that some of the advertised "specials" may not last through the day, while the best selections will in many instances be cleared out long before the close of the day. Any disappointment of this type may be compensated for, however, through the long list of "specials" which are announced for the entire day. For these the respective stores have an ample supply on hand in anticipation of a demand that will continue until the requirements of all customers have been satisfactorily met. Many special purchases have been made for the event. Manufacturers, wholesalers, and jobbers, have cooperated with the local stores in preparing for the event, with a prospective benefit to all that is expected to not only insure the success of the initial Dollar Day, but to justify even more elaborate plans for other Dollar Days in the months to come.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY WHIST

Considerable interest is being taken in the whist to be held Tuesday evening, March 31st, in Village Hall, West Newton, by the members of Newton Post No. 48, American Legion Auxiliary and their friends.

Mrs. George Hennrikus is Chairman of the committee in charge of the party, assisted by Mrs. Frank L. Wilcox, Mrs. Joseph Cavanaugh, Mrs. Alfred Reichert, Miss Mary Curley, Mrs. C. Harold Pollock, Miss Caroline Siebert, Miss Kathleen Matthews, Mrs. Leo Taffe, Miss Lillian Matthews, Miss Esther Barry, Mrs. Charles Mullen, Mrs. Arthur McCarthy and Miss Anna Curley.

Many excellent prizes will be offered and refreshments will be served after the whist.

RED CROSS TORNADO RELIEF

A telegram from the National Headquarters of the American Red Cross to George M. Angler, Chairman of the Newton Chapter, urges that all possible publicity be given to the fact that the Red Cross is actively at work rendering relief to the middle western area devastated by the recent tornado. The Newton Chapter will be glad to receive and forward promptly contributions made by Newton citizens for this purpose. Contributions should be marked "tornado relief" and should be sent to Mr. John W. Estabrook, Treasurer, Newton Chapter, American Red Cross, 12 Austin street, Newtonville (Telephone, Newton North 2717).

Y. M. C. A.

Last Monday evening Mr. Hugo B. Seikel was the speaker at the Fellowship Club at the Newton Y. M. C. A. His subject was "Some Things that are Being Done for Young and Old in the Lines of Recreation." The speaker on March 30th will be Dr. Laurens MacLure, rector of Grace Church, Newton.

The interest in the building of squash courts at the Association is increasing. Ten members have pledged $1325.00 toward the $6,000 necessary to build the courts. These courts can be used for both handball and squash and so all lovers of handball and squash are invited to help us secure this additional equipment.

The Secretary, H. W. Bascom, received a postal card from Mr. Joseph B. Jamieson from Constantinople picturing the Y. M. C. A. building at Roberts College. Truly the Y. M. C. A. is a world-wide organization.

Plans for the annual exhibition to be held Thursday, April 16th, at 8 P. M. at the local Y. M. C. A. are progressing favorably. A tentative program as now arranged will include the following numbers:

1. Grand March (All participants)
2. Prep Class Demonstration (Drill, relay, games)
3. "Before and After" (Junior Leaders)
4. John Phillip Snouzers Band
5. Wand Drill (Junior Class)
6. Basket Ball on Wheels (Senior Class)
7. Gym Team (Boston Y. M. C. U.)
8. Junior Leaders ("On Their High Horses")
9. Elephantitis (High School Boys)
10. Wrestling (Carlson and Maguire)
11. Presenting of Emblems (By F. D. Fuller or the Mayor)
12. Lord Nose and his Valet "Insect"
13. Station S. A. P. on the Air

The boys are in constant preparation for the event and the feature events by the older groups are well prepared.

Of particular interest to those who find gymnastics an interesting number will be the performance of the gym team from the Boston Y. M. C. U. These men are specially groomed for exhibition work and have a splendid program to offer.

To those who are interested in the novelty even the basketball game on wheels should be highly amusing. For the friends and parents of the boys in all classes, drills, demonstrations, apparatus work, and games should keep them well entertained. The various numbers on the program will be interspersed by antics of the clowns in various efforts on pantomime and humor. Another interesting feature of the program will be a short wrestling exhibition by Carlson and Maguire. These men are exceptionally good in their line and for those interested in this phase of physical activity they can be assured of a scientific exhibition.

HUNNEWELL CLUB

One of the most interesting concerts of the season was held at the Hunnewell Club last Sunday afternoon with Monsieur F. Motte-Lacroix as pianist, and Mr. Joseph Lautner, tenor soloist.

Mr. Lautner's selections were of great variety and range. "Goin' Home" illustrated the tenderness and sweetness of his tones, while "The Old Refrain" showed his power and skill. Mrs. Lautner proved herself a skillful and sympathetic accompanist.

Mr. Lacroix's playing was marked by great delicacy of touch, and masterly technique. In the Chopin selections he brought out the singing quality of the composer and his pianissimo effects were particularly fine.

The "Catalonian Sketches" were full of local color, and unusual harmonies. At the tea following the concert the hostesses were Mrs. Stirling Loveland, Mrs. MacLure, Mrs. Wallace M. Leonard, Jr., and Mrs. Paul Jones.

SCHOOL NOTES

High School

A $300 scholarship, to be awarded annually, has recently been offered by the Dalhousie Lodge of Masons to a Newton High School boy who wishes to obtain a higher education, and who needs financial assistance. The letter stated that "the boy shall be selected not alone for his high standing as a student but for his initiative, perseverance, leadership, health and a general recommendation for a high standing by his teachers and classmates. His choice of a college shall not be limited."

The faculty dinner will be held at the Newton Club next Tuesday. The principal speaker will be James P.
Munroe, president of the Twentieth Century Club and secretary of the corporation of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His subject will be,
"What is to be done with the older generation?" William T. Foster, member of the school board, will be a guest. The committee in charge of the dinner consists of George W.
Brainerd, principal of the Claffin School and president of the men's faculty club, George W. Dawson, who is vice-president, and Raymond A.
Green, secretary and treasurer.

Elliot B. Church of the School Board will speak.

Newton's varsity basketball team defeated the Lasell team, 33-19, Thursday at Lasell in a fast peppy game.
Excellent teamwork was shown by both sides.

Chamberlain, Lasell's snappy forward, began scoring at the very start of the game. However, Newton's sextette put up a good fight and at the close of the first half the score stood 21-11 in favor of Newton.

In the second period the ball was constantly traveling from one territory to the other. Bryant made goal after goal, and when the final whistle blew Newton was still leading 33-19.

The freshmen were defeated in basketball by Cambridge 22-6 Friday.
Newton is accustomed to six players and found it difficult to play with a team of nine, Cambridge's regular number, and could not hold its opponents in the first half.

The Cambridge Latin swimming team fell before the onslaught of the Newton swimmers Wednesday afternoon at the Newton "Y" pool by the close score of 29-21. This was the second meet between the two schools and Newton just barely won out in the first meet by three points.

Caroline Cummings, '23, is on the Vassar debating team, which is a member of the Eastern Intercollegiate League.

Miss Cummings is making her mark as Vassar as she did while at Newton High. Though only a sophomore, she represents her college in one of the best debating leagues in this country.
While at Newton, Miss Cummings was one of the leaders of her class.
She was class vice-president in 1920,
a member of the Student Council, 1920-23, on the class hockey team in 1921, vice-president of the English Club in 1922, and vice-president of the Debating Club in 1922. She was on the Review Staff, 1922, on the Newton Literary Staff, 1923, and historian of her class. In the senior play, "Lady Coquetry," written by Director Bacon, she played the title role of Lady Elizabeth Carlyon.

William Merritt, '25, is playing the leading role in "The Bean Town Choir," a comedy directed by Miss Sallie Hall, to be presented at Players' Hall, West Newton, April 23.

F. A. Day Junior High School

a delightful program for a large audience. The third of the series will take place Tuesday, March 31. The subject is "The Development of Music from Ancient Style to Present Day Form." Works from Corelli, Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Wagner, Debussy and Stravinsky will be included.

This week's Assembly was a program given jointly under the auspices of the Non-Readers and French Clubs.
The former presented the first scene of "Little Women" very commendably.
The latter sponsored a film entitled "Playgrounds in Sunny France" and
"Apple Blossom Time in Normandy."
Those who took part in the program were: Bessie Sherman, Wilhelmina Bosworth, Esther Melman, Jeannette
Cain, Winifred Shorton, Marjory Leonard, and Elva Bachman, president of the French Club.

Miss Tracy, who landed in Boston Sunday after an extended trip throughout Europe was a welcomed visitor at school this week.

Eight of last year's girls have challenged the members of the faculty to a basketball game in the near future.
Evidence of the success of our health campaign with special individual work, is apparent in a comparatively small absence list despite prevalent illness in the community.

Mason School

The girls of the eighth grade are looking forward to playing a series of captain ball games with other eighth grades of the city. Mrs. Kuntz has been asked to give us some rules which will govern all the teams.

A short, snappy, and very interesting film was given to the upper grades by the Hood Milk Company this week, setting forth the advantages of having milk as a part of the daily menu.
It surely works wonders in the case of the undernourished child.

The boys of the seventh and eighth grades met the Bigelows at Burr Playground Tuesday afternoon and won out, 29 to 4. This was not a league game.

CHORAL SOCIETY CONCERT

The concert to be given by the Newton Choral Society Thursday evening, April 2, at 8 o'clock, at Central church, Newtonville, will conclude the society's sixth season.

This society won the support of the music lovers of Newton, so that it has paid its own way without outside assistance, and it has also been able to produce a highly artistic result without paying anything to any chorus singers. Its success is due to the musical genius and the enthusiasm of its leader, Mr. William Lester Bates, and to the loyal interest and hard work which have been given by the officers and members.

The concert of next Thursday will be a very fine performance. The program consists of "Phaenomenon" by Villiers-Stanford; "Gallia" by Gounod and "Psalm 150" by Franck.

A brilliant addition will be made to the program by the solo work to be done by Walter H. Kidder, baritone, of Eliot church, Newton, and Marion Kingsbury, soprano, of the Second church, West Newton. These two singers are among the finest soloists of the Boston district, and their many admirers will be greatly pleased to hear them.

slavery of the washtub with its backache, its dirt, its steam and its smell.

SPECIAL SESSION

Parker streets so that this corner may be widened and the view made clear. They also asked the city to pay for the 4th of July celebration held each year on the Newton Centre playground. Another of the Association's recommendations was that Commonwealth avenue be made a two way street from Lake street to Weston bridge, using both sides of the street for reservation instead of just the south side. A recommendation that the Planning Board and the Survey Board be combined and the joint board be composed of seven members was received by the board from the Mayor. The city engineer and the street commissioner to be the two additional members. A communication from the Newton Central Council asking that Edmonds Park be developed by the playground department was received. A protest upon the erection of the private garage at 905 Commonwealth avenue was received from Leo S. Hamburger. All of these communications were referred to the proper committees and will be acted upon at a later meeting. The board adjourned at 11:30 P. M.

HIGHLAND GLEE CLUB

The Highland Glee Club of Newton rendered its forty-fourth concert, and rounded out its seventeenth season on Tuesday evening at Bray Hall, Newton Centre—a record of no mean consequence and bespeaking well of the excellent guidance, and loyal support of the citizens of the community—This year's great success is due largely to the untiring efforts of the officers of the Club headed by George H. Wright, and the remarkable directorship of Ralph MacLean.

The singing reached altitudes rarely touched by the average male glee club. This was especially marked in the rendering of the "Pilot" by Daniel Petheroe with its incidental solo by Mr. Schutcher and the "Dreaming Lake" by Robert Schumann. These two gems were marvelously handled by Mr. MacLean. The 55 voices blended so harmoniously that the audience easily envisioned the picture presented. The numbers had to be repeated because of the enthusiasm of the audience. Mr. George Chadwick's "How Night Shadows" was another gem very much admired—in fact there was not a dull number in the program.

Miss Marjorie Posselt a very promising violinist and her sister Gladys at the piano did an effective bit of work.

DEATH OF MR. KLAGE

Mr. Henry F. Klage, prominent in Masonic and automobile circles, died on Tuesday at his home, 31 Halcyn road, Newton Centre.

He was born in England and came to this country with his parents at the age of three. For many years he lived in Winthrop, moving to Newton only a few months ago. He attended Harvard and then entered the wholesale coffee business. Later he was associated with Gov. Alvan T. Fuller in the local Packard plant and 12 years ago became connected with the Mack truck agency in Boston.

He was a 32nd degree Mason, a member of Winthrop lodge, St. John's Royal Arch Chapter, a past commander of William Parkman commandery, and a past patron of Mystic chapter, O. E. S. He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Nellie F. Malloves.

Services were held this morning at Masonic Temple, East Boston.

—Mrs. Ware of Brookline conducted the Story Hour at the Library last Saturday for over a hundred eager listeners.

—Rev. Dr. Noyes of Newton Centre assisted by a vested choir of boys and girls held a very enjoyable service at the Stone Institute last Sunday afternoon.

—Mrs. J. E. Merick, formerly Miss Dorothy Wildman of this village, took part recently in a play given at the Newton Centre Methodist Church.

—A large number of people enjoyed the Fanny Crosby memorial service last Sunday night. The young people had charge, and the entire service was helpful and impressive.

—The many friends of Miss Clara E. Frost, formerly matron of the Stone Institute and Newton Home for Aged People, will be glad to learn that she will return and resume her duties there on or before June 1st.

—Mrs. Ernest Cobb had a table of her own books—"The Arlo stories" at the Educational Bazaar of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters which was held at Horticultural Hall last week Friday and Saturday. Not only is Mrs. Cobb, and her husband, Mr. Cobb, author of these books, but they have the unusual distinction of being the publishers of them.

not because it is not meritorious. If the legislature passed only the meritorious bills and rejected only those that were not the system would be much simpler and much better for the State.

It is not known what the committee had in mind when it voted unfavorably on Representative Luitwieler's bill but it is not a wild guess to say that its members felt that there was other more important automobile legislation to be put through and that too much automobile legislation might upset matters and cause all these bills to be rejected by the General Court.

Mr. Luitwieler made a clear presentation and was supported in his views by a number of prominent men. Ex-Mayor Charles E. Hatfield went before the House Ways and Means Committee Wednesday to urge the passage of his bill for an appropriation of $3,000,000 for further enforcement of the State liquor laws. It is not believed that the bill has the slightest chance of going through the Legislature, however.

In his address to the committee Mr. Hatfield said: "I don't know how the Governor feels on this question. I have no animosity toward him because I was interested in another man who ran against him for the Republican nomination for Governor. When Gov. Fuller received the nomination I worked as hard for him and the rest of the ticket as I ever did in my life. I want it understood that I am a Republican, first, last and all the time. I can always take my licking in the primaries and stand up with a smile and help elect the other fellow and I did so in this case."

Representative Whidden remarked that the trouble with the boys and girls of today is due to the lack of responsibility on the part of parents. "Do you lay that to the Volstead Act?" he asked. "To some extent, yes," said Mr. Hatfield.

In speaking of cases that have come to his knowledge while an official of Middlesex county, Mr. Hatfield said, "One woman came to me and told me that her daughter told her she could not go to a certain party because she was 'out of it.' The mother asked her what she meant by that. She said, 'Mother you brought me up so that I don't smoke or drink and I cannot go to that party because all the girls do these things.' That is the situation we have got to deal with," Mr. Hatfield said.

Representative Slater Washburn of Worcester asked, "Don't you agree that until you can stimulate enough widespread feeling of respect for the act on the part of the people that this money will be wasted? Isn't it a question of the frame of mind of the people?"

"Well," said Mr. Hatfield, "the people don't believe that you mean what you said, that's why they have no respect for it. Too many people vote 'No' and drink 'Yes'."

Representative Washburn asked, "What do you mean? The people in my district know that I mean what I said when I voted on this measure."

"I don't question that," said Mr. Hatfield. "But I have occasion to watch the effect of this law enforcement on the people, and I see what a farce it is. There are some people who can educate—that's true, but there are others that you have got to go after—that's the only way to handle them. I see a bootlegger come into court and he is fined $100. He will reach down into one pocket and pull out a roll of bills and if that isn't enough, he will reach into the other pocket and peel off the money, and slip down the line and go on laughing. Do you suppose you have educated him? Of course not. But if you get that man a second or third time and put him away for a while where he can think it over perhaps you will accomplish something with him."

Senator Rice of Newton asked what the speaker thought of the attitude of the courts in the enforcement of law. "The courts are doing the best they can," said Mr. Hatfield.

Representative Shattuck asked, "Suppose you give the cities this money and they are not inclined to go out and enforce the law. The spending of the money won't accomplish anything, will it?" "Oh they will do something all right," said Mr. Hatfield. "I have had one police chief after another tell me how helpless he was because the city wouldn't put up the money."

"But the police may be interested in other things," remarked Mr. Shattuck.

Mr. Hatfield said that he noticed that most of the trouble in the courts is with young men from 19 to 25 years. "This crazy booze they get now," he said affects them differently than other kind of drink they had in the mellow and moister days."

William M. Forgrave, representing the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League in opposition to the Hatfield bill, said that the number of persons who believe in prohibition is on the increase. "This was shown in the election last November," he said, "and it was evidenced in Middlesex county."

The speaker was questioned by several members of the committee in relation to the manner in which the prohibition laws is disregarded.

Mr. Forgrave in answer, declared "there are a half a dozen other, equally prominent, which are not enforced; notably the automobile laws." He suggested that if the legislature were consistent it would appropriate money for the enforcement of the other statutes, as well as the prohibition one.

House Chairman Henry L. Shattuck said he doubted if a law could be enforced by the enactment of statutes if the people did not believe in it. "Half of the people are against prohibition, aren't they?" he asked. Forgrave doubted whether the number is as high as set by Shattuck. "The sentiment for the law is stronger than most people are aware," he said.

Representative Hollis has had an unusually busy time the past few weeks as chairman of the committee on insurance. This committee has had before it the so-called reciprocal insurance bill and hearings have been held every day for two weeks or more. Mr. Hollis is clerk of the committee which under such circumstances is a most exacting job.

Newton is fortunate in the type of Representatives it has in the Legislature. They are men who accept the responsibility of their posts and seek to discharge their duties faithfully. Newton's legislators are not seekers for the limelight, however. They are constant in their attendance at the sessions and while not disposed to thrust themselves into the debates that offer publicity-chasers plenty of opportunity they pay strict attention. It may be that voters in this district may not always agree with them but will have to admit that the members of the General Court from Newton are on the job.

The committee on Election Laws reported "next annual session" on three bills which would have changed the method of election members to State committees of political parties. One was filed by Mrs. Anna C. Bird, and another by J. C. Brimblecom of Newton, which would have doubled the membership of these committees, but would have left men and women on the same basis as to securing collection. The other filed by Sadie Lipner Shulman, would also have doubled the membership but provided that 40 of the members be women, and 40 be men. On the Bird bill, Senator Hugh A. Clegg, of Methuen, chairman of the committee, and Rep. Lewis H. Peters, of Medford, House chairman, dissent. On the Shulman bill, Senator John A. Haisig, of Greenfield, and Senator John B. Cashman, of Boston, dissent. On the Brimblecom bill Rep. Peters dissents.

Francis W. Sprague 2d, clerk of the District Court in Newton spoke at the State House Monday before the legislative Committee on Counties in favor of the bill providing for the appointment of an assistant clerk in the court at Newton.

He said that in five years from 1919 to 1924 the number of civil cases has increased 200% the number of criminal cases about 300%. In addition a small claims court has been established.

Continuing Clerk Sprague said the establishing of this new position as provided for in this bill, would only mean an added expense of $355 yearly to the county, for the appointment would be given to a young lady at the court who now receives a yearly salary of $1500. The salary of an assistant clerk by law is $1355, or three-fourths of the salary of the clerk.

All the adverse reports of the Committee on Election Laws, described in the paragraph above, were accepted by the Senate yesterday afternoon without division or debate.

The bill of Ex-Mayor Hatfield, described above, was given a "withdraw" by the Committee on Ways and Means in a report filed yesterday afternoon.

On the bill to repeal that section of the civil service law giving veterans the right of appeal to municipal authorities in removal cases Representatives Hollis, Luitwieler and Saltonstall voted for the measure.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

er, Arthur Dunham, Executive Secretary, and James A. Stafford, Chairman of the Nominating Committee. The general officers were elected by the whole Council and individual officers were elected by the four divisions of the Council which assembled separately for brief meetings at the close of the general session.

The officers elected for the year ending March 1926, were as follows: Officers: President, Mr. Leon M. Rogers; Vice-President, Mrs. S. Hardy Mitchell; Secretary, Mr. H. W. Bascom; Treasurer, Mr. George M. Angier. Elective Members of Executive Committee: Mr. George J. Martin, Mr. James Kingman, Mrs. Albert G. Hopkins. Divisional Officers: Civic—Chairman, Mr. Rupert C. Thompson; Secretary, Mr. William E. Coan; Community—Chairman, Mr. Ralph C. Henry; Secretary, Miss Caroline Peirce; Welfare—Chairman, Mrs. Irving O. Palmer; Secretary, Mrs. Carrie A. Hull; Health—Chairman, Prof. Murray P. Horwood; Secretary, Miss Elizabeth Ross. Nominating Committee for 1926: Mr. Horace W. Orr, Chairman, Mr. Elliott B. Church, Mrs. Joseph N. Lovell, Dr. Fred M. Lowe, Mrs. Bertrand E. Taylor.

About a hundred and twenty-five people attended the open meeting of the Council which was held at eight o'clock for the purpose of receiving the report of the Community Chest Study Committee, appointed last December by the Council.

After the report was presented by Mr. Calkins, Chairman of the Committee, and the resolution was adopted referring it to the welfare agencies for their consideration, the remainder of the meeting was devoted to questions and discussion from the floor. The discussion period was led by Allen T. Burns of New York, one of the leading social workers of the country, who as Director of the National Information Bureau and Treasurer of the American Association for Community Organization, has probably as wide a knowledge of Community Chest theory and experience as any person in the country.

Mr. Burns' attitude toward the question of financial federation was a judicial one, and in his answers to questions he stressed the dangers and problems of the Community Chest as well as its advantages. He was at great pains to make clear that he did not in any sense urge or advise Newton to establish a Chest. "It isn't that kind of a thing," said Mr. Burns; "no outsider can tell you whether or not you ought to have a Chest. That is a community decision."

A number of questions had been received in writing, in advance of the meeting, and these were first taken up by Mr. Burns. Afterwards there were other questions and some remarks from the floor. A summary of the questions and answers will be printed in the Graphic next week.

not yet developed morally. Both are obedient to Prospero, the man who is master of himself.

The speaker dwelt upon the charm of the love scene between Miranda and Ferdinand. Miranda is a child of nature, utterly unspoiled and innocent, and full of the natural faith of youth in mankind. This faith is hard to keep as one grows older.

Dr. Griggs identified Shakespeare himself with Prospero who at the end of the play gives up his magic power. After writing this play, Shakespeare returned to Stratford and wrote no more.

One of the most beautiful passages in the play reads: "We are such stuff as dreams are made of, and all our life is rounded by a sleep."

In conclusion, the speaker impressed it upon his hearers that Life with all its pain and joy was infinitely worth while.

Newton people will be glad to know that Dr. Griggs is to come to Newton again next year.

Members of the chapter are working hard to establish a Charity Fund to further enlarge their benevolence. On an entertainment to be given on June 4th, a cedar chest, food chest, and kitchen chest will be awarded to three fortunate people who are among those donating to this fund.

MUSICAL CLUBS CONCERT

The appearance of the Bowdoin College Musical Clubs at Temple Hall, Newtonville, on next Tuesday evening at eight o'clock bids fair to be one of the outstanding musical events of the season. The club has toured New England and New York state and has gained an enviable reputation for itself. The program will consist of glee club choruses, vocal solos, and instrumental music by the club orchestra. Dancing will follow the entertainment. The affair is under the auspices of the Drill Corps of Gethsemane Commandery and will be well worth your support.

GIRL SCOUTS

The Girl Scouts of Troop VII, the Newton Upper Falls Troop, gave two plays on Tuesday evening of this week in Emerson Hall. The first play, "Why the Rubbish" was given by the younger girls in the troop. It was an attractive little play and was exceedingly well done. Those who took part in it were Margaret Doyle, Priscilla Sawyer, Eleanor Vara, Mary Herlihy, Eleanor Murphy, Ruth Peligman, Isabel Doyle, Esther Batey, Alice Chilson, Lucy Batey, Edith Wood, Alice Crowley, Lillian Dean and Clara Vara.

The second play, "Corney Turns the Trick" a comedy in three acts, was played by the older Scouts. This was a more pretentious play and the girls who took part in it entered into the spirit of the play and depicted the characters so well that the audience enjoyed it very much. Those taking part were Margaret Osborne, Ellen Kennefick, Katherine Murphy, Dorothy Wright, Marie McLaughlin, Julia Azerski, Esther Temperley, Elizabeth Meara, Marcia Myers, Margaret McLaughlin and "The Cat." The play was coached by Mrs. Francis Parsons, Miss Osborne and Miss Elizabeth Carter, the latter a Lieutenant in the Troop, and much of the success of the play was due to their interest and helpfulness.

Miss Doris Lovell, Captain of the Troop had charge of the entertainment and with the help of Lieutenant Colby coached the first play. The tickets were in charge of Lieutenant Davies, Lieutenant Gould had charge of the ushers and Lieutenants Holmes and Fairbrother took charge of the candy sale.

The Newton Girl Scout Bugle and Drum Corps added much to the enjoyment of the audience. The Corps played twice and solos were played by the sergeant drummer, Lishbeth Leighton of Troop V, and the sergeant bugler, Elizabeth Plimpton of Troop III Seniors.

Five new Merit Badge Clubs have been started in Troop V the West Newton Troop. Miss Mary Sprague, Captain of Troop VI and a Lieutenant in Troop V is preparing a group of girls for the Landress test. Mrs. Walton S. Redfield, Captain of the Bugle and Drum Corps has charge of a group who are working for the Pathfinder Merit Badge, and Miss Gray is making cooks out of another group. These groups are in the Junior Division of the Troop. The Senior Division is taking up two of the Merit Badge subjects. Home-maker, which is being given by Mrs. Gladys Beckett Jones, an instructor at the Garland School of Homemaking and Journalism, which is being given by Mr. Caverley, head of the English Department in the Newton High Schools.

The girls of Troop V feel that they are very fortunate in having two such splendid instructors interested in helping them prepare for the Merit Badges.

Camp May Day, the Newton Girl Scout Camp will be open on Sunday afternoons, March 28 and April. Miss Freeman will be at camp on both of these afternoons and will be glad to talk with any parents who are thinking of sending their daughter to the camp during the summer. The camp season opens on July 6 and will close September 12. Any Newton Girl Scout of good standing is eligible to the camp.

ROTARY CLUB

The Rotary Club held its regular meeting Monday. Mr. William Pratt was the speaker and addressed the members on "The Romance of Rubber."

CITY OF NEWTON — CENSUS OF 1925

To Household:

In accordance with the requirements of law, a census of the inhabitants of every city and town in the Commonwealth will be taken after March 31st, 1925.

In this city one of the Assistant Assessors will call at each building in the city, and secure the information required for the Census. He will do this when he makes his annual call for information required by the Assessors.

You are respectfully requested to assist in the making of this Census by writing on the reverse side of this slip at once the information which is required and having it ready for the Assistant Assessor when he calls after March 31st. After filling out the slip, please leave it in charge of some person who can deliver it to the Assistant Assessor in case you may not see the Assistant Assessor yourself when he makes his call.

For census purposes, the word "family" means group of persons living together in the same dwelling place. They may not be related by ties of kinship, but if living together and forming one household they should be considered as one family. Servants who sleep in the house of the householder and lodgers should be considered as members of the family. A person living alone constitutes a family and should fill out a slip.

Points to Remember

All entries on the slip should report facts as they were on March 31, 1925.

Each person must be listed where he lives or belongs, or where he regularly sleeps.

Be sure to list persons temporarily away on business, pleasure or sickness, or attending school or college.

Give age in years on last birthday before March 31, 1925. If under one year give in twelfths of year for completed months of child.

Remember this is only the preliminary slip which is distributed through the courtesy of the Police Department. Save the slip for the Assistant Assessor, but if not called for by April 20th please mail it to the City Clerk. The assistance of householders in furnishing this information will not only assure a more accurate census, but will protect certain rights of inhabitants who might not otherwise be recorded.

Very respectfully,
FRANK M. GRANT, City Clerk.

THE Most Magnificent Estate In Newton

Created by the Late Loren D. Towle

LOCATED ON CENTRE STREET

IN NEWTON'S MOST EXCLUSIVE RESIDENTIAL DISTRICT

WILL BE SUBDIVIDED INTO LARGE HOUSE LOTS

Carefully Restricted So as to Preserve Permanent Value

Only 7 Miles From the State House at Boston

The fame, beauty and magnificence of the former Loren D. Towle estate extends far beyond the confines of Newton, and even in this section, where beautiful estates are common, it is regarded as the peer of all of them.

Through the death of its former owner the property has been acquired by other interests who have decided to subdivide it into suitable house lots, properly restricted, and offer them for public sale. Streets and other necessary improvements will be started immediately, and all the experience and resources of the Edward T. Harrington Co. organization will be concentrated upon this property to develop a residential section that is worthy of this splendid estate and the City of Newton.

Nothing contributes more to the permanent value of your home than a desirable location. Two houses exactly alike may vary many thousands of dollars in value according to location.

The land comprises about 40 acres with extensive frontage on Centre and Cabot Streets. The larger portion of the land is level, with a little valley with wooded knolls in the southwesterly corner. Being situated on the edge of a plateau, extensive views of the valley of the Charles River and the hills of Weston and Waltham are obtainable from the property. The purchaser who buys a lot of land on this estate will derive all the benefits of the money already spent to bring it to its present state of perfection.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Newton Federation

Radio is certainly a wonderful invention. So it seemed Wednesday morning when from WNAC, the Shepard Stores, we heard our Federation President, Mrs. Ernest Cobb, tell of the work of our Federation, and of our committees during the past year. It would certainly be enlightening to many who do not realize the power and scope of club work to hear many such radio talks. They would awaken to what we are doing, and to what we have the ability to do in greater degree in the future, as we gain prestige, respect and co-operation from those sources where now there is ignorance, indifference, and possibly disparagement. This last is fruitless, to be sure, but must be overcome, not by educating ourselves but by educating these blind disparagers.

Recent Events

On Monday evening, the 23rd, Mrs. Ernest Cobb, her daughter Madeline, and Mrs. Saidee Tenney—all members of the Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club—played hostess to their fellow members, their escorts, and to the club President, Mrs. Francis B. Parsons, and to Mr. Parsons. The affair was a "Farm Shower" to Mr. and Mrs. Parsons who soon are to go to a most delightful old farm in Petersham, leaving behind club and other responsibilities borne while resident in Upper Falls. About fifty club members and others came with offerings to do honor to their friends and club official. Gifts with which to carry forward the pleasurable development of the new farm were of all manner of varieties, from the finest specimen of a heavy garden fork to a dainty pin cushion for the farm kitchen to save climbing of stairs at a moment of dire need—all accompanied by the cleverest of verses and witty "pomes," that made for much mirth.

Mr. Starkey, the well-known friend of all the village, since he brings to them their daily letters and papers and "ads," and charming appeals, presented a marvelous milking pail with this inscription: "Weary Willie from a Man of Letters."

A beautiful mah jong set from the brother and sisters of one of the prominent families was given as a means of enlivening farm evenings, as a recompense, (partial, of course) when far from the pleasure of a club meeting in Emerson Hall.

An original ode set to music, all about a farmer and a farmette, one written by the author-hostess of the evening, although she faintly would not confess it for modesty, to your editor, who nevertheless used her deducting powers, and this ode, made up of club members, and other attractive songs were rendered by another hostess of the evening—Miss Madeline Cobb—for the entertainment of the guests.

Ice cream and cake were served, and the happy evening ended with Miss Cobb "hitching up" the automobile to take the array of farm implements and other gifts to the home of the special guests.

At the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning, members and guests listened to an interesting talk on "The Monroe Doctrine" by Professor Raymond L. Buell of Harvard University. He first outlined the situation on the American continent in 1820, with Spain controlling Mexico and most of South and Central America. More-over, Russia, already holding Alaska, showed every intention of extending her dominion farther down the Pacific to include what is now Washington and Oregon.

The Monroe doctrine was promulgated in 1823 and its object was to stop the aggressions of Europe on this continent. The South American countries, which one after another became independent of Spain, were much in favor of it, but in recent years they have been opposed owing to the increasing intervention of the United States in their affairs. Professor Buell gave several illustrations of which the most important was the dispute with Columbia over Panama at the time of the building of the canal.

On numerous occasions the intervention of the United States has been necessary in order to prevent the Germans, French, or English from going into one of these countries to collect debts.

The Pan-American movement has tried to bring about a policy of joint intervention but without success. Nearly all the South and Central American countries have joined the League of Nations which is naturally not in favor of the Monroe Doctrine as it stands at present.

of Spring indeed—setting one's house to rights with Annual Meetings, and with outdoor interests, including hikes and garden hints. We wouldn't at all intimate that such setting in order of one's household was at all allied with Spring housecleaning, for no such deplorable condition exists in our well-organized, efficiently managed club families, but it is just the orderly routine of management and the call and lure of the outdoor world also comes into its rightful place, at this season.

Garden enthusiasts in the Newtonville Woman's Club will be out in large numbers on Tuesday afternoon, to welcome Miss Grace Tabor of New York, landscape architect and editor of the "Garden Department" of "The Woman's Home Companion." Miss Tabor's chief interest lies in bringing the house and garden into harmony and developing the home plot to high standards of beauty and utility combined. It is suggested that members bring note-books and pencils for Miss Tabor is noted for her workable ideas. Tickets for the annual luncheon are in charge of Mrs. Raymond D. Hunting, Chairman of the Social Committee, and will be on sale Friday evening when the play is to be presented, and at the regular club meeting of April 7th. They may also be obtained by sending Mrs. Hunting a check and a stamped and addressed envelope.

Two other activities of this same club: "The Problem of the Child in a Machine Made World" is the worthwhile topic to be discussed by Mr. Lewis MacBrayne, Director of Safe Roads, and the library of certain clubs whose programs are not announced in this week's columns: Monday Club and Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club, April 6th; Newtonville Woman's Club, Abundant Review, and Newton Highlands' Woman's Club, April 7th; and Newton Community Club, April 9th.

The usual meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club which falls on April 10th has been advanced a week on account of Good Friday, so that next Friday, April 3rd, is the next meeting for this club. The President, Mrs. Joseph A. McDonald, is in charge of the day, and will present the speaker, Rev. J. Edgar Park, well-known in Newton, who will have as his subject: "An Interpretation of Confé, Freud and the Modern Psychology." She has also arranged special music that will be most attractive, and for a tea to follow the program.

Y. W. C. A. BIRTHDAY PARTY

On Friday last, the Y. W. C. A. of Newton celebrated its 3d birthday.

The following is a personal account by one of the members: "We joined the groups of girls, hurrying toward the flashing sign, the lighted Y. W. C. A., in Newton Square. We saw more girls as we climbed the long stairs. Bursts of gay laughter and eager talk floated down from the room above us. As we entered Miss Martin's office, girls were crowding about eagerly buying tickets. Here and there in adjoining rooms were boys and gnomes and woodland creatures hurrying in and out. 'I thought just girls were invited to the Third Birthday of the Y. W. C. A.,' said one member. 'Those are just girls dressed up, but we are to have real boys and young men with us at our Pop Concert next Friday night! We have them too at our Saturday night dances,' said another.

"We hung our coats in an alcove near the big Gym where the girls were dancing. Miss Elsie Bennett was in the parlors running games and stunts. Bursts of fun and laughter led us to the rooms at our right. There we found a red-headed lad in white flannels, our Elsie Bennett of other days. "We formed in line for the grand march to the Gymnasium where the judges presented the prize, assisted by Miss Melba Peterson, another former Assistant Secretary. Miss Emily Kiley was the Little Triangle Girl, Florence Hopwood the raggedy boy, Mildred McVean, her sweetheart, Beulah Angell, the Mah Jong Girl, Margaret Adams, a Spanish girl, Bernice Leacy, a baby, and Triangle Girl, and Mary Gentzel, a baby.

"While the prize was being presented to Pauline Beaufort, a little woodland elf in green, Miss Peirce, the Secretary, was helping a committee prepare the refreshments. We formed in line and marched into the parlors. Miss Peirce in white costume and helmet with Y. W. C. A. in blue on hat stood by the cake, which she and Miss Martin had made and decorated. Three candles gleamed above the white frosting 'mid dancing fairies. Three little girls from the Triangle Club held corners of a blue triangle about the cake. They were Bernice Bloom, Lillian McVean, and Eleanor Heskey. Suddenly we realized that the 'Y.W.' we loved was really three years old. At the notes from the piano our voices took up the Y.W.C.A. song: 'Follow the Gleam.' We regretted that illness kept Mrs. Doris Badger Clark, our first secretary, from being present to cut the cake.

"With ice cream, delicious cake, visiting and getting acquainted and many friendly memories, the memorable evening closed."

ANNUAL MEETING

The Newton Grade Teachers' Club held its annual meeting in the new Davis School at West Newton. The following officers were elected: President, Jessie E. West; Vice-President, Marion E. Remon; Secretary, Annis M. Sturgis; Treasurer, Julia M. Tobin. The business meeting was followed by a very enjoyable program. Mrs. Jenkins read a paper describing the meeting of the National Education Association in Washington. Miss Bragg followed with an account of the Superintendent's Convention at Cincinnati. Miss Tobin sang "Mifanivny" and generously responded to two encores. The afternoon ended with refreshments and a social hour.

ANNUAL REPORT

So widespread are the civic and welfare interests represented by Newton's community council that the description of "Twelve Months of Teamwork" contained in the following report of Arthur Dunham, the Executive Secretary of the Newton Central Council, is of interest to every citizen of Newton who is concerned with seeing his city become a better place to live in. This brief story of the year's work was presented at the Council's annual meeting on March 19: Twelve Months of Teamwork.

This fifth anniversary of the Newton Central Council comes at a time when we are looking forward rather than backward. Our chief interest at this moment is in the decisions which lie just beyond the threshold of our next year of work.

Even so, it is worth while to cast one glance backward over the past twelve months and see what crags jut out above the general level of everyday effort.

Let me mention with almost telegraphic brevity eight pieces of work which seem to me to be the most important accomplishments of the year's work.

It is natural to begin with the All-Newton Community Welfare Conference, held last October. For the first time in this city, the welfare organizations of Newton, acting together, with the aid of thoughtful citizens from each of the eleven villages, set apart a full day for the telling of the story of Newton welfare work and the frank facing of community problems. The Exhibit, held in connection with the Conference, was in itself a fine product of co-operative planning and execution, and was unquestionably one of the most effective pieces of social interpretation which Newton welfare agencies have ever worked out. Seven hundred people came to the Conference sessions and saw the Exhibit; 200 more, as guests on the four Come-and-See Tours, visited selected welfare organizations in their "homes" and came face to face with some of the realities of social work in our city.

2. As a sequel to the October Come-and-See Tours, the Council in December acted as host on another special Come-and-See Tour where 42 High School freshmen and teachers spent an afternoon visiting four Newton welfare institutions. To my mind, this is one of the most significant things which we have had an opportunity to do, for it makes a beginning in bringing the story of Newton social work to the coming generation—that is, to those who must carry the responsibility for this service twenty years from now.

3. Newton's first Social Service Directory was published in October—one more step in making Newton welfare work articulate and in bringing to the people of the city some sense of the tremendous reality of social problems in this community.

4. Once a week for ten weeks during the winter, a group of fourteen to twenty people met for the intensive study of "Publicity Methods in Social Work." The sessions of the course were conducted by specialists in various fields of publicity work. While some of the organizations which needed this service the most were unrepresented, those who did send bona fide staff members received practical directions on their investment. That the course may have an even wider value, a committee of the Publicity Class is now at work preparing an outlined manual of suggestions for better publicity in social work, which will be available to every organization in the Council.

Not all our work has been in the nature of community broadcasting. In a number of different ways, the explorations of last year's Community Study have been quietly followed up and some foundation stones have been laid for the building of a sound welfare program for the future. Through a fine vision on the part of the Council and the school administration, and with the loyal co-operation of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, a Visiting Teacher or School Visitor has at last taken her place on the faculty of the Newton High School. Thus has been accomplished one of the most urgent recommendations of our Community Study—a step forward which points the way to one of the finest types of preventive social work for boys and girls and one which Newton needs to adopt on an increasingly broad scale.

5. A significant step in following up the Recreation Survey was taken last month when more than 150 people met at Newton Central Council to discuss the findings and recommendations of the Council's study of Recreation in Newton. The reports of these village conferences, which are now being assembled, represent an important body of opinion and one which will undoubtedly yield practical suggestions as to the next steps that need to be taken in carrying into effect the plan whose full completion may well extend over the next forty years. Everything will not be done at once; progress may seem slow, at times; but the Community and Civic Divisions are making a beginning of this work and they are finding a ready and sympathetic response to this call to the job of making Newton a better place to live in.

6. During December the Executive Secretary, at the request of the West Newton Neighborhood House, collaborated with a member of the Board of the House in making a careful analysis of some of the social problems of West Newton (for there are some, just as there are in every single village of this city) and in trying to evaluate the progress of the House in terms of those problems. As a result of this program, there has come a definite crystallization of sentiment and conviction on the part of the Board; the outgrown program of the settlement house will be superseded by a modern school program, carefully planned and well organized. To see the open-mindedness and the vision of these board members in meeting the challenge of new conditions has been a real inspiration. Because they faced the facts, they are ready to go out to their village with a story in which thrills a new note of conviction. They are ready to prove their case and to challenge and win the wholehearted support of their community. The congratulations and the sympathetic interest of laymen and social workers throughout Newton will be expressed at this rebirth of the newly-named West Newton Community Center, Incorporated.

7. Simple, practical common-sense and keen desire for more effective service were the foundations of the Thanksgiving and Christmas Clearing House, maintained by the Welfare Division of the Council during November and December. Eleven organizations took part in checking up their lists for holiday giving, and out of more than 300 names inquired about, over 20 per cent of duplication was discovered and averted. The significance of the Clearing House lies not so much in the prevention of duplication as in rendering it possible to extend holiday cheer to those who would otherwise have been neglected. Personal co-operation was the keynote of success—personal co-operation from the Overseer of the Poor (both the old and the new), from the Elks' Lodge, from the Newton Welfare Bureau, and from churches, Sunday Schools and various other organizations.

8. I have left what is probably the most significant accomplishment of the year until the last. For the past three months the Community Chest Study has been in progress. Under the dynamic leadership of a Chairman who has given unreservedly of his own time, thought, and effort, the members of the Committee have grappled with their task and have labored at it with an energy and understanding that has made their report an excellent final product of group workmanship. I did not write the draft of the report of this Committee and I can therefore feel free to express my opinion of it. From my knowledge of the literature of the Community Chest movement, it is my deliberate conviction that the report of Newton's Community Chest Study Committee probably presents the fairest and most searching Community Chest Study which has yet been made in a city of the size of Newton.

I do not know and no one knows whether or not we shall have a Community Chest in Newton. But we do know that we shall at least have the opportunity, within the coming weeks, of being joined with our neighbors in an additional, or mere, enthusiasm, but upon a rational judgment of the facts.

Whether we have a Chest or not, I am sure that Newton has in this Council something which is so valuable that it can not be spared in building a better welfare program for the city. For some time to come the Council will need part-time if not full-time staff services. It is of the utmost importance to make wise selections of officers and staff members and yet it is not so important that any one individual is indispensable. The Council has a life of its own, the embodiment of the vision not of any one man or woman but of a common will and a common purpose.

Here we come and go, but the spiritual impulse back of this movement for a better Newton will remain the central fact, transcending the temporary accidents of time and leadership.

This annual meeting marks the Council's choice of officers for the coming year. You know that the process of securing able and acceptable leaders is not always easy. A few days ago I received a letter from a busy man who had been urged to take one of the key positions in a division of the Council for the coming year. "I accept the appointment," he wrote, "with the understanding that this Division will be expected to do some real work during the coming year."

That is the expression of the civic patriotism which led to the founding of this Council five years ago—here is the spirit of human service which will carry the Council into the future as a leading force in making the new Newton.

"NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH"

"Nothing But the Truth," a comedy in three acts, drew an audience of about 850 last week Tuesday night in Bray hall, Newton Centre. The play was under the auspices of the Newton Centre Catholic Women's Club.

For a group of amateur thespians, all performed their parts exceptionally well—while without doubt the outstanding actor and hero of the play was James Reynolds, who took the part of Bob Bennett. The cast of characters were: Van Dusen, William Keeland; E. M. Ralston, Thomas Dean; Bishop Doran, Fred White; Dick Donnelly, James Drennan; Bob Bennett, James Reynolds; Mrs. Ralston, Katherine Curtin; Gwen Ralston, Margaret Ryan; Ethel Clark, Peggie White; Mabel and Sabal Jackson, Anita Bolger and Mary MacLinn; and Martha, played by Esther Higgins.

The director of the play was Katherine A. Linnehan. Between the acts Daniel Sullivan of Glen avenue played several selections on the piano while Mr. Troy delivered several songs and recitations.

DEATH OF MR. CHANDLER

Mr. Charles H. Chandler died at his home, 20 Waterson road, Newton, last Friday in his 83d year.

Mr. Chandler retired from active business eight years ago after serving a number of years as treasurer of Smith, Hogg & Co., commission merchant.

He was treasurer of the First Baptist Church of Cambridge for 20 years, deacon for 12, also superintendent of the Sunday School. He was a member of the New England Historic Genealogical Society.

Two sons, Albert, of Newton, and Frederick, of Winchester, also a daughter, Miss Sallie of New York, survive, together with two brothers, Lewis B. and Elmer E. Chandler.

Services were held at his late residence on Sunday, Rev. Mr. Goble of Cambridge officiating, and the burial was at Forest Hills.

COMMUNITY CHEST

The full text of the report on "Newton and the Community Chest," presented by the Community Chest Study Committee at the annual meeting of the Newton Central Council, on March 19, is as follows:

Introduction
Shall a Community Chest be established in Newton?

This report does not undertake to decide this question. The Committee was not appointed for this purpose. It has undertaken only to collect and present reliable available data upon which a decision can wisely be made. One subject, and a most important one, was designedly withheld from the scope of the Committee's study. This is the attitude of the Newton social welfare organizations themselves. It was recognized that it would be premature to approach the social agencies until after this study had been completed.

This Committee has earnestly tried to maintain an absolutely impartial position and to report only facts as found. Except as noted in the report its conclusions are unanimous. By assignment of subjects for special study by sub-committees, the entire committee has actively participated not only in the collection of data but in the preparation of this report. It is in fact the work of the entire committee and not of one or more of its members. The Committee gratefully acknowledges its indebtedness to its Secretary, Mr. Arthur Dunham, for collecting material and for his prompt and expert attention to many executive and all clerical details of the work.

The Situation in Newton
The Agencies.—Forty-seven welfare and civic organizations are listed in the Newton Social Service Directory. Eighteen of these organizations raise and contribute money toward the support of their programs, but only a few of them are eligible to membership in a Chest, if one were organized. The remainder of the forty-seven organizations include municipal departments, civic organizations receiving their support from membership dues or other special sources, and institutions which are located in Newton but render service to and derive support from a territory outside of Newton.

During the last fiscal year for which figures were obtainable (in no case earlier than 1923) the eighteen agencies mentioned above raised the following amounts from voluntary contributions:

American Red Cross, Newton Chapter, $12,737.70; Bowen School Center, $108.05; Boy Scouts of America, Norwaga Council (estimated), $3,000; Girl Scouts, Newton Local Council (including Camp Mary A. Day), $3,798.40; Mothers' Rest Association of the City of Newton, $4,348.59; Newton Central Council, $7,439.28; Newton Circle Club, $4,489.95; Newton District Nursing Association, $4,722.32; Newton Hospital, $31,356.12; Newton Welfare Bureau (including Christmas Seal Fund), $14,766.80; Newton Young Men's Christian Association, $13,861; Stearns School Center, $2,490.94; West Newton Music School, Inc., $4,640.92; West Newton Neighborhood House, Inc., $4,265.62; Young Women's Christian Association of Newton, Massachusetts, $6,812.20. The total raised by fifteen Council agencies included in this study was $119,887.92, and the estimated amount raised by three non-Council agencies was $13,062.44; giving a total estimated amount raised by eighteen Newton welfare agencies of $132,950.36.

The foregoing figures show only actual money raised during the past fiscal year, excluding funds raised through certain agencies for work outside of Newton. These amounts are not estimates of funds required during the current year, which in several cases will be more or less than the amounts reported. The Committee estimates that in aggregate all the above organizations will require, with normal expansion in activities, about $140,000 from voluntary contributions for current operating expenses, during the present year. The total budgets of the organizations are substantially more than this amount, however, because some organizations derive a part of their income from earnings, interest from investments, and other sources.

It must not be assumed that any of these agencies is committed to or in favor of central financing. All are free to oppose the Chest plan.

The Contributors.—It has been impracticable to determine the total number of contributors to these agencies or to analyze the amount contributed. But the Committee, by courtesy of three important agencies has made the following analysis of all contributions made to these three agencies during their last fiscal year.

A total of $47,911.80 was contributed to these three agencies by 1942 contributors. Ninety per cent of the amount was contributed by 1909 individuals, 2 per cent by business firms and corporations, and 4 per cent by clubs, churches, and other organizations.

The bulk of the contributions to the three agencies was given by a very small proportion of the individual contributors. Nine per cent of the contributors furnished 54 per cent of the money. Sixty-one per cent of the givers contributed only 15 per cent of the total.

It is interesting to note that 63 per cent of the 1909 individual contributors contributed to only one of these three large agencies, while only 10 per cent contributed to all three.

Resources.—It is impossible to collect reliable data which will show even approximately the aggregate wealth or income of Newton's citizens. In order to make possible some estimate of the resources of the community, the Committee reports the following figures for the year 1924: Total valuation of real and personal property, $109,632,000; Total State, City, and County tax levy in Newton, $3,033,000; Total school appropriation, $970,000.

From the above it will be noted that the estimated total voluntary contributions required in 1925 to support the above agencies ($140,000) is one-eighth of 1 per cent of assessed wealth of real and tangible personal property, less than 5 per cent of the aggregate amount raised this year for State, City, and County taxes, and about 14 per cent of the school appropriation.

Hearts and Dollars

Two Statements—one of which has to do with Health and Welfare, the other with Financial Strength

AN OPEN LETTER

(Name on Request)

Mr. HALEY FISKE, President
METROPOLITAN LIFE INSURANCE CO.
NEW YORK CITY

My Dear Mr. Fiske:

Why don't you publish a Heart Statement along with the regular Financial Statement you put out each year?

Any company can publish impressive figures of financial strength, financial growth, etc. But figures don't stick. All I remember from your last year's Statement is that the Metropolitan has several million policyholders and is the biggest life insurance company in the world.

I've been following some of your magazine

advertisements lately that tell of work you're doing to help people live longer. It isn't entirely clear in my mind just how you're doing it or why you do it, but since you are doing it, give us the facts and figures on that. Call it a Heart Statement or a Welfare Statement, or anything you like, but—give us the facts.

Perhaps other Metropolitan policyholders like myself would be interested in a Statement of that kind.

Very truly yours,

C. N. S.—.

WE are indebted to Mr. S. for his suggestion. It is an excellent one. We publish an annual Business Statement of the Metropolitan, not because we think that the figures will be remembered, but because they offer conclusive evidence of unusual growth and strength to its 22,000,000 policyholders.

And it is this extraordinary financial strength that makes it possible for the Metropolitan to carry on a nation-wide campaign for better health and longer life.

People now live longer

Records kept by the Metropolitan show an extraordinary decrease in the death rate among its policyholders. Compared with 1911, for example, there were nearly 62,000 fewer deaths in 1924 among its Industrial Policyholders than there would have been if the 1911 death rate had prevailed.

While the average life span in the United States is 51 1/2 years greater than it was 12 years ago, the life span of the Industrial Policyholders of the Metropolitan increased nearly 8 1/2 years—a betterment of three years over the general average—in the same interval.

These increases in longer life are due in large part to the Metropolitan's Health and Welfare Work among its policyholders.

You are the gainer

You and all the other 22,000,000 policyholders—one out of every six people in the United States and Canada—reap the benefit through better health and decreased cost of insurance.

The wealth of the Metropolitan belongs to you and to no one else. The Metropolitan has no stock and no stockholders. It is owned solely by its policyholders.

You, as one of the policyholders, share in the ownership of all its investments; in its railroad bonds, its real-estate mortgages, its loans to farmers, loans to states, cities and towns for public improvements and similar enterprises.

You, as a part-owner of over $1,600,000,000, should read the two statements on the left with a feeling of pride in what your company has achieved.

The efforts as well as the assets of the Metropolitan are dedicated to protection against future want—to greater happiness, better health and longer life.

Haley Fiske.

TOWLE ESTATE DEVELOPMENT

The beautiful estate of the late Loren D. Towle, fronting on Centre and Cabot street, Newton, will be subdivided into large house lots and placed on the market for sale immediately, according to an announcement of Charles A. Gleason, the head of the Edward T. Harrington Company, well-known high grade land developers.

The Towle estate enjoys the distinction of being one of the most magnificent estates in New England. It was built by the late Loren D. Towle, one of the most successful real estate operators of his time. In his efforts to build a residence that would conform with his dream of a model home, he searched several European countries for ideas to embody into it. More than a million dollars was spent by him in its construction. The tragic thing about it is that he died before he had a chance to enjoy the fruits of his efforts.

Since Mr. Towle's death the property has been acquired by other interests who have decided to subdivide the grounds into large and spacious house lots. All of the property has been carefully restricted and none of the lots will be sold to anyone whose character or reputation would be objectionable to high grade American citizens.

The subdivision and the development of the property is in the hands of the Edward T. Harrington Company, whose success in the promotion of Belmont, and its contributions to the building of Winchester, Newton, Atlantic, Wollaston and other excellent residential sections has been remarkable.

Under the plans laid out by Mr. Gleason, streets and other necessary improvements will be started on the estate immediately. During the period of its construction all of the vast experience of Mr. Gleason and his organization will be concentrated upon it. It is the intention of the former to make it the most beautiful residential section of Newton.

Representatives of the Harrington company will be on the land daily to show visitors about and to furnish any information desired. Approximately 40 acres of land will be sold.
